The SNAPSHOT GUILD

NIGHT STREET SCENES

Wet pavements add interest to night street scenes.

BELIEVE it or not, lighted street scenes can be photographed—even with the most inexpensive cameras—with little more experience than it takes to make a snapshot in bright sunlight. The lighted theater and business districts of the average town or city offer opportunities for strikingly attractive pictures. If the pavements are wet, so much the better, for the resulting reflections will add charm and interest. Indeed, a rainy night should be preferred for night street scenes.

Such pictures require fairly long time exposures. Do not be concerned by the passing of persons or vehicles in the field of vision—because they will not be recorded on the film provided they do not stop and provided the lights from automobiles do not shine directly into the camera lens. If an automobile or trolley car comes toward the camera, either close the shutter or hold something dark over the lens until it has passed.

Be careful not to move the camera. The length of exposure will necessarily depend on the quantity and quality of the light on the scene and the size of the stop opening of the camera. With stop f.8 or f.11, an exposure of from two to ten minutes for a well lighted subject will give satisfactory results. If the illumination is weak, the exposure may have to be increased to twenty-five minutes or more.

Buildings all or partly outlined with electric lights (the lights showing as tiny white disks on a black background) make fantastically interesting pictures. Details of the building should not show in the finished print or the effect will be spoiled; therefore, care should be taken to avoid overexposure. Use stop opening f.16 and allow about five to fifteen seconds depending on the brilliancy of the lights. This setting should give detail around the lights only and make them stand out.

Many public buildings are brilliantly illuminated with floodlights. These lighting effects can be registered on film with five and ten minute exposures, using stop f.16. Make a note of the diaphragm setting and the length of the exposure on your first picture. If over or underexposed, profit by your first experience and try again. Don't get discouraged by a failure. Experience is a great teacher.

When he got out of his car to adjust one of the chains which had broken when approaching the John St. subway, under the C.N.R. on Monday, Dr. McAllister slipped and fell on the ice covered roadway. He received severe bruises about the head and had one wrist severely sprained. The Dr's many friends hope to see him around as usual in a few days.

SOMETHING TO PONDER

"Alcoholic beverages—an asset or a liability?" is the subject for adult study in the International Sunday School lessons for Jan. 31st, presented in this issue. In the discussion of this subject in the Globe & Mail of Jan. 23rd, Roger Babson, the celebrated American economist, is quoted as saying: "For every dollar of revenue received we have lost twenty dollars in the loss of legitimate trade, and the cost of damage to society." Canada spends tens of millions of dollars yearly in liquor. Is it not time we asked ourselves what return we are getting for this expenditure?—W.C.T.U. advt.

NORVAL RIFLE CLUB

The shooting on the Norval Rifle Range on Monday night was of a very high order. Two possible scores of 100 being made, Messrs. H. Nurse and R. W. Hall doing the trick. The January aggregate, which closed Monday night, was won by H. Nurse by a margin of one point. Mr. Nurse shooting from scratch in the four shoots, while the majority of the other members received handicap points.

The weekly Gold Button was won by E. McKinney after shooting off a tie with W. Lick.

The club have two teams entered in the Dominion Small Bore League and finished the January scores Monday night. The scores of the five high men to count: No. 1 team scored 497 plus 500 and No. 2 team 486 plus 500.

On Monday, Feb. 1st, the O. A. C. rifle team will visit the Norval range, and its forecast that a close match will be the result, as both teams are making record scores in practice.

DECLARES PEDESTRIAN HAS THE RIGHT OF WAY

David J. Goulding, Toronto motorist, was fined $10 and costs on a reckless driving charge when he appeared before Magistrate W. E. McIlveen in court at Oakville on Monday. The charge resulted from an accident in Oakville, Jan. 11, in which David Ford, 84, was injured. Goulding was given suspended sentence on another charge of failing to produce the proper license at the time of the accident.

