BY TELEGRAPH.

CABLE NEWS.

London, Nov. 30.—The Times this morning comments with wonder on the rapid progress of the Pacific Railroad. It notices extraordinary features of the road, commends the enterprise of the American people in overcoming obstacles heretofore deemed insurmountable, and explains the influence this great project will have on the commerce of the world.

Paris, Nov. 30.—John D. Hall, American Minister to Spain, is in this city consulting physicians with regard to his failing health.

Henry W. Longfellow is at Genoa.

Queenstown, Dec. 1.—The steamer Liberia, from New York, has arrived.

The Cuba sailed on Monday for New York.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

London, Dec. 1, 9 a m.—Consols 93¼ for money and account. Bonds dull at 74¼; Erie 27; Illinois Central 96½.

Liverpool, Dec. 1, 9 a.m.—Cotton steady. Cheese 66s. Lard firm. Petroleum—refined 9½d.

New York Press Despatches.

New York, Dec. 1.—A suit in the name of the people, on a complaint of the Attorney General, was commenced yesterday in the Albany courts against the Erie railroad, asking that the Directors be removed. An order was granted by Judge Peckham suspending the Board pending the hearing of the motion for absolute removal next Monday.

The Herald's Guaymas letter gives a description of a storm in that region in October. The town of Loreto in Lower California was destroyed. The mining works on Yaqui River were swept off, and a water spout burst over the city of Alamos, destroying the town completely. Seventy dead bodies had been picked up.

The steamship France, from Liverpool, arrived this morning.

The dinner of the St. Andrew's Society last evening at Delmonico's was a brilliant affair, and was largely attended. Speeches were made by Judge Brady, Joseph Choate, Mayor Hoffman, and many others.

Mayor Hoffman retired from office at noon yesterday. Mr Coman becomes Mayor until the 1st of January next, by virtue of his office as President of the Board of Aldermen.

The World says at a late hour last evening it was denied that either Mr Gould or Mr Fisk had left the city. The detectives who called at Mr Davies' residence yesterday morning and announced the departure for Canada, were, it is now rumoured, led purposely astray by interested parties.

The Times special says considerable comment is made here on the appointment of John Savage of New York, as Consul to Leeds. Mr Savage being an Irish Exile and President of one wing of the Fenian Brotherhood, it is looked upon as a test appointment, and may possibly put a new phase on the question of the rights of naturalized citizens abroad.

Great complaints are indulged in by the French papers of Quebec in reference to the continued exodus to the States of the youth of the country.

THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON AND HIS SCHOOLFELLOW.—The New Free Press of Vienna publishes a letter written by the Emperor Napoleon III. to an old schoolfellow, who having become a surgeon, had fallen into distressed circumstances. In consequence, he was unable to wait on his Majesty at Salzburg, in 1867, but he requested an audience of Prince Napoleon, when the latter was at Pesth, and was recommended by him to write to the Emperor. He did so, and received the following reply:—"St. Cloud, Sept. 10.—I have learned with much sympathy your painful situation, and I hasten to comply with your request. Never have I forgotten the time I passed in Germany, where my mother received a noble hospitality, and I myself the first advantages of instruction, and found in you a kind companion and a friend. Exile offers painful but useful trials; it teaches us better to know foreign nations, and to judge without prejudice their good qualities and their worth. And if, at a later period, the natal soil is revisited, the reminiscence is always preserved of the companions among whom one's youth has been passed, and the remembrance remains firmly, notwithstanding time and politics. Your letter affords me an opportunity of expressing these sentiments, which are mine. Receive this as a proof of the close sympathy with which I am yours, Napoleon."

BRITISH TRADE WITH THE UNITED STATES.

The value of British produce and manufactures exported to the United States, including California, last year, was £21,825,703, against £28,499,514 in 1866, and £15,344,392 in 1853; in the five years 1863-67 the increase was £6,481,311. The value of the principal articles of British produce exported in each of the years 1863 and 1867 respectively was as follows: Woolens, £3,439,199, and £3,590,681; iron, £2,107,427, and £3,298,289; cotton, £2,155,035, and £3,166,603; linens, £2,282,010, and £2,918,530; tin, £831,779, and £1,477,450; apparel and haberdashery, £800,902, and £972,245; soda £356,574 and £801,746; hardware and cutlery, £349,447, and £719,269; earthenware and porcelain, £356,329, and £711,349; machinery, £50,037, and £336,484. The value of foreign and colonial produce and manufacture exported to the United States, including California, last year, was £2,296,108, against £4,352,393, in 1863. This large decrease in the five years of £2,056,285, is chiefly owing to a falling off in the exports of cotton, wool, and hemp. The value of these exports in each of the years 1863 and 1867 was—raw cotton, £1,391,749, and £16,319; wool, £1,049,919, and £210,293; hemp, £74,441, and £14,311. The value of the imports from the United States, including California, to the United Kingdom, was £19,572,033 in 1863, and £41,044,272, last year, showing the large increase in the five years of £21,473,239. The value of some of the principal articles imported in each of the years 1863 and 1867 was as follows: Raw cotton, £644,138, and £25,721,079; corn, £7,433,491, and £6,723,963; cheese, £925,007, and £1,470,017; tobacco, unmanufactured, £1,536,145, and £1,079,005; bacon and hams, £2,411,771, and £727,627; lard, £996,675, and £586,324; oilseed cake, £258,013, and £743,602; petroleum £658,632, and £364,675; tallow, £524,554, and £321,095; rosin, £3,506, and £256,769; oil, £334,207, and £567,749; skins and furs, £201,691, and £231,637.

