AYER'S Sarsaparilla

Mr. Nicholson says: "I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose; the cancer began to spread to my chin, and I suffered in agony for seven long years. Finally, I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. In a week or two I noticed a Decided Improvement.

Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore under my chin began to heal. In three months my lip began to heal, and, after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."

The Ice Carnival

PHANTASMAGORIA LET LOOSE.

"There was a sound of revelry,"—but no I will not drop into poetry, for the mise-en-scene is not poetic.

In the first place there are about five lamps where there should be at least twenty. In the next place the costumes to a perfectly can did and fearless critic have a trifle tawdry, loose-jointed-draggle tailed-pitch-forked-together and pinned there kind of a look. Some of these costumes are labelled, which is a blessing, or nobody could guess what under the canopy they represent; some of them look as if they were worn merely to enable the wearers to get in five cents cheaper than other people, a few look as if some care and thought had been expended upon them and so were neat and attractive. And we are told that Flesherton carnivals beat all from Thornbury to Durham and back again. Well, Durham had a carnival the other night, and there was one! masker and that was a bear, and I am told the rich entertainment afforded by this bear was augmented by one! race. Pity if we couldn't beat that!

The foregoing was the kind of an ugly dream I fell into as I looked down upon the moving panorama from the vantage point of the band gallery. When I awakened the band was playing the languorous, amorous "Daughter of love," waltzes, and I discerned Mephisto all scarlet from top to toe, emerge from the gloom of a distant corner and sidle up in his most insinuating way, to the very pretty nun. "Ah! no one can say he is not a true representation, he just looks like the—that is, like Mephisto" thought I, "Even his hobnobbing with the nun would be regarded by some people as his most characteristic feature. But the pale, pretty nun will have none of him (no pun intended) and he is forced to take himself and his attentions to Mary Queen of Scotts, who probably feels quite safe as she catches the glint of the gold cross at the end of her rosary.

In and out through the fantastic throng, flit the seasons in a most bewildering disorder never contemplated by nature, excepting that winter clings to the skirts of spring, in the tiresome fashion he has in this Canada of ours; in and out speeds midnight with her stars and moon hand in hand with the sun at noon day; in and out in a gorgeous medley float spanish dancers and tambourine girls swaying to the rythmic throbbing of the music; in and out dart big and little darkies, clown, punchinello and flower girls, under the dignified nose of the circassian beauty, whose long white hair floats to her long swaying motion.

The tramp with black eye, patched up features and ragged clothes dogs her footsteps possibly to ask for pie, but is disdainfully refused.

Hard after the fat man stalks the skeleton who has broken loose from somebody's closet no doubt, and now, takes a sardonic pleasure in revealing what was hitherto jealously guarded as a miserable secret. Get back to your closet sir! Cease to be the "death's head at the feast."

From a dark corner is heard a piercing scream. Little Red Riding Hood reaching for her cloak turns to find Rough Brum regarding her benignly, but at too close quarters. Of lying wolves she has no fears, but a great big bear is different, so she hands him over without mercy to the Indian chieftain and chieftainess who, after a good chase and much firing dispatch him. To the grief of anti-annexationists Miss Canada is seen to be coquetting shamefully with Uncle Sam, flirting her little flags at him, making quite a display of her gilded maple leaves and in other ways "Drawing him on." It is a mercy John Bull comes along just then and taking her in charge, diverts her wandering fancy to himself, and the swift strong skate he is able to give her, dilates upon the beauty of the "Old Flag" and how well it becomes her. Just here, the band moved by the eternal fitness of things, stricks up "The Maple Leaf forever" and Canada is saved.

And now the ice is cleared and the music changes to the Irish Washerwoman, while the best comic boy costume is being competed for. Away they go with the rollicking abandon only seen in the small boy. The little clown capers and twists and jumps about with a perfect immunity from falling, while the 3 ft. high washerwoman is "Hail fellow well met" with the darky dude and wench. But this isn't a patch to the fun and excitement attendant upon the barrel race. One wonders how the four little rascals are each going to go through two barrels in one round, but they do it, looking like ferrets darting after a rat as they each make for their barrel. How they squirm and wiggle, the miserable barrel rolling about on the ice all the while! Sometimes two make for the same barrel then time is lost in the tussle and like as not one fellow gives up, does not go through the barrel at all but goes between instead, quite forgetting in his excitement that this disqualifies him. The other races and competitions are interesting enough, especially the one which carried with it the $5 cash prize, but the kids' part in the evening performance distanced the others in the matter of pure fun to my mind.

Sandy Blue, of Chesley, got drunk and lay out in the snow. As a consequence the doctor amputated every finger, and he has now only the thumb of his left hand left. This is a terrible price to pay for an evening carousal with the intoxicating bowl

A veterinary expert from the Department of Agriculture visited Mr Joseph Jackson's farm near Peabody, in Sullivan, recently, and superintended the killing of four of the affected cattle. The disease with which Mr. Jackson's cattle are affected is cancer of the bone, which the Government expert declared could be cured if taken in time, although he declined a tempting bet to the contrary which was offered by Mr Jackson. Mr. D. R. Bone, V. S of Desboro, is treating the balance of the affected herd and hopes to effect a cure of at least six of them.--Chatsworth News.

I have had grand success with my bull, Lord Balco, as a stock getter. On account of hard times I have decided to run him at $1.00 per cow for 1896 payable Jan. 1st 1897. If not paid on or before that date 25 cts. extra will be charged.

FOR SALE,— I have also for sale a young thoroughbred bull, which took first prize at Flesherton and Markdale fairs sired by Lord Balco, dam Laday Clonmore, one of the best milking cows that ever came into this country.

Result of a Neglected Cold.
DISEASED LUNGS

Which Doctors Failed to Help,

CURED BY TAKING

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral.

"I contracted a severe cold, which settled on my lungs, and I did what is often done in such cases, neglected it, thinking it would go away as it came; but I found, after a little while, that the slightest exertion pained me. I then who found, on examining my lungs, that the upper part of the left one was badly affected. He gave me some medicine which I took as directed, but it did not seem to do any good. Fortunately, I happened to read in Ayer's Almanac, of the effect that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral had on others, and I determined to give it a trial. After taking a few doses my trouble was relieved, and before I had finished the bottle I was cured."—A. LEFLAR, watchmaker, Orangeville, Ont.

Consulted a Doctor
