SWP means Sherwin-Williams Paint (Prepared). This is the best paint for you to use because it is made of pure materials—pure lead, pure zinc, pure Linseed Oil, and pure coloring pigments which are thoroughly mixed and ground in scientific proportions by powerful machinery.

It is better than the old fashioned hand-mixed paint because the materials are put together according to correct chemical formulae which have been tested out in a practical way. • Its fine grinding makes it cover nearly 50% more surface than hand-mixed paint.

SWP is an economical paint because it will cover the greatest amount of surface, wear longest, and look best.—Ask us for color cards.

The directors of the Guelph and South Wellington Agricultural Society will not hold a fall fair this year owing to the war. It was felt that the call on the public for funds for patriotic relief and other emergent purposes were so heavy, and that the money necessary to carry on a successful show would be better devoted to these purposes for this year, and a motion to that effect was carried unanimously. The directors will enter upon the work with renewed energy next year. The directors of the Northern Exhibition have not yet decided whether they will follow the course of the Wellington directors or not.

CANADA'S CHANCE.

Big Opportunity Is Opening Up In Russian Market.

Looking forward to the days of peace that will follow the war, our House of Commons the other afternoon saw in the future bright prospects of an increased trade with Russia, where certain of our exports should find a wider and a very profitable market. Russia has always bought many lines of manufactures, and some of those lines Canada is as well qualified to supply as is any other country.

In the past Germany to a considerable extent has kept Russia in leading strings, both industrially and financially. Berlin has been Russia's banker, and the factories of East Prussia have to a large extent supplied Russia's demand for manufactures. The war will end all that—of course it has ended it temporarily and it will end it permanently, provided other countries are prepared to step in and supply the goods Russia will require.

Writing from Moscow, a British consul has directed the attention of his countrymen to the wide market that is opening to them and exhorts them to study the conditions of that market so as to be in a position to meet its requirements and satisfy the demands of the Russian people, eager to free themselves from the grip of German manufacturers, or at any rate eager to so conduct their business in the future as to be financially and industrially independent of Germany, now Russia's deadly enemy, and always her rival.

Their own country is so vast and its agricultural resources so great that Canadians are sometimes apt to forget that there are others. All the same there are others, and Russia is one of them. Possibly no other country possesses equal agricultural resources, and, like our own, they have drawn on only to a small extent in comparison with their possibilities.

Russia has long been a great wheat-producing country, part of her surplus of foodstuffs, going, like our own supplies of like goods, to the markets of Great Britain. An era of better agricultural methods had set in before the war, and when the war has ended the era will continue. This war, which for Russia is being fought to ensure to the Slavonic peoples the place in Europe to which they are entitled, will bring about a great awakening in the vast empire of the Czar. Russia is going to secure better ports, agricultural production will be stimulated, and her need of agricultural implements will steadily increase and be enormous for many years. And it is with respect to that demand that Canada will have an opportunity of increasing her exports to Russia.

In normal times our exports have an annual value of almost half a billion dollars, of which those to countries not British had a value last year of almost two hundred million dollars. Those to the Russian Empire had a value of $1,430,430, of which $1,140,430 represened the value of agricultural implements. Already Canadian trade is on the right track. Let it follow it with vigor and supply to a large extent the needs of the Russian farmers.

Of the exports of agricultural implements to Russia from Canada harvesters led, with almost half a million dollars; drills were second, with almost three hundred thousand dollars; mowing machines third, with one hundred and twenty-eight thousand; and the remainder of these exports consisted of cultivators, reapers, ploughs, harrows and so forth—the implements in use on every well-conducted Canadian farm.

Canadian manufacturers can make these implements as well as they can be made anywhere; and for many years Russia will be buying these implements in very large quantities. Canadian manufacturers already have a share in this trade, and if they take full advantage of their opportunities they should increase their share enormously.—Montreal Standard.

Notice to Creditors

In the matter of the Estate of John Douglas, late of the Township of Osprey, in the County of Grey, Farmer, deceased.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to "The Trustee Act", and amendments thereto, that all creditors and others having claims against the estate of the said John Douglas, who died on [or about the twenty-fourth day of April, A.D. 1915, are required on or before the first day of July, A. D. 1915, to send by post prepaid or deliver to Messrs. Wright, Telford & McDonald, Owen Sound, Solicitors for the Executors of the last will and testament of the said John Douglas, deceased, their Christian and surnames, addresses and descriptions, the full particulars of their claims and the nature of the securties, if any, held by them.

