CURIOUS WAYS IN JAPAN.

One Thing In Particular That Pained a Visitor From Missouri.

I knew before I got here that Japan was queer, but I had no idea that everything was backward. I can't get used to sitting on the floor and sleeping with a tomato can with a napkin around it for a pillow. The easiest way to figure out how the Japanese would do a thing is to think what would be exactly backward in Missouri. When two Japanese meet they bow and bow, giving their heads short jerks as if trying to get salt water out of their eyes. When they separate they tip their hats. When they come into a store they tip their hats. When they buy a ticket they tip their hats. Their elbows are always bent toward their hats.

Japanese never kiss. This pleasant pastime has not yet been imported into cherry blossom land. It is only recently that a few of the Japanese have learned to shake hands. We travelers are hoping that they will take up other great American institutions. Japanese look upon kissing as being low and vulgar, believing that a few moments spent in bowing is much better. The girls feel that way about it, too—they say.

When an ardent young Japanese suitor slips his arm around the girl's waist and whispers into her shell-like ear that she is the only woman who has ever understood him and when she looks up confidingly into his eyes and breathes "You are so strong!" he does not clasp her to his bosom in an ecstasy of joy and plant a delirious kiss on her trembling lips—no, instead of that he gets up and bows politely and thanks her in a few courteous phrases.

One cannot help feeling sorry for them when thinking how many pleasant evenings they miss. From my limited experience I wouldn't give a good old fashioned Missouri kiss for ten minutes of bows.—Homer Croy in Leslie's.

Reversing a Phonograph Record.

A remarkably curious experiment may be performed with any ordinary phonograph. The sound box is reversed so that the needle slopes the other way, enabling the disk to be turned backward by the finger being placed near the center. The effect produced is extremely astonishing. You hear the human voice singing songs backward; you hear the harmony of Wagner backward—plain English sounds like a Chinese language. The most remarkable effect is perhaps to play a chime of bells in this reversed manner. The sound rushes up and up, but there is never a single strike or clash of a bell. The strike on the ear is reversed and is nothing but a sharp "cessation of sound."—Strand Magazine.

A Scene Before the Mirror.

What the jungle ladies of Africa lack in clothing they make up in hair adornment. Some styles are pleasing, while others are very grotesque. Their hair combs are made of a very tough wood, and they need be tough, for one of the feminine customs is to put gum all through their hair to keep it in place. A very strong comb is needed to get it apart, but the women contrive somehow to do it, and as time is not money in Africa they are never in a hurry. One is not surprised to learn that sometimes it takes a woman a week to have her hair properly arranged.—Christian Herald.

Aftermath.

"Aftermath" is a persistently ill used word. Early July is the time of the "math"—that is, the first mowing of the meadow. The short grass with a sufficiency of rain will grow again, and later will come the "second mow," or "aftermath." The phrase "The storm and its aftermath" seems a favorite with some story writers, but it is difficult to understand how a storm can have a second mowing.

No Place For Letters.

A learned young woman of Boston was spending her vacation in a little country place. To the local bookshop of the village she went one afternoon and made known her mental wants to the clerk:

"I should like the 'Letters of Jane Welsh Carlyle.'"

"I beg your pardon, miss," said the clerk, "but this ain't no postoffice."—New York Globe.

The Hohenzollerns.

The family name of the German emperor is Hohenzollern. If the emperor were just a plain man of the people his name would be William Hohenzollern. The family began to gain political distinction about 1417, when Frederick of Nuremberg became elector of Brandenburg.

One of our teachers on the public school staff asked her class one day last week to draw a map of the British flag. All the class made the drawing except one little chap who made no effort to do as he was told. The teacher was inclined to censure the boy for disobedience but first asked him why he was not doing the drawing and to which the boy replied, "I can't draw the British flag with crayons made in Germany." Needless to say the teacher excused the little chap.—Tara Leader.

A Defence of Pastor Russel

To the Editor:—Would you kindly permit me space in your columns for the following defence of Pastor Russell and his teachings.

Surely humanity are in great need of such good tidings as is contained in the Gospel. "Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy which shall be unto all people," Luke 2:10, with its sins, sicknesses, many distresses, wars, etc. And such a promise we find held out to mankind by all the holy prophets, both in the Old Testament and in the New, Acts 3:19-25; Isa 65: 17-25; Rev. 21: 1 8. And for this reign of blessing and righteousness our Lord and Master taught us to hope and pray for "that His will might be done on earth, even as it is done in heaven." Should we not rejoice that the scriptures seem to indicate that those days are at hand—even at the door. It is true that they are ushered in by a "great time of trouble such as never was" before or ever will be again, Dan. 12:1-4; Psa. 50:3-6; Rev. 11:17-18. However, we are assured that this time of trouble is but to prepare the hearts of men for the reign of peace and blessing, when "men shall beat their swords in plow shares and their spears into pruning hooks, and learn war no more, Isa 2:2-4; and "when the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the great deep" for all shall learn to know Him from the least unto the greatest; instead of the "gross darkness that covers the earth" as at the present time, Isa 11:9; 60:2; and when the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose; when the tongue of the dumb shall be unstopped, the blind shall see and when none shall say "I am sick," Isa 33:24; and 35th chapter. We are living in the day when the plowman is overtaking the reaper; the closing of the Gospel Age and the opening of the New Age. The Gospel church is about to enter into the realization of the hope held out to her since our Lord's announcement of it, Luke 12:31-32; 2 Tim. 2:12; Psa. 49: 14 and 149 entire; Rev. 2: 26-27; Gen. 28: 13 14; Gal. 3: 16-29. Well may the faithful, consecrated children of the Lord rejoice as they see these things coming to pass, Luke 21:25 36, and of having a share in the First Resurrection, 1 Thess. 4:16; 5:1-10; Rev. 20:6 Let those who have named the name of Christ put on the whole armor of God that they may be able to stand in this evil day, Matt. 7:24-27; 1 Cor. 3:9 17; Jude 12. Because our Lord used fire in figurative language to show the utter destruction of the wicked sinner many have made the mistake of taking them as literal terms—"opening His mouth in parables and dark sayings," Psa. 78:2; Mark 4:2, 10-13.

