Pasture For Hogs

High prices for farm produce do not always mean large profits. Cost of production plays a very important part in determining the net profit a farmes makes on what he has to sell. This is a matter that should receive more attention than is being given to it. Manufacturers of articles that the farmer has to buy study the question of cost of production very carefully. The farmer is a manufacturer of the things the other fellow has to buy, and while he does little in the way of setting the prices for his products, he could and should do more toward lessening production cost.

Take, as an example, the production of pork. Economical production of pork depends largely upon the consumption of cheaply grown feed. In the summer time hogs should be put on pasture. The pasture should be so managed that the forage produced will be clean, tender and palatable. The idea that anything, no matter how dirty, is good enough for hog feed is erroneous. While the hog will eat some dirty food, he will eat more and thrive better if he is given clean food and clean water. Such crops as alfalfa, clover, rape or peas and oats make good hog pasture. The pasture should not be overgrazed. It is best to divide the pasture lot into two or three equal areas and allow the hogs to remain in each a week or ten days. This will allow the first pastured areas to recuperate before the hogs are turned into it again.

Some grain also should be fed when hogs are on pasture. Opinions differ regarding the quantity that should be fed. A medium ration would be from two to three per cent of the live weight of the hog. No fixed rule can be laid down regarding this. The pasture should be tender and clean, and enough grain should be fed to keep the hogs shapely and in thrifty, growing condition at all times.

A reverse decision has been handed out in the Jacklin liquor case. It will be remembered that Marshall Jacklin Jr. of Bentinck township was assessed $100 and $20 costs by Magistrate Telford some weeks ago for giving hard cider to Con Eidt of Normanby. Mr. Mat Beckett prosecuted in his usual vigorous style and the case attracted a great deal of local interest in view of the fine technical points involved in the operation of the Ontario Temperance Act. It appears that Jacklin was standing on the porch at his home when he handed Eidt the cider, and in view of this feature he might properly be exempt, but Beckett wheeled around then and laid a charge against Jacklin of giving liquor to a minor, and it was upon this point that the Magistrate gave his decision. Mr. Jacklin's lawyer, however, was not satisfied and he took the case to Toronto and judgment was handed out last week quashing the conviction. We have not heard on what point the reverse decision was based—Post.

Moose Broke Neck

Friday evening as Mr. Herb. Stewart was driving home to Burks Falls along the North Road he noticed two big moose following him. Near Parker's farm one of the animals struck off in one direction and the other jumped the fence and ran across a field at tremendous speed. Suddenly it ran into plowed ground and turned a complete somersault with such violence that its neck was broken, killing it almost instantly. Fortunately settlers were quickly on the scene and the big moose was properly bled and will make palatable food, even though out of season. This extraordinary incident was actually witnessed in person by Mr. Stewart and occurred only about two and a half miles outside the northerly limits of Burks Falls—Burks Falls Arrow.

The entire arm is beautifully designed and finished, and is a marked contrast to the cheap dye cast arms seen on other makes of Phonographs.

It is the only Universal tone arm that is scientifically designed and the only one that will play all makes of records perfectly.

The Phonola will also be equipped with a new Aluminum Reproducer fitted with a special insulated rubber connection which eliminates metallic sounds from being transmitted to the Amplifier.