Mr Reverdy Johnson was so complimentary to England, Lord Stanley, London and British institutions, that he seems to have been frightened when he read the next day a report of his own speech. Accordingly he sent a revised edition in very sobered terms to the papers, which the Daily News prints side by side with the actual oration, remarking on the great convenience of having two speeches for one occasion. The actual speech was obviously meant for England, and the second thoughts for America.

It is very painful for an English journal to have to record any acts of official cruelty or excessive severity, even when directed against such unquestionably guilty men as the leaders of the Fenian plot. But, however we (Daily Telegraph) may applaud a firm repression of anything like conspiracy, we are strongly inclined to the opinion that justice should be tempered with mercy, and that nothing should be done to aggravate the domestic misery that may be caused by the punishment of the unfortunate men. We therefore read with pain a story in the Irish papers relating to Captain Mackay, once the leader of the Cork Fenians, but who is now in gaol. When his young and devoted wife, after an enforced separation of several months, was admitted to an interview, she found that prison diet and prison rules had so affected his appearance that "she hardly knew him again—he had grown so fat!"

The French Government is said to be urging the Pope to cede to Italy the provinces of Frosinone and Velletri, as the price of a guarantee of his remaining territories. The Pope has conferred the dignity of prince-assistant of the throne on the son of the Duke of Gallese, a boy six years old. The Duke is a Frenchman, originally named Hardouin, and was a sergeant in the army of General Oudinot when it marched into Rome. On that occasion he was seen from a window by the Duchess of Gallese, who, attracted by his fine appearance, bestowed on him her hand and fortune, together with a Roman dukedom. Soon afterwards the Duchess died, when the Duke married the pretty daughter of the shopkeeper, and the boy is the offspring of the second marriage. There have hitherto been but two prince-assistants of the throne, Colonna and Ossini, who held the dignity by hereditary right, and its bestowal on a child of foreign extraction and plebeian blood has given offence not only to those ancient houses, but to the whole Roman nobility. By such acts the Pope alienates all classes; and while the people regard him as a despot, the aristocracy denounce him as a revolutionist.

A strange suit of disputed testamentary succession has been commenced in Bengal, the estate claimed being worth, it is said, £40,000 a year. The claimant is a Christian convert, the only son of a highly respected and prosperous Bengalee Brahmin, the Baboo Prosunno Coumar Tagore, Companion of the Order of the Star of India. The Baboo died not long ago, and on his death-bed, to mark his anger at his son's apostacy, executed a will by which he left the bulk of his property to a nephew, already a wealthy man, with an estate of his own valued at £20,000 a year. The joy of the Brahmins over the pious death of the Baboo was great; but the Christian and disinherited son has impugned the validity of the will in the supreme court, on the ground that the instrument illegally proposed to tie up the disposition of the property for a hundred years. It is anticipated that the court will upset the will; and, if so, the case will be sent for final decision before the judicial committee of the privy council; when, it would not be easy to forecast. Besides the bequest to his nephew, the Baboo left large legacies to the University of Calcutta, to a famous idol, and to several charitable societies. If the son's suit be successful, all these will, of course, be invalidated. The singular feature in the case is that the Bengalees speak of the will as a clever attempt at "cheating the devil in the dark." The Baboo, they hint, was anxious at once to secure his son, and to make sure of his own pretensions to Brahminical purety. So, though a skilled lawyer and manyof business, he designedly left an obvious flaw in the will.

A HERO.—Amongst the deaths of the month is that of Mr James Hayward, of the Surrey Hotel, Johnson street, Collingwood, whose name is remembered by many colonists in connection with the extinction of a fire on board the ship John Mellush, on the passage from London to Sydney, in December, 1852, under very remarkable circumstances. The vessel carried upwards of 200 passengers. The fire broke out in the hold where one of the sailors had been tampering with a brandy cask, and a large stream of spirit from the cask had ignited. The utmost consternation prevailed on board, when Mr Hayward went below, and with great presence of mind thrust his thumb into the hole in the cask whence the spirit which was feeding the fire flowed. The edges of the aperture being rough, he was unable to completely stop the stream, and the brandy continuing to flow, a blue flame ran up his arm, and set fire to his shirt, hair and clothes. Mr Hayward, however, knowing that the safety of the ship depended on his devotion, heroically maintained his position for five minutes, when Captain Jenkins came to his aid with water from the hose and wet blankets. But for the determination evinced by Mr Hayward the brandy cask must soon have burst, and as there were 270 similar casks near it, nothing could have saved the ship.—Melbourne (Australia) Argus.

EFFECT OF ADVERTISING.—It is amusing at times to observe the stores of the merchants who don't advertise; to see the anxious proprietors looking into the streets and see the people go by, wondering why they don't come in, while the stores of their neighbours who do advertise are thronged with customers. Some people will learn by observation, others will not.—Daily Palladium.

ART OF ADVERTISING.—Horace Greeley, of New York, says:—The most successful business men in this city are those who have advertised liberally and constantly. A small advertisement constantly appearing is better than a display column occasionally.