Through his counsel the accused entered a plea of not guilty to the driving charge, and said he was not driving faster than 25 miles an hour when the accident occurred. He claimed that Mr. Ford had stepped into the path of his car.

Magistrate McIlveen decided that Goulding had been driving at an excessive rate of speed. "The motorist has to get it into his head that the pedestrian has the right of way," he declared, in giving sentence.

Mr. Wilson has made many friends during his stay in town and customers of the Bank especially regret his removal. May he and Mrs. Wilson enjoy health, happiness and prosperity in their new home in the city in the wish of all.

"The Ottawa Spotlight"

By Wilfrid Eggleston

Ottawa, January 26—The session started out like a house afire, with a minimum of oratory and a maximum of results.—By Monday night of the first week-end the debate on the Speech from the Throne was over, and without a recorded vote. This is in such sharp contrast to the days when the Address was good for two or three weeks of eulogy, criticism, campaign eloquence, economics, philosophy and just plain garden variety of talk. The aim, apparently, is to get finished in time to go to the Coronation, which means the end of the session by May 1st. If as little time is devoted to speechifying during the rest of the session as in the first two or three days, the objective may well be reached. Perhaps it is significant that Mr. Bennett has been invited to join the government representatives at London. The official Opposition, which usually decides when sessions end, will not want to drag things into midsummer either.

The abrupt collapse of the debate on the Address gave the government time to table its Main Estimates, which showed a stiff increase over the figures of last year. The upward trend can be traced to two main facts; one is that an additional $14,000,000 or so is to be spent in improving Canada's defences; the other is that Old Age Pensions will cost the treasury much more now that Quebec has adopted this social legislation. The current year's appropriation for Old Age Pensions was $17,500,000; this coming year it will be $10,000,000 more.

Stress on Coastal Defence

The spending of larger sums on defence measures had been forecast at some length by commentators, and, as expected, the stress was laid upon aircraft, coastal defence batteries, anti-aircraft guns, harbor equipment against submarines. Canada has no thought of an aggressive war; she is only disposed to put herself in a position to "enforce her own neutrality," to employ Mr. Bennett's phrase. About a hundred modern aeroplanes will be purchased and added to the 185—the latter largely obsolete and little use except for training—now possessed by the R.C.A.F.

Four modern minesweepers are to be added to Canada's modest navy. Aside from some new equipment, no increase in the land forces is provided for. Several hundred additional officers and men will be taken on to the Air Force and the Naval Force. Stores of ammunition, torpedoes and other military munitions will be laid up against an evil—and let us hope, purely hypothetical—day.

During the first four weeks of the session the private members have their fling, and government business on set days of the week takes second place. This gives opportunity for discussion of matters which are not yet, perhaps, ripe for legislation, but which private members feel should be aired in the interest of the community which they serve or Canada as a whole. Debates these days seem to run to economics, provision of greater purchasing power, provision of new social security legislation, slum clearance and similar matters. Last week saw the first of these debates on money and purchasing power. It was launched by John Blackmore, the leader of the 17 Social Credit members in the House, and called upon the state to begin to issue purchasing power "and to use that purchasing power for the improvement of the economic condition of the Canadian people."

Money is Needed

Mr. Blackmore, who represents Lethbridge in the House, advanced the argument that money was needed for a hundred and one things, but that no money was available. Consequently he urged that the state should issue money, based on the resources of the country.

This is a controversial subject these days, and it is difficult even to report such debates without being regarded as partisan on the Social Credit side or on the other. Besides the sceptics, and the informed critics of monetary theory, there are a great many people who do not feel that they understand the mystery of money, and in the meantime are inclined not to say very much.

Last year the Social Credit members were not answered to any extent, either because members were too indifferent or because they were incapable, of answering. There are signs that this year it will be different. In the very first debate R. J. Deachman, Liberal economist threw down the gauntlet by observing that while Houdini could draw rabbits out of hats, he was never able to make a living selling the rabbits.

