Portlaw

Nature has at last awakened from her long slumber and now welcome smiles are spreading over her fair face.

Grain seeding is completed and corn and roots are now engaging our attention. Notwithstanding the handicap for labor about the usual acreage of grain has been sown with the land in good condition, and if favorable conditions should continue it is reasonable to expect at least an average yield. More is hoped for.

Mr. R. McMaster is busy with his drilling outfit on the farm of Mr. Leslie Chard. Oil is the object.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Campaign and Mrs. Hughes of Battle Creek, Mich, have been visiting at the home of Mr. F. H. Thompson.

Mr. Art. Watson went to Owen Sound before the departure of the 248th Batt. to enlist, but was not accepted. He then went to Toronto and offered himself but with the same result.

John Winters has invested in a new Ford car and also in a new piano.

Miss Mabel Wauchobe is visiting with her cousin, Mrs. Lewis Sheardown.

Miss Wallace of Flesherton is spending this week with Mr. Albert Thompson.

Miss Millie White of Toronto visited at her home lately.

Inspector Huff paid our school an official visit lately. We believe he was well pleased with the work being done, but a little huffed with the attendance.

Portlaw Red Cross Society purpose holding a bazaar and lawn social on Friday, the 15th inst., at the home of Mr. Lewis Sheardown. The ladies say that they expect "something good" there so come and enjoy some.

The Grand Valley Girls' Patriotic League have joined forces in a production campaign and will raise a crop of beans. T. H Hamilton kindly gave them the use of a lot on Emma street, which Mr. Colbeck is to plow and get ready for the seed. The rest the girls intend doing themselves, planting, cultivating and harvesting.

Cookstown has taken a very practical and sensible plan of providing a lasting memorial in honor of the 146 men who enlisted from the village and immediate vicinity. On Victoria Day a tree for each man was planted in the park, and these in days to come will be a memorial of the patriotic service and sacrifice made by the young men.

THE FULL CARLOAD

A great deal of progress has been made recently in bringing about co-operation between railways and their patrons and one way in which this has been manifested is the general endeavor to reduce if not entirely eliminate the waste of freight cars. The benefits which accrue to the shipping public as well as to the car owners by refraining from using equipment unduly for storage purposes is generally understood and appreciated but the increased efficiency which can be derived by loading every car to its maximum cubic or carrying capacity seems to be frequently overlooked. The full loading of cars has a direct bearing on car supply and particularly at this time, when a serious car shortage exists in certain parts of the country it is desirable that in no case should two cars be used where one would suffice.

Some of the larger shippers have issued bulletins to their customers pointing out the methods by which better loading may be obtained and were these suggestions adopted generally the benefits which would accrue to all concerned would be great and immediate.

The average railway car has a carrying capacity of about forty tons but the average load per car is only twenty-three tons. Many shippers and consignees are in the habit of ordering only sufficient freight to equal the minimum prescribed by tariff when they could as well order a full carload or if convenient to do so could arrange to have their consignments consolidated with others of a similar nature travelling to the same destination, thereby saving at least or, perhaps, more cars. Consignees would find by adopting methods such as this their freight would be shipped more promptly as the shippers would have more equipment at their disposal and the annoying delays attributed to "waiting cars" would be largely a thing of the past
