EXERTING CONTROL

Ontario Government Introduces Bill to License Collectors of Accounts

To bring collection agencies in Ontario under control of the government and prevent abuses, the legislature will be asked to pass a bill entitled "The Collection Agency Act." The bill was given first reading at the short session of the house Monday after its introduction.

Because the collection agencies were not licensed and regulated, the bill declared, "agencies operating in Ontario have employed in their operations improper and high handed methods with no proper accounting or deposit of moneys collected."

The bill defines the term collection agency, explaining solicitors and trustees in bankruptcy are excepted, since solicitors are under supervision by the benchers of the Law Society and trustees are regulated by the Bankruptcy Act and the superintendent of bankruptcy.

The Ontario Securities Commission would have power to grant licenses, administer the act and to refuse, suspend or revoke any license. Fees would be readjusted when licenses were revoked. All moneys collected must be deposited in a trust account and proper books of the account must be kept, the bill provides.

Another section of the act stipulates a collection agency must account within 30 days for all moneys collected, and "must account on demand by the party entitled to the money, or when required by the Ontario Securities Commission."

Penalties are prescribed for carrying on without a license, failure to deposit moneys in the trust account, and to make the necessary returns. It also makes it an offense to employ an unlicensed collection agency.

60 PER CENT. OF PENSIONS COME INTO ONTARIO

Ontario pensioners received sixty per cent. of the total old age pensions paid in the five provinces where the Act is effective and in the northwest territories, statistics show. Of 76,316 on pension in Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Northwest Territories 45,515 were paid in Ontario. Of $4,313,156 paid in the three-month period, $2,598,364 was paid in Ontario, with the Dominion government's share $2,302,287. The total for the first nine months of the year was $12,501,347 with $7,436,000 paid in Ontario. The Dominion government absorbed $6,546,317 of the Ontario total.

SCOUT NEWS

Last week the troop held their tenth meeting of the year with a very good attendance. After a keen inspection in which the Foxes won the most points, the patrols retired to their corners for twenty minutes of Scout work. The work in the corners was carried out in a very orderly manner and in the Foxes Earth the boys were busily engaged in learning the morse code on a home-made buzzer. At a blast of the whistle the Scouts left their corners and enjoyed almost an hour of games.

In the last few weeks the Troop has grown in numbers considerably. At present the numbers are Beavers 8 members; Foxes, 8 members, and Wolves, 8 members. And although the Wolves are the latest formed patrol, still they are making good progress in their Scout tests. The Foxes are holding their lead only through perseverance and hard work, while the Beavers follow as a close second.

During the evening Scouts O. Spears and H. Zimmerman were invested as members of the world-wide Boy Scouts brotherhood, by Scouter Davis. The 1st Georgetown Troop welcome them into the brotherhood and the boys feel sure that these newly invested Scouts will prove a credit to the Troop.

The Court of Honour held its latest sitting on Saturday evening at the home of the Scouter. Among many other subjects which were discussed was a program of activities for the coming spring and summer. The Patrol Leaders decided to have their patrols specialize in elementary first aid since this subject is undoubtedly the most useful phase of Scout work. The officers hope to have several well-trained ambulance men by camp time this year.

Should Saturday prove to be a suitable day the Troop Leader hopes to take the Scouts on an all day hike and it is also hoped that certain members of the Foxes will refrain from bathing until such time as the temperature of the water becomes warmer.

SOMETHING IN RESERVE

Everyone appreciates the advantage of having a reserve fund on which to draw in case of emergency. Not everyone understands that the principle of having something in reserve is capable of application to other than pecuniary matters, and that on the extent to which it is followed a man's satisfaction and happiness largely depend.

A great many people who have money in the bank lead none the less a hand-to-mouth existence. Their lives consist of routine, amusement, chatter. They are not storing up a reserve of interests to which they may turn when the routine activities that for the time being occupy them fall at some point. And eventually for everyone some of the routine activities of life fall or are discarded. When that happens many people find that they have no interests in reserve. To discover a taste and to cultivate it is to have something in reserve. To accumulate and organize information in some field of thought or knowledge is to have something in reserve. Indeed, the person who early begins to store up reserve interests soon begins also to discard the less fruitful activities. Thus he makes a saving at both ends of life.

The practice of having something in reserve may be carried out to advantage in social intercourse. To be sure, anyone who is wholly uncommunicative and unresponsive reveals himself as ungenerous, timorous and colorless; on the other hand, the person who opens up his heart and mind readily and completely to the inspection of his acquaintances is sure to be pronounced superficial and likely to be regarded as insincere. He may win the liking of people, yet not quite succeed in gaining their respect.

Lighted cigarettes were recently dropped in England from airplanes flying at a height of 1,000 feet. Out of six dropped, the official making the test found three on the ground all still burning.

Ontario Legislature

Attorney General W. H. Price introduced to the Ontario Legislature the Mortgagors' and Purchasers' Relief Act, 1933, which is applicable only to mortgages and carrying charges executed before March 29th, 1932, and does not apply to loans made since that date. Payment of principal under the 1932 Act is extended another year, while loans made since March 29th, 1932, are considered new money and based upon economic conditions at present and depreciated values.

