Stafford—Cornfield

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cornfield at Kimberley was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, June 20, when their only daughter, Ethel Mae, was united in marriage with Mr. William Arthur Stafford of Markdale. At five o'clock to the strains of Mendellsohn's wedding march played by Mrs. A. E. Myles, the bridal party took their place under an arch of ferns and evergreens. The impressive marriage ceremony of the Anglican church was conducted by Rev. Young of Heathcote. During the signing of the register Mrs B A Carrathers sang "All Joy be Thine." The bride, who was given away by her father, was becomingly attired in white satin, trimmed with seed pearls and lace and wore the customary veil and orange blossoms, and carried a sheaf of carnations and maiden hair fern. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl necklace, and to the organist a bar pin The gifts to the bride were choice and unique. One worthy of special mention being a bowlful of substantial cheques from her father, grandfathers and uncles. Guests were present from Redwing, Portlaw, Proton Station, Meaford, Markdale, Berkeley and Owen Sound, About eighty enjoyed the daintily prepared wedding dinner. Mr. and Mrs. Stafford left by motor for Owen Sound. They will visit Toronto and other points and on their return will reside in Markdale. Their many friends wish them happiness and prosperity.

Walkerton

At the June sessions of the County Court, which were presided over by Judge Widdifield of Owen Sound here last week, only one case decorated the docket, this being an action brought by John McKenzie of Teeswater against the C.P.R. and the Teeswater Public School Board jointly for $295 damages for the loss of four head of cattle which were run over and killed on Oct 6th last and which the plaintiff claimed were enabled to get onto the track by the school not maintaining a proper fence After a hearing which lasted from Tuesday noon to Wednesday night, the court ordered the C.P.R. to pay the plaintiff $275 damages, but found the school board not liable.

A young Brant farmer who has about twelve hundred dollars on deposit in the banks of Hanover and Chesley, came to Walkerton recently and purchased a pair of shoes for $4.50 and gave in payment a cheque on a Walkerton bank. When the dealer on going to get the cheque cashed found the farmer had no funds in the local bank, and not knowing him personally, he jumped to the conclusion that he had been stung, and issuing a warrant had Chief Ferguson sally forth into Brant and arrest the man. On being brought into town and arraigned before Magistrate Tolton, the man produced his bank books on the above two towns to show that he had lots of finance elsewhere, but through mistake had ntglected to change the headline on the Walkerton cheque. As it was evident that there was no intention of fraud, but simply a bit of carelessness on the farmer's part, he was released on payment for the shees and the costs of the action, which amounted to $12.50.—Herald and Times.

TWENTY FIVE YEARS ON THE JOB

THIS is the first of a series of biographical sketches of Canadian Pacific Railway men who have been a quarter of a century and over in harness. These men, principally graduated from headquarters, and by their own perseverance, hard work and faithfulness to duty, gained for themselves high honors in railroad service.

W. B. LANIGAN, assistant freight Traffic Manager of Western Lines, was born at Three Rivers, Que., Oct. 12, 1861. He was educated at St. Joseph's College, Three Rivers, and Stantead College, Quebec. He joined the Canadian Pacific Railway service Sept. 18, 1884, as telegraph operator at Sharbot Lake, when the Ontario and Quebec railway was opened between Montreal and Toronto via Smith's Falls and Ottawa. From 1885 to 1886 he was relieving agent on the Ontario Division; 1886 to 1888 agent at Claremont, Myrtle and Dundalk; 1888 to 1891 agent at Galt; 1891 to 1900 travelling freight agent, Toronto; 1901 assistant general freight agent, Toronto; on July 1, 1901, he was appointed general freight agent, Winnipeg. In March, 1908, he was promoted to assistant freight traffic manager of western lines, which position he now holds. He is using the first desk occupied by a freight traffic manager on the C. P. R. lines, and says he would not exchange it for the best mahogany desk made.

FRED. E. GAUTIER, purchasing agent, western lines, was born at Gibraltar, in 1854. He was educated in Paris, France. He is a university B.L. His first service was in the French foreign office. He served in the marine department, Canada, also fishery protection service afloat. He was sent to Winnipeg in 1882 by George Stephen, then president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. In March of that year he was clerk in the local freight office. In May he was put in charge of the supplies in General Manager Van Horne's office. In June he was appointed private secretary to Mr. Van Horne. In August he was in charge of purchases, with no title. During three months, in 1884, he was acting local treasurer, while also in charge of purchasing department. In January, 1900, he was appointed assistant purchasing agent, and in February, 1912, he was appointed purchasing agent, which position he now holds. Mr. Gautier has seen the beginning and completion of the line. In 1885 he was sent by General Superintendent Egan to meet the first troop trains, during the Reil Rebellion. He was a captain in the Governor-General's Foot Guards, Ottawa.

HENRY WILLIAM SWEENY, local treasurer, Winnipeg, is a son of the late Col. J. F. Sweeny. He was born at Montreal, Jan. 22, 1868, and educated at Montreal High School. He entered the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway as junior clerk in the treasury department, June 9, 1886, and was appointed cashier in 1893. In April, 1894, he was appointed paymaster on lines east of Montreal. In September, 1897, he was appointed paymaster on all lines east of Fort William and promoted to local treasurer at Winnipeg in 1908. His work embraces territory covered by the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and part of British Columbia, and includes jurisdiction over the paymasters' offices at Winnipeg and Calgary. Mr. Sweeny has been with the company 31 years and more than eight years in his present position as local treasurer at Winnipeg.

