DOMINION PARLIAMENT—MR PALMER'S SPEECH.

Mr Palmer said he would not have addressed the House, had it not been for the attack made upon him by the hon. member for Middlesex. But having got upon his feet he should endeavour to give what he considered the position of the cause. The hon. gentleman who had just spoken had abandoned the principles for the conduct of this case; and had taken the proper course. But he (Mr Palmer) could not agree with the principles of law laid down by the hon. member for the guidance of the House. He complained of the resolution, that it did not meet the charge made by Mr Huntington. He regretted that the questions had not been separated. It was a catch motion, made because the movers had not dared to prepound the principle that the charge was proven. Now that the resolution was in the form it was, he did not see how members could avoid all the questions raised by the last speaker. He would, therefore, first consider the matters that were undisputed. First, it was undisputed that there had been negotiations between Sir Hugh Allan and the Americans, but this he contended could be considered by no man a charge against the Government. As to the charge that there were negotiations between Sir Hugh Allan and the American capitalists and that the Government knew of it, that was utterly immaterial, and was no charge at all. The charge merely said that the Government were aware that negotiations were pending between Sir Hugh Allan and the Americans. Could this be considered a crime on the part of the Government. No, it was no charge at all. The next charge, and the only charge, was that of the corrupt manner. This was certainly a charge, and a grave charge. Now, it had never been proved that Sir Hugh Allan had got the contract, nor was first advanced in the charge. And yet it had been distinctly stated in this House second handedly, from the hon. member from South Bruce, that Sir Hugh Allan had got the contract and that the Government had got the money. The charge properly formulated was that the Government had made a bargain with Sir Hugh Allan to give him the contract; and if that were proved, he had no hesitation in saying that the Government were worthy of condemnation. But he had as little hesitation in saying that there was not a tittle of evidence to show that that was the case. As to the expenditure of money at elections, he thought that it was time that this should be enquired into; but not wishing to make fish of one and fowl of another, he desired that a general enquiry should take place. But on this ground merely he could not vote for the overthrow of Ministers whose general policy had been such that no man could put his foot in that county unless he were a supporter of the Government. But, however, that might be, if it could be proved that the Government had sold anything belonging to Canada they should be driven from power. He next alluded to the disreputable course which had been taken by the desperate leaders of the Opposition. There were some historical facts in connection with this matter which he should like the country to know. The first of these was, as sworn by the hon. member for Argenteuil, the documents on which these charges were founded were stolen from his (Mr Abbott's) office. Another historical fact was that a post letter had been stolen by these men. Another was that this G. W. McMullen, so much admired by Mr Glass, had attempted to levy blackmail on Sir Hugh Allan; another was that G. W. McMullen, so ready to make charges, had, when called upon by the laws of the country to appear and substantiate them, refused to come before the Royal Commission; also that the hon. members, when offered a Commission, refused to accept it in order that men like McMullen should be sworn. There was also another fact of an earlier date; the Hon. T. D. McGee, while the eloquent strains of his voice were yet echoing in this House, was shot down in the street for no other reason than his political opinions. All these things were echoing through the country, and it would be difficult to convince people that letters were stolen, the post office robbed, and no conspiracy. Then, as to Mr Huntington, and his refusal to appear before the Commission, he said that his reason for not appearing was that he could prove nothing. No one believed that he could prove the charges, but the hon. gentleman should at least have appeared and stated solemnly upon oath where he received the information upon which he based the very grave charges against the administration. This being the position of affairs, he thought that this question should be discussed in the manner laid down by the hon. member who had last spoken. The hon. member for Shefford had refused to appear before the Royal Commission. Suppose one of their houses had been broken into, they would have consented to the trial of the offender before any court. (No, no.) No. Well, he would leave the matter with his hon. friends; but it would appear that the object in this case was not so much to find out the criminal as to defeat the Government. After referring to the objections raised on constitutional grounds to the Royal Commission, and to the prorogation; he argued that the subject had not been taken out of the cognizance of the House, which might create another committee to make the enquiry, or might take the evidence taken before the Royal Commission, as they thought best. It was not true that the Premier had created his own judge; he had a voice in appointing the parties, who were to take the evidence; but this House was the judge. The letter of the hon. member for Shefford to Judge Day, proved that he thought that gentleman was too honourable to be on the Commission. The letters written by Sir Hugh Allan between the 16th and 31st of July, were no evidence whatever in the charge against the Government. He would like to know how much of the $40,000, it would take to become all right with the Globe? Gentlemen opposite did not like to hear this applied to the Globe, but they did not object to have it applied to the Premier. In the letters to his American friends, Sir Hugh stated positively, with reference to the $40,000, that he was all right with the Globe, but there was no positive statement in those letters in reference to the Government. The Opposition wished to take one part of Sir Hugh Allan's evidence and leave out of the question the rest, in order to make good their charge against the Government. Sir Hugh said distinctly in his evidence, that he had no agreement either verbal or otherwise, or through any person acting for him with the Government or any member, thereof, in respect to the Pacific Railway contract.