St. Paul says that "the wages of sin is death," Romans 6:23; 2 Thess. 1:9. "Our God is a consuming fire"—not a perpetuating fire and "is able to destroy that soul in Gehenna," the second death Matt. 10 28; Acts 3:23; Ezek. 18: 4-20; Psa. 145:20. Let us take God at His word. He claims for Himself perfect co-ordination in the four attributes of His character—perfect wisdom, perfect justice, perfect love and perfect power. "He cannot deny Himself" or violate any of His attributes, 2 Tim. 2:13.

Because we thus teach that God thus demonstrates that He is a God of Justice as well as of Love, and that all hope of a future life is by a resurrection from the dead, provided through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, we are called teachers of Demonism. See Luke 14:14; John 5:28, 29; Acts 17:18 and 24:15; 1 Cor. 15:20-22, 26, 52. The scriptures forewarn us that there shall be teachers teaching for doctrines the commandments of men, Matt. 15:9; Psa. 6:4, 5; 88:11, 12; 115:17; 146:2-4; 90:3; Eccl. 9: 5, 10; Matt. 3:18.

What could be plainer. The course of study of the noble Bereans should commend itself to all wise virgins, proving all things and holding fast that which is good, 1 Thess. 5:21, and this we cannot do unless we exercise our own individual judgment and discrimination in testing teaching by the word of God, Heb. 5:11-14; Phil. 1:9, 10. Strange as it may seem, some ministers apparently think they are doing God service in attacking Pastor Russell and his co-laborers by misrepresentation and even slander. We would remind them that faithfulness to the truth has always brought persecution from those who are worsted in argument and confounded by teachings that cannot be refuted: instance the case of our Lord and many of the Apostles and prophets, and even down to our day.

Let us as teachers not forget the Golden Rule or the law of love and speak evil of no man.

Respectfully submitted,
W. C. TAYLOR.

Good News Held Back

An Englishman just across from London and in New York, on Saturday stated that the British Government is keeping back a lot of good news of German airships destroyed, of German submarine boats that never came back to tell their story, and of news that the allies will be joined by other countries on a date that has been fixed. One story is that a small tank steamer full of gasoline, flying the Norwegian flag, was captured off the English coast. The German crew on board was taken off and an English crew put aboard. The boat that captured the tanker sailed away and left the latter floating about. In a few minutes a German submarine came to the surface, and seeing the tanker and the Norwegian flag still up, ran to her for gasoline. She was destroyed by a mine placed in her track by the British sailors on the tanker. Stories of things like these are not given out and the Germans, in consequence get no explanation of torpedo boats of theirs that are never heard of again.

Derivation of "Trolley."

A curious statement appeared in Le Figaro of Paris regarding the derivation of the word "trolley," which is said to be identical with the French slang expression "troler" (to drag along).

Le Figaro asserts that the word was first used by Berger, the French inventor, who installed the New York street car system with power transmitted through overhead cables.

Desiring to distinguish this system from the accumulator driven system, his cars being apparently "dragged along" by the cables, Berger employed the word "trolcars," remembering that the Paris street venders were called "troleurs" because they dragged along handcarts.

Lavender Sachet.

Fold a piece of sheer Swiss muslin 18 by 7 inches to make an oblong 9 by 7 inches. Bind with three-quarter inch lavender satin ribbon, leaving unbound a small opening at the end of one side until about one and a half ounces of lavender buds have been put into the pad. Finish binding, turn down the left hand corner and catch with a bow of the lavender ribbon. Buy one and a half yards of ribbon. This sachet makes a dainty gift and is inexpensive. Keep it in a bureau drawer.

Cracow.

Cracow, towards which the Russians are so steadily pressing their way, stands even before Warsaw in the minds of Polish patriots. Not only was it once the capital of free Poland, with a cathedral equivalent to Westminster Abbey, wherein sleep the generations of Polish kings and heroes, but it possesses the most striking patriotic memorial in the world. This is the Kosciuskoberg, a mound 300 feet high, erected to the memory of Kosciusko, and formed of earth from every battlefield of Poland.
