Mr. Nicholson says: "I consulted doctors who prescribed for me, but to no purpose; the cancer began to Encouraged by this result, I persevered, until in a month or so the sore under my chin began to heal. In three months my lip began to heal, and, after using the Sarsaparilla for six months, the last trace of the cancer disappeared."

MRS. GEO. MOONEHOUSE

DOT'S CORNER.

Politics turn around queerly; they are about as volatile as the weather. Sir John Macdonald used to say, "These are three uncertainties; the results of a war, the results of a lawsuit and the results of an election." It seems that the member so well known to us all who might have been Minister of Agriculture, but for his opposition to the Remedial Bill, is likely to encounter a cold wave from a few of his constituents, who believe in party before principle.

These recalcitrant few are more than balanced however, by the accession of life-long Reformers to his banner who have no taste for Mr. Laurier's six months hoist, but have a great taste for Dr. Sproule's stand.

∴

But we who have clamored so incessantly against Remedial Legistation--are we prepared for the alternative? For in the name of all that's just and right, secular schools are the alternative. And not only in Manitoba, but in every province in the Dominion, this question will sooner or later present itself and demand an answer.

And the sooner it is settled against separate schools and in favor of secular or national schools, the sooner we shall be on the highway to national unity and national greatness.

Why in the name of common sense should we perpetuate in the rising generation those old antipathies and prejudices which have in the past, and will in the future be the cause of so much strife? Surely our legislators have plenty to do in attending to the practical work of managing our national finances, developing our resources and building up our material interest, without being perpetually harassed by embarassing creed and race "questions."

∴

That past generations have been too truculent to that power which has since the early centuries of the Christian Era made it its policy to intrude itself into the affairs of the state, is too true, and it is high time that we in Canada should stop short in this line of action; nevertheless we cannot in fairness take from them a single right which we ourselves retain. And what is this right? A farcical and abortive attempt at showing respect to religion by a perfunctory reading of the Scriptures and the "saying" of a prayer. And this ghastly formality is what we obstinately cling to, and by so doing give Catholics the right to demand a like privelege. "And so the play goes on," and each generation has its own particularly annoying form of the question, "how to meet the contending interests of Catholic and Protestant without offending them." It is a well known fact that where Catholics and Protestants are mingled in a community, they find each other very good neighbors; becoming interdependant upon each other for kindly human services, they soon find that their creeds are a very thin varnish indeed, which the great crises of life are apt to rub off and reveal much the same material beneath. This is good for both Catholic and Protestant, drawing them together in the bonds of human brotherhood while it permanently impairs the creed of neither.

∴

One dear old Irish body in describing the burial of her husband, mentioned among the bearers some Protestant neighbors, and from time to time alluded to the kindness of her Protestant and Catholic neighbors, making no distrimination and seeing nothing extraordinary about it, until we expostulated: Surely some of these people were Protestants and therefore to be abhorred. Her reply was "Och! the heart's the church." The pure kindly heart of this unlettered old women had taught her this profound lesson. I inwardly wondered how many Protestants of my acquaintance had looked beneath the surface of things enought to say, "The heart is the Church."

DOT.

Brantford is to be congratulated on having only three sinners in a resent congregation. The fact was demonstrated on Sunday evening when a city minister called upon all sinners in that audience to stand up, and only that number responded. One of these, a well known gentleman, rose up from where he was sitting beside his good wife, when his spouse was heard remonstrating with him and telling him he was not a sinner. The good man was firm in his conviction that he was a corrupt mortal, however, and replied somewhat testily, "I am a sinner, and you are another," and would not sit down. The event caused considerable amusement.

Almost a Hopeless Case.

A Terrible Cough. No Rest Night nor Day. Given up by Doctors.

A LIFE SAVED

BY TAKING

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Several years ago, I caught a severe cold, attended with a terrible cough that allowed me no rest, either day or night. The doctors, after working over me to the best of their ability, pronounced my case hopeless, and said they could do no more for me. A friend, learning of my trouble, sent me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which I began to take, and very soon I was greatly relieved. By the time I had used the whole bottle, I was completely cured. I have never had much of a cough since that time, and I firmly believe that Ayer's Cherry Pectoral saved my life."—W. H.
