

Former Editor Honoured

In recognition of forty-two years service with this newspaper, for many years as Editor, Ford W. Moynes is shown receiving an engraved silver tray presented by S. R. Pitts, for twenty years owner and publisher of The Watchman. The inscription reads: Presented to Ford W. Moynes in recognition of 42 years outstanding service to The Watchman-Warder — Stan Pitts, Publisher.

Kenlin Studio.

Colleagues Pay Tribute To Ford W. Moynes Veteran Newsman

Management and staff of The Watchman-Warder joined in paying tribute to Ford W. Moynes, Dean of Lindsay newspapermen on Friday, April 21st.

In his long newspaper career, Mr. Moynes served for a time in Stratford and with the Lindsay Post but it was with The Watchman-Warder that he attained the remarkable record of forty-two years in various capacities in the News and Advertising department of the paper. For the past several years until his retirement from full-time responsibility a few months ago, he was in charge of the Editorial department.

S. R. Pitts, publisher and owner for the past twenty years paid tribute to Mr. Moynes sterling qualities as a newspaperman and as a gentleman and presented him with an engraved silver tray. Mrs. Moynes was also presented with an attractive gift.

Mr. Hugh Northey, on behalf of The Warder staff, presented a lovely desk clock.

Following the presentations and addresses, light refreshments were served and a happy time of reminiscing enjoyed by all.