MOTHERS, READ THIS!
Holloway's Worm Lozenges.
ARE a certain and safe remedy for Children and Adults. As a mild aperient and melancholy fact that one-half of the death among children is from worms, cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of ridding their children. By so doing many of the symptoms and true cause of thousands of children might be saved from graves.
SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.—The symptoms are few of the very numerous symptoms which are caused by Worms: Loss of appetite, emaciated extremities, cough, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of hearing, frequent slimy stools, and sometimes fits, pain in the head and stomach, fainting, trembling, cough, low spirits, frightful dreams, and a wasting away of flesh.
They are palatable and self-administering. Drive out the worms, relieve the child—drive out the worms, relieve the child, and completely cleanse the system, thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other nauseous articles—as in the use of other Worm Lozenges.
☞ Each Box contains the signature of NORTHROP & LYMAN, New York, who are the sole proprietors.
N. B.—Ask for Holloway's Worm Lozenges, and take no other. Sold by all Druggists in Kingston and all Medicine Vendors.

FRIDAY EVENING, MARCH 13.

DEATH OF KING AT QUEEN CAROLINE'S DEATH-BED.

For the king, he was heart-broken, he was himself. He could not leave off to that last moment. By way of waking over her, "he lay on the bed all night in his night-gown, he could not sleep, nor she turn easily." He went out and in continually, telling everybody, with tears, of her old habit of scolding when he was by her side. "How the devil should I sleep when you will never lie still a minute," he cried, with an impatience those who have watched by death-beds at least understand. "You want rest, and the doctors tell you nothing but you so much good, and yet you never move about. Nobody can sleep in such a manner, and that is always your cry, never take the proper method to make you sleep, and then you wonder you don't rest." He tortured her to keep a healthful watcher does with children. "How is it possible you should know whether you like a thing or not?" he said. He was half crazed with grief and love, and a kind of panic. He talked of his grievances, and talked without the slightest of her and himself, with a perfect logical sense, as if talking of a case that had come to an end. When the doctors had been given over, and was no longer to be trifled with false hopes, she gave him, with her last advice and blessing, the Eau who had sold her the night, was not there. He was at his home in town, flattering himself "we shall soon have good news, she will hold out much longer." Nor was the princess royal, at her mother's side. But she had her boy, William, with her in this solemn domestic scene, one of the to think of as Cumberland, and younger daughters. She enjoined her son to be kind by the king, but never to do anything against his brother. She committed her daughter Caroline the charge of her little girls, Mary and Louisa. "Poor Caroline, it is the legacy I leave you," she said. She was the one calm and tearless mid her weeping family. Then she sent for the king. It is here that the history is a horrible power, half grotesque, almost half comic, amid the tragedy. She counselled him to marry again, as he sobbing by her bedside. Poor man, he hysterical, too, with grief and excitement. Wiping his eyes and sobbing between every word, with much ado he got his answer in French:—"No; I have mistresses." To which the Queen had no other reply than "Ah, mon Dieu! I need not hinder you." Criticism is confounded before such an incident. Hope is possible poor Caroline, sick heart, did not wish for the successor suggested a life more perfect than her husband; and we all know by experience, although we all never allow in ourselves, that the near approach of death has a chill effect upon the mind as of any other familiar accident of life. Her minister came to say his farewell. "Good Sir Robert," she said, "I have long to say to you, but to recommend my people and the kingdom to care." "On the Sunday, weary of suffering, she asked the doctor how it could last. It lasted only till the Friday. "I have now got an asthma," said, with what almost seems a last jest, "Oh, the window!"—then, after an interval—"Pray." This her last word, with it the shadows round one of the most remarkable lives that has ever been lived in England.—Cornhill's Magazine.

A hearty dinner is soon to be served up in New York.

The origin of the word "flirt" is thus given: Among the gallants of the court of the Fourteenth, a habit prevailed of addressing their girlish friends as "ma mie," or "my little flower." The noun soon grew into a verb, and the diminutive "demoiselle" was used in offering of attention to a lady. After the importation of the term "fleurette" to England it degenerated to "fleuter" and then to "flirt."

The following clause of the English Reform act of last year will obviate the necessity for the re-election of any present member in the House of Commons on his accepting one office for another:—"Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to offices of profit, the acceptance of which by the crown vacates the seats of members accepting the same, but does not render them incapable of being re-elected: It is enacted that where a person has been elected a member to serve in Parliament, the acceptance by him from the crown of any office described in Schedule D. of the act aforesaid, and the subsequent acceptance by him from the crown of any other office in lieu of and in immediate succession to the first office, shall not vacate his seat."