The Board will meet the third Thursday afternoon of each month at 2.30, in the Court House, Milton.

ANY DAY A FISH DAY

A MESSAGE FROM THE PREMIER OF NEW BRUNSWICK

To me it seems strange that one should be coaxed or coerced into eating fish and, to my mind, it presupposes a mental resistance to over-emphasize the health-giving and energizing qualities of fish. While I do not doubt for a minute that fish contains superb food qualities, I prefer to eat fish because it pleases the palate like nothing else will.

Living, as we do, on the Atlantic Seaboard where fish of all varieties are readily available in abundance, we are naturally deeply interested in having the people of our sister provinces make use of our food supplies; but despite my necessary interest as a public man in the natural resources of our Province, my own experience prompts me to advise people to use fish liberally because of its own delightful appeal.

HON. A. A. DYSART.

Postman's Wife—"Why pa, you look all tuckered out."

Postman—"I sure am. I've been all over town lookin' for a guy named 'Fragile.'"

THIS AND THAT IN SPORT

By G. McGillivray

George Hainsworth, former star goalie for the Toronto Maple Leafs, held the centre of attraction at the Arena last night, when he acted in the capacity of referee for the Midget games. This is the second trip he has made to Georgetown, and each time he has made many more new friends. George says he will follow the Midgets with great interest to the Stanley Cup play-offs, and volunteers to come back at any time. George could hardly keep away from the bench, as it seemed he should have been there between the posts, instead of blowing the whistle, but he showed the young fellows the way it should be done.

In the first encounter Boston Bruins suffered their third straight defeat at the hands of Chicago Black Hawks, the score being 4 - 3. The nightcap affair saw Toronto Maple Leafs still holding the top position of the group by defeating Montreal Maroons 2 to 1.

Cecil Hart, manager of Montreal Canadiens, showed great enthusiasm in Georgetown's "Pee" Hockey League when interviewed at the Royal York Hotel yesterday. Besides pledging his support to the local Canadien team, he promises to send out Morenz, Joliat and Gagnon as referees when they come to Toronto again. Conny Smythe of Toronto Maple Leafs wishes one or two play-off games to be played at the Maple Leaf Garden.

The O.H.A. Junior game which was scheduled to be played between Orangeville and Georgetown last Monday night had to be postponed owing to the icy condition of the roads. Orangeville were unable to get transportation down.

Thursday night the Junior outfit go to Acton, and what a battle this is expected to be. The last time the Juniors played there, the Tanners trimmed them 5 to 3; but with the new recruits Blacky's gang are out for revenge.

The Slalom Club are throwing a shin-dig on Friday night, Feb. 5th in St. George's club rooms. Owing to the lack of snow the ski club have had nothing but social evenings to look forward to so far. Maybe the weatherman will have something better in store for them next month.

"Dick" Carroll, coach of our Hockey Club this season, is confined to his bed suffering from bruises and shock following a motor accident on Monday night on the highway between Acton and Rockwood. "Dick" had been in Georgetown and later attended the Acton-Guelph hockey game, and was returning to his home in Guelph when the accident occurred. The car in which he was riding went over an embankment, turned over several times and crashed at the bottom of the bank. His injuries are not serious. We hope "Dick" will be on hand for the play-offs.

Acton Intermediates took Guelph for a ride on Monday night, the score being 10 to 2. However, Morrison and Kaiser were absent from the Guelph line-up, which would make considerable difference.

FAMED CHOIR SINGS NEGRO SPIRITUALS

Old Southern melodies and Negro spirituals of the period of 1825 are sung by the Crinoline Choir of Los Angeles in "The Gorgeous Hussy," coming to the Gregory Theatre, Georgetown, Saturday, Jan. 30th, matinee at 3 p.m.

The choir appears in several scenes. Two of its numbers are "Make a Rockin Tonight" and "One Morning Soon."

