

FORD MOYNES

ON THE MAIN STREET

Begley is a name well known to many Lindsay and district residents. The late T. J. Begley and the late Edward Begley were connected with the newspaper and business life of this community. Thomas Begley was a former editor of the Lindsay Daily Post.

Many Lindsay people are pleased to have as their friend Mrs. T. J. Begley who resides on Russell Street East. It is of considerable interest to learn that Mrs. Begley recently was host to Edward Begley of Hollywood, a distant relative who has made a name for himself in the theatrical, film and TV world.

During his visit to Canada

he was in Toronto and an article in the Toronto Telegram said in part: Academy award winner Ed Begley is starring in a Canadian film. In Toronto this week is the man who won the 1964 Academy Award for the best supporting male performer in the movie "Sweet Bird of Youth". He's here to film the National Film Board's documentary Do Not Fold, Staple, Spindle or Mutilate.

Begley said that he had taken the role (that of an aging union president who cannot cope with the bureaucracy of big corporations) because he has known director John Howe for a long time.

"Besides," he added, "I occasionally like to do shows to help companies and organizations that I feel are going places."

Begley, a man in his fifties, moves with the grace of a dancer in his twenties. As one of the NFB technicians said, "He takes about three steps to my one."
