Priceville

From our own Correspondent.

While Roderick McLeod, oldest son of Mr. Angus McLeod, was making a wedge in the bush last Wednesday, he accidentally cut off the index finger of the left hand. Roddie picked up the dismembered limb, put it in his pocket and then walked out to Priceville and had the wound dressed.

A rather serious accident happened in the public school last Tuesday. As Master Johnny McArthur, youngest son of Mr. John McArthur, was coming down stairs he slipped off the top step and was precipitated to the bottom of the stairway. He was picked up unconscious, but after a short time revived sufficiently to be taken home. One of his ribs was broken by the fall and his body was also considerably bruised.

We were very sorry to learn of the death of Mrs. Martha Ferguson of Chicago. The sad event occurred last Monday. The remains will be brought home and interred in the Baptist cemetery.

The S.O.T. entertainment had to be postponed, owing to the illness of many of the members of Div. 348.

A number of young people from Osprey are at present visiting friends on the South Line.

Miss Katie McIntyre of Toronto arrived home last week to attend her mother, who has been ill, but is now recovering.

La grippe holds the fort this week. Nearly every other citizen is under the weather as a result.

Maxwell

From our own Correspondent.

There was service in St. Mary's church last Friday evening.

Born—On Feb. 30, to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clark, a daughter.

There was a debating and literary society organized here for the winter months on last Friday evening. They intend to hold meetings every two weeks. The following officers were elected: Thos. Gamey, Hon. Pres.; W. H. Guy, Pres.; D. K. Preston and Jas. Clark, Vice Presidents; Ed. Paul, Sec.; Wm. Bemrose, Treas. A good time is expected at these debates, as we have some very good talent here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsay from Nottawasaga have been visiting for a few days with friends in this vicinity.

A number of our Orange brethren from here attended the county meeting at Markdale.

The funeral of the late Wm Madil (Dundalk) took place on Monday. The remains were interred in St. Mary's church cemetery in this vicinity, and were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of friends and relatives. He was buried by the Orange and Forester societies. The funeral sermon will be preached in the English church here next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The Orange and Forester societies will attend in a body.

Scenes in Gotham

NO 3.

The Zoo in Central Park is situated opposite Sixty-fourth street, occupying a rather romantic site of several acres, including hill and dale, rocky height and plain, affording variety of location suitable to all classes of animals, birds, fishes and reptiles. The eyrie of the eagle in the rocky cliff overlooks the placid lakelet where floats the stately swan, while the polar bear, from his grotto, views with complacency the flounderings of the ponderous hippopotamus in his watery lair. Like the Museum of Art, this institution is the property of the city of New York—is most efficiently managed by a courteous staff of officials, who seem to take a pride in making the visitor feel at home. Admission is free and every facility is afforded to see and understand the exhibition. Refreshments are easily available at reasonable cost, and time is limited only by the opening and closing hours. At convenient points free ice water is provided and politely served in the summer season, and in the main building iced milk is sold at one cent per glass. On entering from the west, the first most conspicuous object is the quarters occupied by a herd of huge camels and dromedaries, the sight of which carries the mind away to Bible scenes; while we consider the patient demeanor and calm eye, with the ponderous foot and lengthy stride we are reminded of the search of a wife for Jacob. Then we come to the lair of the huge hipopottami, of which there are three specimens, a male and two females, the number being increased to four since our visit. Next we enter the building devoted to animals of smaller size and more agile movement, among which are lions, tigers, leopards, panthers, hyenas and wolves, of which the hyena seems to be the most fierce and relentless, his every movement calculated to inspire mistrust and dread. Ever on the move, with restless eye on the watch for a victim. This animal is said to be untamable, and the statement is quite easily believed from his appearance. Then we meet the elephants, rhinoceros, musk ox and bison, glancing at which we pass to the burrowed haunt of the cute little prairie dog, whose agile movements and comical performances are most amusing. A little creature, somewhere between a ground hog and a guinea pig, he burrows in the ground and pops in and out of his hole with the agility of a weasel, feeds freely on crackers and nuts thrown to him, sitting on his haunches, and handling his food in his paws, but disappearing as if by magic on the slightest alarm. Next we visit the deer park. Here are found specimens of almost every specie from every clime, from the graceful gazelle to the stately elk and ponderous moose. Deer with immense antlers, deer with smaller horns and deer without horns, and ranging in size from that of a small goat to that of an ox, and in color from brown and red to pure white. But I must pass on to get a glimpse of the birds, from the great American eagle to the tiny wren, covering almost the entire bird kingdom, displaying a most beautiful variety of plumage. Here the stately peacock spreads his charms, there the voluble parrot prates to his mates, and to the amusement of the spectators, and in all directions are heard sounds musical and otherwise, until the monkeys in an adjoining cage seem to dance to the strain But my time being up, I am forced to leave, with the same reluctance as I left the Art Museum, with just enough of each to create a desire to return at a future time for a more prolonged stay. WM. CLARK.

Artemesia Council

The municipal council of the township of Artemesia met in the town hall, Flesherton, on Saturday. Members were all present, the Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last session were read and confirmed. Thompson—McMillan—That the report of the committee re the treasurer's sureties be adopted and the Reeve issue his order in favor of the registrar of South Grey for $3, being fees for searches in the matter.

Kells—Thompson—That Mrs. John Flynn, an indigent, be allowed $4 per month, instead of the grant of flour monthly heretofore made by this Council, this allowance to stand only so long as is strictly necessary.—Carried.