The Act aims chiefly at providing a means for mortgagor and mortgagee to arrive at an amicable settlement in their difficulties, and grants powers to the county judge to suspend payments up to a limit of six months at his discretion. A statement must be made by the mortgagor, the man who owes the money, to the mortgagee, setting out his circumstances and all the facts in connection with the case, such as revenue from the property, which he must own and live upon in order to receive relief, and all other facts. If, on this basis, the mortgagee is not satisfied that the debtor cannot meet his obligations, the second step in the negotiations is then taken in applying to the Judge. Hearings are to be in camera, without publicity, and all facts are placed before the court. The Judge, if he so decides, may make an order relieving the applicant from making any payments of interest, insurance, etc., for a period not exceeding six months. At the end of the period, the mortgagor must, under the provisions of the Act, make monthly payments of upon at least ½ per cent. of the aggregate amount of insurance, interest and taxes due in any year.

In exceptional cases, the county Judge or the Master in Chambers, as applies in York County, may review or vary his previous order at the expiry of the six months' period and give a further period of grace. But if unpaid taxes and interest keep accumulating, nothing could be achieved by allowing the property to remain in the hands of the mortgagor and the mortgagee would suffer unnecessarily.

"If a prima facie case has not been made out," stated Col. Price, "which would justify relief on a hearing, the judge can dismiss the application and the mortgagee can proceed. If a case has been made out before the judge, then the third step is provided for. The Judge in all such cases, shall grant a hearing and all parties interested, including second mortgagees and all subsequent encumbrances will be brought before him. At this hearing, the judge considers the position of all parties, reviews all facts and circumstances and if he is of the opinion on the evidence before him that such applicant is entitled to relief the judge by the Act is given power to make an order."

Legislation introduced by Hon. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, provides for ratification of agreements entered into by the Government and the two universities at Toronto and Kingston for establishment of cancer radium clinics. The Government will make a yearly payment of $48,000 to the Toronto General Hospital, where a 50-bed hospital accommodation is provided. In the case of Kingston, the annual advance is $9,000 for ten years, the hospital accommodation being for 30 beds.

F. W. Wilson, Cons. West Windsor, enlivened the debate on the Speech from the Throne, in a scathing denunciation of the Hepburn-Nixon alliance, especially in connection with the recent statement of Mr. Hepburn that the Progressive Leader in the House would speak on behalf of the Liberals.

"Where did Mr. Hepburn and the member for Brant get the mandate to shift the Liberal House leadership?" queried Mr. Wilson. "Where did this extra-mural leader get the authority for his new intra-mural leader? No Liberal or Progressive convention authorized it."

Mr. Wilson attacked Mr. Nixon on the latter's criticism of Premier Henry and his connection with the Toronto Mortgage Corporation, commenting: "the chief purpose this attack has served is to throw into bold relief the Prime Minister's integrity and the reasonable record of the company referred to."

C. A. Seguin, Cons. Russell, challenged Mr. Nixon to have sufficient courage and honesty to stand and endorse the wild statements made by ... the member for Brant gone Liberal or has Mr. Hepburn gone Progressive or perhaps C.C.F.?" asked Mr. Seguin.

A saving to the province of over $1,000,000 will result from a graded salary cut of Ontario Civil Servants announced by Premier Henry, while the schedule of reduction put into force for part of last year saved the Government about $400,000. The reductions will also affect the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, the Liquor Control Board, and the University of Toronto.

To avoid conflict of jurisdiction of the Fire Marshal's Department and the Department of Health, each having power to govern dry-cleaning establishments, Attorney General Price introduced a bill which allows the fire marshal to pass regulations dealing only with fire and explosion hazards. Clarification of the Surrogate Courts Act, to establish a time limit in which claimants may prosecute claims and avoid disbarment under the Statute of Limitations, are provided in an amendment to the Act introduced by Col. Price.

War memorials shall be preserved and cared for under a bill introduced by Austin B. Smith, Cons. South Essex, while E. J. Murphy, Cons. St. Patricks, introduced a bill to abolish the Optometry Act.

The right of marriage annulments on specific grounds provided under English Law is placed under the Supreme Court of Ontario by an amendment to the Ontario Marriage Act, introduced by Col. Price. The bill serves to clarify the situation which has arisen since the passage by the Federal Parliament two years ago of amendments to the Federal law which permit the granting of divorces by the Ontario Supreme Court but which did not specifically adjust the matter of annulments.

The City of Toronto's supertax bill on incomes of $10,000 and over was withdrawn in second reading by George Shields, Con. Woodbine-Toronto, sponsor of the bill which passed city council at the instigation of Controller Ramsden. Not one voice was raised in its favor while the Government's opposition came from Hon. Charles McCrea, Minister of Mines, who declared the present was a time found opportune to attack those who had more than an ordinary income. He pointed out the question for the House to consider was whether or not the proposed method of taxation was fair, but he contended the tax would injure the city and the province, the latter having accorded advantages to every walk of life. The bill would penalize a section of the community, while from all directions the argument is heard that there is too much taxation, there being only one escape from his situation in setting the wheels of industry in motion, to loosen up private capital.

Severe punishment is provided in a measure introduced by Attorney General W. H. Price for those who throw stench bombs into theatres, the bill providing for one year's imprisonment and a fine of from $500 to $1,000 for infractions of this amendment under the Theatres and Cinematographs Act. During the past year there have been a number of stench bombs set in theatres.

Two bills introduced by Hon. Dr. J. M. Robb, Minister of Health, provide under the Medical Act for representatives to be elected to the Ontario Medical Council from any corporation, university or college which in future establishes a duly-qualified course of medical science and art, while under the Registration of Nurses Act, any university, which maintains a nurses' course may register its graduates.