Interruptions having been frequently made by members of the Opposition. Mr Palmer moved the adjournment of the debate.—Ottawa Times.

MR DAVID GLASS.

The Mail says: "Elected a Conservative in the Conservative Riding of East Middlesex, Mr David Glass, as bumptious a politician as ever addressed "Mr Speaker," has seen fit to go against the Government he was elected to support. For the benefit of such as he we quote from the Globe of May 6th, 1873:—

"If Mr Glass were not about the most miserable trimmer, who ever had an itching to get into Parliament, we should try to pity him. We put the fate of Mr Glass, the London trimmer, on record as a warning to politicians. A more clever trimmer than Mr David Glass might get into Parliament once or twice, but his success could not last long. Of all kinds of politicians the trimmers have been the most short-lived, and their brief careers have usually been the most miserable."

The Montreal Gazette remarks:—The speech of Mr Glass, in which he announced his defection from the Conservative party, was chiefly remarkable for a eulogy of McMullen and his sneers at the troubles of leaders whom he has followed for years, and to sustain whom he was elected to Parliament. No one should question the right of a public man to sever his connection with his political associates if conviction compels him to do so; but one can only feel contempt for the man who in doing so flippantly threws dirt upon his own leaders. Mr Glass established his full title to a least a corporal's rank in the ignoble army of politicians who pause at no means, however dishonourable, to accomplish their objects, and who revel in abuse and vilification in their efforts to break down the reputation of public men. He had the opportunity of showing himself a high-toned gentleman, who, from honest conviction, was forced to part from his old friends. He has shown himself simply a petulant politician, who, in his efforts to quiet the promptings of his own conscience . . . his desertion of his old leader, "out-Herods" the regular opponents of that leader in his flippant abuse.

It is only necessary to add the following little paragraph which indicates the fate in store for the traitor:

London, Oct. 28. The news which reached here this afternoon that the member for East Middlesex was about to speak against the Government, caused intense and universal indignation amongst his constituents. David Glass was never beloved. He has long been detested, but he is now abhorred, and if his effigy is not burnt at every cross road it will not be because his constituents lack the spirit. It is understood that they will unanimously demand his immediate resignation.

CONFIRMATION AT BROCKVILLE.

The Bishop of the Diocese held a confirmation here on Sunday, the 19th inst., when 53 candidates, some of whom were adults, were confirmed. His address, given afterwards, was much to the point, and expressive of an earnest solicitude for the welfare of those before him. In the course of it he said that as he had admitted many of them into the Church by Holy Baptism in the earlier years of his ministry, it was with peculiar interest he now returned as their Bishop to confirm them; but deep as that interest was for old association's sake, it was still deeper for their future, and urged upon them the importance of using the means of grace to continue a religious life. Holy Communion was then administered, and those just confirmed communicated, as well as many others, glad thus to join with their Bishop in testifying their faith in their Saviour's blood. There was a pouring rain all day but the church was full. In the afternoon the Bishop drove down to Maitland to hold a confirmation there, returning for evening service, and preached to the delight of his hearers; and on the following morning went on to Ranktown. This visit, though short, was an occasion of true pleasure to the people, who retain a sincere affection for him. Church Herald.

