Obituary

The death of Mary Gardner, beloved wife of the late James Rice, on Tuesday morning after a short illness, came as a shock to her relatives of this part. Having visited with her brothers and sisters for the past winter and while waiting the arrival of her eldest son, Thomas, who was to accompany her home. She was taken suddenly ill shortly before the son's arrival, and although all was done that doctor's skill could do, she passed peacefully away at the home of her brother, James Gardner, at Clarksburg, on Tues., March 29. Deceased was born near Brampton in the year 1845, and at the age of two years moved with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Richie Gardner, to the village of Rocklyn, where in the year 1865 she married James Rice. The happy couple lived near Epping until the fall of 1881 when the family moved to Frankford in the state of Michigan. The late Mrs Rice was the mother of ten children, of whom five are still living, namely—Thomas, James, Mathew, Eliza and Margaret, all of Frankford, Michigan. Her husband preceded her 22 years ago. She was also the eldest of a family of eight—Joseph of Sault Ste Marie, Robert and Richard of Rocklyn, Mrs. John Tilson of Markdale, James of Clarksburg, John of Heathcote and Mrs. John T. Bell of Flesherton, all of whom live to mourn the loss of a loving, christian sister, who "To know her was to love her." The funeral service was held at the home of James Gardner, where the Rev. St. John spoke comforting words to the the bereaved ones. The remains were taken to Benjonia cemetery, Michigan, U. S. A., for interment.

Within the last few months 150,000 negroes have been attracted to New York on account of the high wages. There are also high wages out West, judging by the number of our young men leaving for there.

GREAT CHANGE COMING.

Dominion of Canada Must Take Its Part in Movement.

A symposium conducted by a London newspaper on "The Empire After the War" has revealed a remarkable unanimity of opinion amongst representative men from the Overseas Dominions as to the need for re-casting the whole fabric of the British commonwealth and giving all parts of the empire control over their common interests.

Amongst those whose views were secured were: Sir Thomas Mackenzie, High Commissioner for New Zealand; Rt. Hon. W. P. Schreiner, High Commissioner for South Africa; Sir Edward Morris, Premier of Newfoundland; Lord Sydenham, ex-governor of Bombay; Lieut.-Gen. Sir Sam Hughes, Canada; Sir Peter McBride, Agent-General for Victoria; Sir Thomas B. Robinson, Agent-General for Queensland, and Sir John McCall, Agent-General for Tasmania.

While these empire representatives differ as to the details of the constitution of the future British commonwealth, they all agree that a fundamental change must take place in the relations of the United Kingdom and the Overseas Dominions as well as the relation of each dominion to all the others. The nature of this change is summarized by Sir Sam Hughes. "In short," he says, "what is wanted is a system of joint control by the whole empire of matters affecting the whole empire, coupled with inviolable independence for the component parts in respect of essential domestic details."

Such a change as this—a change that would leave all the dominions with their present autonomous powers unimpaired and at the same time would give them an effective voice in the issues of peace and war to which at present a cabinet responsible only to British electors commits them—is by no means an impossibility. Sir Edward Morris has no doubts on the point. "I see," he says, "No way easier, simpler, or more direct than the assembly of an imperial convention in London which would formulate and agree upon certain basic principles, these to be recommended immediately to the respective legislatures of the dominions for approval. This should be done at once."

"The time is one pregnant with fate for the whole British commonwealth," says the Vancouver World. "If the principles of British freedom, the self-governing powers, and aptitudes of the British race, are to hold their place in the new world that the war is creating around us, action must be taken at once. There will be no second opportunity. This is Lord Sydenham's view and most people will agree with him. Undoubtedly the British Empire is at the portals of a great opportunity. Will it enter and grasp what is offered it? Or will it remain outside and perish?"

An Impertinent Advertisement.

When many are endowing advertising with the attributes of the arts and sciences it comes as a shock to find a regalia company in an American city making merry, in a Canadian circular, over the fact that Canada is at war and the United States is not. The circular is sent to heads of fraternal societies in the Dominion, and it declares in jingle that the coin is easier than the sword. "But war don't worry us a bit, no chance—for we are out of it." In this kind of banter the jingle runs on, filling Canadians with wonder at the impertinent stupidity of the man who hopes thus to sell regalia in Canada. People must wonder what is wrong with the mind of that man in the United States who hopes to sell regalia by bantering and ridiculing Canadians for being at war, while chuckling with delight over the recalcitrance of his own country. If this is the new advertising, the old will be found more effective.
—The Globe.

There are some very estimable people who cannot understand why a newspaper should not give free space to every entertainment which is held for patriotic, benevolent and religious purpose, and they are apt to think, even if they do not always say, very mean things when their requests have to be refused. This misconception is due to a very prevalent belief that newspaper space costs nothing and to a failure to realize that advertising is almost the sole source of revenue to the publisher. There is no more reason why a publisher should give away his goods, even for a worthy cause, than a hardware merchant or grocer. His space should be dealt with by him on a business basis and he should be left free to make his contributions in the form which he prefers, and not have others make them for him.

The Drayton Advocate says the biggest hog of the season was sold in Guelph last Tuesday. It weighed 645 pounds live weight, and $83.85 was paid for it. A recent issue of the Owen Sound Sun reports the sale of a hog there weighing 650 pounds for which $90.50 was paid. From the comparison, we infer there are bigger hogs in Owen Sound than in Guelph.—Orangeville Sun.

There was consternation at the Brett-Ruthven fox ranch one morning last week when it was discovered that a pair of silver black foxes worth several thousand dollars had got out. Neighbors and a number of townsmen went to the assistance of the owners. After a few hours of liberty the foxes, which had been bred in captivity, came back to their own quarters where food was obtainable without having to hunt for it.—Shelburne Free Press.

Your House Reflects Your Character

YOU are judged by the house you occupy as much as by the clothes you wear. An unpainted, shabby place, showing evidence of neglect, advertises the character of the owner and his family most unfavorably. It implies carelessness and a lack of self-respect.

If you have a proper pride in your home and the community in which you live, you will use

B-H "ENGLISH" PAINT