Organized a year and a half ago, the choir of twenty-five voices is recognised as one of the outstanding choral groups in the country. In a little over a year, it has appeared in five motion pictures, on KPI with the Bing Crosby program, on KHJ with David Brokeman, and on several other radio stations. Included in the organization are several well-known Negro entertainers.

The Crinoline Choir adds a picturesque musical touch to various scenes in "The Gorgeous Hussy," which is based on the widely-read American historical romance by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

Starring Joan Crawford, the sensationally popular Robert Taylor, and Lionel Barrymore at the head of an impressive cast, the new picture depicts the colorful career of Peggy O'Neal, innkeeper's daughter who rose to become a tremendous political power in the Washington of the Jacksonian era.

Could Not Lift Arms Above Head

Owing to Painful Rheumatism

This woman suffered from rheumatism in her back, arms and legs. For two months she endured this painful condition, then, like many another sufferer, she decided to try Kruschen Salts. Read her letter:—

"About fifteen months ago I had rheumatism in my arms and legs, after getting warm in bed were almost unbearable. I was like that for two months and could not reach above my head. I read so much about Kruschen Salts that I thought I would try them. I am so glad to say that for more than a year I have not had the slightest return of my rheumatism."—(Mrs.) H. K.

The pains and stiffness of rheumatism are frequently due to deposits of uric acid in the muscles and joints. Kruschen Salts assist in stimulating the internal organs to healthy, regular activity, and help them to get rid of this excess uric acid.

PRESENTATION TO JAMES SPENCE, HORNBY

The most important and most looked-for man in this part of the community, Hornby Centre, for the past twelve years, was Mr. James Spence. With a large budget of news, some of joy, some of sorrow, and of daily happenings in the world over, he would start from Hornby across the base line, up 8th line, down this line to the base line between the old and new survey to the 8th line, and up this line to the starting point, distributing the news in sixty boxes and collecting the out-going mail.

Mr. Spence is a middle aged man, active in mind and body, with only one fault we know of—he is a Tory—but he was always just as obliging to a Grit as to a Tory. And the Grits were always pleased to see him get the weather reports, and the world's transactions out of the headlines of Grit papers, when putting them in the mail box. And after twelve years of mail service "Lest we might forget," and he would fold his tent like the Arabs, and as silently glide away." Three of the box holders started the ball rolling to give honour to one who was faithful and obliging to everyone.

Then all of Mr. Spence's customers joined in with the leaders to give Mr. Spence a good send off, and in the Orange Hall, Streetsville, last week, a larger crowd assembled to celebrate with him in his favorite sport, dancing and euchre. The tables of euchre were kept busy.

Then Mr. Spence was called to the platform, and the following address was read:

Dear Mr. Spence—The reason why we gathered together here tonight and invited you to be with us, is, we want to repeat to you some of the things we often said behind your back.

We always found you so courteous and obliging. You were ever willing and ready to do something for your friends, any day and everyday. Looking back over the past twelve years, when you took the outgoing mail and put the daily mail in sixty boxes on your route you seldom (if ever) made a mistake. Six days every week, fifty two weeks in the year, for twelve years, meant a great deal of hard labor.

And now, may we ask you to accept this gift to keep your memory fresh as a memorial token of the happy past spent together.

And may Heaven's richest blessing be with you, your wife and daughter, Mary, now and through all your life, is the sincere wish of all the boxholders of R. R. 2, Hornby, Ont.

Signed by the Committee: Cliff May, Elmer May, Will Leslie.

The presentation of a beautiful rocking chair, bridge lamp and smoker was made by Mrs. Will Leslie. Mr. Spence said, "The years I spent carrying the mail was one of the pleasantest chapters in my life. And I cannot find words to express the great pleasure it has given me to be here tonight and hear these kind words and receive these beautiful gifts." The music for the dance was furnished by a first class orchestra. Mr. Spence was really the belle of the ball and enjoyed it very much. A lovely lunch was served.—Streetsville Review.