WILLIAM C. BOWLES, general freight agent, Western lines, was educated in Commissioner's Schools, Montreal. He entered the service of the company as clerk, in the office of district freight agent, Montreal, Dec. 1, 1891. He was clerk in district and general freight agent office, Montreal, until Feb., 1896, and was acting chief clerk in office general agent freight department Chicago, from March, 1896, to August, 1896. He was rate clerk in the office of the general freight agent in Montreal from August, 1896, to August, 1897, and rate clerk in office of traffic manager, Winnipeg, from September, 1897, to June, 1899. He was chief clerk in office of general freight agent and assistant freight traffic manager, Winnipeg, July, 1899, to February, 1903, and was assistant general freight agent Calgary and Vancouver, 1903 to 1906. During 1906 and 1907 he was general freight agent, Kootenay and boundary districts, Nelson, and appointed general freight agent, Manitoba district, 1907-1909; general freight agent B. C. district, Vancouver, 1909-1911. In latter years he came to Winnipeg.

ORGANIZER OF WOMEN'S LABOR

MRS. J. W. BELL

WOMEN workers have been so successful in the factories in Great Britain that they are being tried in the great workshops of Canada. Everywhere they are proving themselves to be keen rivals to men, and it is now evident that the home is not the only place where a woman may excel in work calculated to advance the welfare of mankind. The Canadian Pacific Railway Co. has sent thousands of its male employees for service in Europe, and as a consequence male workers have become scarce in various departments of industry. In 1915 women workers were introduced into the Canadian Pacific Angus Shops at Montreal. At present there are two hundred of them engaged in the shops.

These women workers have been organized and work under the supervision of Mrs. J. W. Bell, wife of Mr. Bell, superintendent of the Montreal Windsor Street Station building. Mrs. Bell is enthusiastic over the success of the efforts of those entrusted to her charge, and considers that the field of manual labor requiring skill and application is one in which women will yet exercise a wide influence.

A visit to the women workers in the Angus Shops is inspiring. The women punctually begin their labors at 7.15 a.m., and finish at 4.45 p.m. Allowing for the lunch hour, between 12 and 1 o'clock, they work eight and a half hours a day. Watching the women trip along cheerfully to the scene of their exertions one might feel that he is observing the world march away from the old era of prejudice and convention and entering a period of freedom and commonsense. The spheres of the activity of the Angus Shops women workers are made cheerful and comfortable as it is possible to make them. Each woman has a locker in which she places her belongings before donning her overalls and cap. At the outset of the experiment it was difficult to induce some of the women to take kindly to the garments which tradition had marked out as male preserves, but after a little while every woman found these working dresses were more convenient than skirts The overalls have three distinct recommendations: they are tidy, they are sanitary, and they are safe, allowing their wearers to move amongst the machines without danger of being drawn into machinery clutches.

The women work on the piece system, and they are paid at the same rate as their brothers. They work amongst the men with the harmony that prevails in offices where there are female and male clerks. In the Angus Shops the women are to be found sweeping, coach washing, coach painting, working on drills, at lathes, at various kinds of machinery, filing and drilling in the brass shops, brass polishing, operating nut tapping machines, cleaning dynamos in the electrical department, assisting in the steamfitting centre, and making mattresses and pillows. No woman is asked to do heavy work.

The women bring the material for their lunch with them, and this they may prepare in the lunch room which accommodates two hundred. Soup and bread are provided by the Company at cost price. Attached to the lunch room is a rest room, and near the rest room is a first aid room, where any accidents that may occur are treated. No less than seventeen of the women workers hold certificates of proficiency in first aid work. Should any accidents occur the services of these trained women are very valuable.

There has been no scarcity of applications for work at the Angus Shops. Hearing of the liberal treatment which they receive women have been anxious to secure work there. But only those who are specially in need of employment are taken on. Many of the workers are widows, soldier's wives, and women who are the sole means of the support of dependants. These plucky and industrious women lessen to a considerable extent the strain on the Patriotic, Red Cross, and other charitable funds.

Mrs. Bell makes a thorough investigation of the circumstances of each woman before she is given employment, and a close watch is kept on each worker for the first few days after her appearance in the workshops. This is done so as to guard against the danger of alien enemies, for many nationalities are represented among the female employees of the Angus Shops. Mrs. Bell says that every effort is made to have each woman placed at the task that is most congenial to her tastes and ability. Those who show exceptional talent and skill are promoted. There have been instances where girls entered as coach washers and in a short time found themselves installed as office assistants. Many of the women, says Mrs. Bell, "are one hundred per cent efficient, and this efficiency is in no small way due to the suitable conditions under which the women perform their tasks. The women are reliable and models of punctuality, and only in cases where there is illness of the worker or some member of her family do workers absent themselves from duty. Women are a decided success in the Angus Shops."
