A curious incident occurred at Catswoth the seat of the Duke of Devonshire on Tuesday last. One corner of the large conservatory is fitted for the reception of the rarer small birds; a sparrow-hawk, (falco nisus,) perceiving them through the glass, hovered for an instant, and pounced upon them, breaking in his flight one of the large and strong squares of glass, which are four feet long. Such was the violence, the glass was only perforated sufficiently to admit him. The crash brought a man to the spot, who captured the bird, and he is now in confinement near his intended victims. A few weeks since, a pheasant in its flight went through the glass but he was killed by the shock.

DAGUERREOTYPE.

MESSRS. RAMSAY & FORD would respectfully inform the Ladies and Gentlemen of Kingston, that they are in possession of an elegant and accurate DAGUERREOTYPE APPARATUS, for taking Miniature Portraits.

They will be ready to receive visitors and to execute orders on Friday, the 21st inst., in the Court House Yard, where a commodious Marquee, will be fitted up for the purpose.

The discovery of this astonishing and most beautiful art, was made by M. Daguerre, of France; it consists in throwing the image of the sitter, by a Camera Obscura, upon a plate of silver, coated with iodine, where, by the Chemical action of light, it is retained and fixed, thus producing a likeness, whose accuracy the Artist and Engraver can never hope to imitate, far less excel.

To have a Portrait taken the applican is required to sit from one to three minutes, according to the intensity of the sun's rays at the time. The whole is an intricate Chemical process, and cannot be fully detailed here, but the scientific and the curious are respectfully invited to call and see its effects.

Kingston, March 10, 1841. 72z

FOR SALE BY PRIVATE CONTRACT.

SITUATED in one of the most desirable parts of Kingston, TEN BUILDING LOTS, forming a Corner Frontage to Store Street, immediately opposite the residence of A. Manahan Esq., having another in the rear to Grave Street, with the residence of Col. Raines and ——Thoroughgood thereon, and containing one-fifth of an Acre each, admirably adapted for the Building Sites of [illegible] residents at the Seat of Government. It requires no practised eye to discover the present as being one of the best speculations before the public, much less to observe that from the local advantages with which it is surrounded, and the particular epoch of its being offered for sale, it cannot fail rapidly to increase in value. These Lots are well worthy the attention of persons about to build; as such an opportunity will not soon again occur.

A plan may be seen and terms known on application at the Auction Rooms of the subscriber, two doors south of the Bank of the People, King Street.