And further take notice that after such last mentioned date the said Executors will proceed to distribute the assets of the deceased among the parties entitled thereto, having regard only to the claims of which they shall then have notice, and that the said Executors will not be liable for the said assets or any part thereof to any person or persons of whose claim notice shall not have been received by them at the time of such distribution.

Dated the first day of June, 1915.

A Pointer for Our Billie

The old Meaford stage, one of the most picturesque survivals of the early days when stageing was so common, has undergone another transition, for the summer, at least, with the installation of motor cars by Thompson Bros. The horses have been turned out to grass for the summer or sold off. For the summer the horse has been superseded by the gasoline waggon. Of course the winter will bring the horse into his own again. The motor is proving to be very much better method of transporting passengers than the old horse rig. The time made is much faster and satisfaction among the passengers more than recompenses them for any extra expense. The new line leaves here forenoon and afternoon as usual, but the horses do not have to be changed at Woodford.—Mirror.

Hand Badly Crushed

Whilst feeding a Gordon press in the Review-Herald office, Clarksburg, on Monday of this week, Miss Sadie Wright got her right hand caught between the type bed and feed bed of the press, and it was so badly crushed that she was at once hurried to Dr. Moore's surgery, where her wounds were quickly dressed.

It is hoped that the accident will not seriously impair the use of her right hand for any great length of time, but Miss Wright will certainly not be in a position to resume her occupation for several weeks under any circumstances.

The young lady displayed wonderful courage and self control throughout it all, and has the sympathy and good-will of the entire community.—Review.

The Kaiser and Church Union

Good results from the war continue to make themselves apparent every week. The latest is the decided impetus given to the Church Union movement, which is in evidence in the shape of a new resolution submitted to the Presbyterian General Assembly, which declares that union is more than ever desirable because, "by the outbreak of war, a new situation has been created, among the elements of which are: A changed judgment of values, so that matters which formerly distracted and divided men are now accounted trivial in the presence of the vast issues involved; a weakening of class distinctions; a new spirit of self-sacrifice, which is impressively illustrated by our soldiers and our King, and which the church is called upon to exhibit; an expected increase in the volume of immigration into Canada after the close of the war, demanding the greatest concentration of moral and religious forces; and the world's financial exhaustion, requiring the utmost possible economy of resources."

It begins to look as if the Kaiser, in addition to cementing the British Empire, will also succeed in cementing together a vast number of Christians whose reasons for staying apart and giving one another the cold shoulder have long been purely historic. We fancy that those Presbyterians who have fought and died for the Empire and Christian civilization, shoulder to shoulder with men of other church bodies but the same faith and the same ideals, would if alive be the first to welcome that broader Church in which so many of their fellow-countrymen are to be enabled to come together.—Beck's Weekly.

Homeseekers' Excursions To Western Canada

Durham

There were 104 pigs shipped from the station here on Tuesday, $9.30 per hundredweight being paid.

Word was received here on Saturday by Mr. Frank Bunce that his only brother, Lance-Corporal A. Bunce, was killed in action on the 9th of May.

Rev. Mr. Prudham, pastor of the Methodist church here for the past three years, will go to Wiarton at the end of the present term. His successor is Rev. E. S. Moyer.

At the Liberal convention held here yesterday, Mr. H. H. Miller was chosen as candidate in the next Federal election. The candidate, Hon. George P. Graham, and others, addressed the meeting in the Liberal interests. There was a good attendance.

We regret to chronicle the death of William James Matthews, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Matthews, who died on Tuesday, after an illness of only two weeks from typhoid, pneumonia and other complications. The young lad was only a little over 16 years of age and for some time has been engaged with the Durham Furniture Company, where he rendered good service, and was popular with his employers and fellow workmen.—Chronicle.

Mr. John H. Shaw of West Luther was the victim of a peculiar accident, in which he sustained several bruises and a severe shaking up. He was bringing a fat cow to the station loaded in a wagon. Just as he turned out of his own gate, the cow decided to ride no further and immediately put her decision into effect. She managed to upset the wagon, pinning Mr. Shaw under the rack. His boy, who was with him, jumped and escaped uninjured. To make the mixup worse, the team, a pair of colts, took fright and dashed down the road, where they crashed into a telephone pole. Mr. Shaw's head and face were badly cut and scratched and his right arm severely bruised. He will be unable to do any work for some time. The wagon was badly wrecked while the cow escaped uninjured to enjoy the extra week of life which her determined efforts won for her.—Arthur Enterprise.