IRON IN THE BLOOD.—When the blood is well supplied with its iron element, we feel vigorous and full of animation. It is an insufficiency of this vital element that makes us feel weak and low-spirited; in such cases, the Peruvian Syrup (a protoxide of iron) can supply this deficiency, and its use will invigorate us wonderfully.—Adv.

Men make steam engines of themselves from morning till night, and, we vice versa, dream of gold. The fearful strain upon the nervous system by thus taxing themselves produces not only Heart Disease, Dyspepsia and Lung Maladies, but is often the direct cause of Apoplexy, Insanity and Suicide. It is very remarkable that during the world's progress discoveries are made suitable to the times. Hardly had we become prepared for speedy transit when the Railroad and the Steamboat were introduced, the desire for rapid intelligence developed the Telegraph. Coals are usually discovered as wood becomes scarce, and now, when men's minds are being taxed to their utmost in order to secure and enjoy the luxuries of an extravagant age, Fellows' Hypophosphites appear that they may by artificial means keep up this mental strain to an indefinite extent.—Adv.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

BY CHRONIC WASTING diseases is understood those old complaints that have run a long time and resisted all ordinary methods of treatment. They usually depend upon hereditary taint or dyspepsia, resulting in depraved nutrition and impoverished blood, Consumption, Scrofula, Kidney Disease, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Eruptions of the Skin, Spinal Irritations, Ulcers of flesh and bone belonging to this numerous class. Radical and permanent cure results from the use of Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya, which perfects the digestion of food, and creates pure, vitalizing blood to repair the diseased organs, and prevents nervous exhaustion and general debility by furnishing material to generate nerve force.

PSYCHOMANCY, OR SOUL CHARMING

How either sex may fascinate and gain the love and affections of any persons they choose, instantly. This simple mental acquirement all can possess, free, by mail, for 25 cents, together with a Marriage Guide, Egyptian Oracle, Dreams, Hints to Ladies, &c. A queer exciting book. 100,000 sold. Address T. WILLIAM & CO., South Eighth St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Middlings Separator.

WE have lately obtained Letters Patent for Canada on our Middlings Separator (known in the States as Jones' Middlings Separator). This machine is the most popular and perfect yet invented. Hundreds of them have been sold in the States in the past two years, and are now running and giving satisfaction to the purchasers.

The patent claim is a very broad and strong one. We desire to lease the territory of Canada on a royalty fee, subdivided to suit the lessors. A Millwright who can associate with himself a machine carpenter, firm, or vice versa, would make a suitable party to take the lease, and will find it profitable beyond any ordinary business.

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public, sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

LIEBIG'S Liquid Extract of Beef

AND TONIC INVIGORATOR.

BESIDES the Condensed Beef prepared from the best parts of the animal, the preparation contains Quinine, Peruvian Bark, and numerous herbs and roots grown for their tonic and health-giving properties.

THIS IS THE ONLY CONDENSED BEEF THAT DOES NOT REQUIRE COOKING OR WARMING. It was especially manufactured under the direction of BARON VON LIEBIG, before the FRANCO-PRUSSIAN WAR, for the German soldiers. Its tonic qualities are much greater than those found in any ordinary Specific or Appetiser, and its nutritive properties are sufficient to sustain the body without the addition of solid food. It is now recommended by the Faculty in preference to anything else as the best remedy for CONSUMPTION, GENERAL DEBILITY, LOSS OF APPETITE, LOWNESS OF SPIRITS, INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, LASSITUDE, &c.

No article has yet been discovered that is so effective in all cases of failing health in the old or weakness in the young. This preparation is not only the best, but it is the cheapest Beef Extract offered to the public; TWO TABLESPOONFUL being sufficient THREE TIMES A DAY.

Great care should be taken in purchasing the LIQUID BEEF EXTRACT. See that the bottle contains the German Label and Certificate from Professor Wagner, of the University of Wurtzburgh, and that it is prepared by the Liebig's German Beef Extract Co., of Hamburg, as other Extract of an inferior quality have been put on the market.

Sold by all Hotel keepers, Grocers, and Druggists throughout Canada.

☞ Price 60 cents per bottle.