It is agreeable news to hear of the success of the efforts of the Ordnance Select Committee to provide the country with good guns, in order to arm as rapidly as possible the forts and batteries at home and in the colonies with rifled cannon. The first instalment of cast-iron 32-pounders, converted by Sir W. Armstrong and Co. for the Victoria Government, on Palliser's plan, underwent some seventy-two discharges at Shoeburness, as much, it is said, as 1000 lb. of powder and 80 lb. of shot. It was afterwards condemned by the ordnance authorities, and submitted to the Ordnance Select Committee to try out of 2,000 rounds of service. This gun has just completed its task, having fired through 2,076 rounds without injury, beyond a few scratches such as that depth of one-tenth of an inch. This result is a proof of the extraordinary pitch of excellence to which the Ordnance Company have brought their rifled barrels. It is stated, moreover, that their converted 68-pounders, when fitting bastering charges at Shoeburness, Colonel Clarke's strengthened carriage answers admirably, one of the converted 68-pounders, having fired 100 rounds from it with 25lb. of powder and 80 shot. Nothing could be better than the way the carriage behaved. Altogether, it is to be congratulated that the results of the efforts of General Lefroy and the officers of the Ordnance Select Committee.—Army and Navy Gazette.

SUICIDE OF A WIZARD.

The Cleveland Leader contains the following correspondence dated March 6, from Meadville, Ohio:

Before this comes to hand you will have learned that Professor Anderson, the well-known prestidigitateur, committed suicide last night in Cincinatti by shooting, first killing his little son. The cause, no doubt, was domestic trouble. A despatch was received here this morning from Cincinnati, saying that Mrs Anderson would no doubt be on the Eastern bound express train, and in company with the man described. A telegram to Mrs A. was also sent, which if she was discovered, was to be given to her. Mrs Anderson was on the train, and in company with the man described, whose name is Morris, an individual who had been in the employ of Professor Anderson as a supernumerary. When the despatch was handed to her, Morris reached out his hand and took it, opened and read it, and then handed it to the victim of his wiles. It read about as follows: "Your husband last night killed your little boy and then shot himself. They are both dead. Come back, for God's sake!" The poor creature was quite crushed by the awful news, but struggled to her feet and left the car, the man Morris following her. She went into the McHenry House, and remained till the afternoon express train left, when she started for her desolate home.

The appearance of the couple attracted attention on the train. She seemed to be dejected, and labouring under great distress of mind, and paid but little attention to him, who talked to her almost incessantly in a low tone of voice. She is represented to be quite a fine looking woman of thirty to thirty-five years of age, with a face indicating weakness rather than wickedness. No punishment could be too severe for the wretch who is the author of this terrible tragedy. We pity the poor ruined woman.

ENGLISH MAIL NEWS.

In England at the latest moment the Ministerial crisis caused by Lord Derby's resignation was the all absorbing theme in the political world. It was generally conceded on all hands that Mr Disraeli was fairly entitled to the honour conferred upon him by the Queen as the leader of his party.

At the meeting of the Atlantic Telegraph Company on the 25th the Directors' report was adopted, and a resolution was passed authorizing the raising of the additional capital, £1,800,000, to buy up the Anglo-American Company. Of this capital it was announced that £800,000 or £900,000 had been already subscribed.

The London News says the navy estimates will show a large pecuniary reduction.

It is understood that an attempt will be made soon, on behalf of the Jamaica Committee, to revive the prosecution against Mr Eyre. Sir Robert Collier will apply to the Bow street magistrate for a warrant to arrest Mr Eyre on account of his part in the putting to death of Mr Gordon, of Kingston, Jamaica. Sir Robert Collier has been retained by Mr J. Stuart Mill and Mr P. A. Taylor, who are acting in the matter as representatives of the Jamaica Committee.

The Court of Assizes at Ajaccio has just tried a woman named Maria Castola on a charge of burning to death a married woman whom she considered her rival. The victim had gone from her husband's house to visit her parents and recover her health, and on her return she found Castola occupying the position of her husband's mistress. Quarrels took place between the two women, and the accused finished the affair by forcibly placing the wife upon the fire and holding her there until she was literally roasted to death. The husband was not implicated, no charge being made against him. Castola was condemned to hard labour for life.

The sanguine promises of plenty of work and high wages in America held out two to members of the Scottish Iron Moulders' Society a few months ago have not been realized. Three members of the union who went to the United States last November in the hope of finding plenty of work have sent home a melancholy warning to their comrades, in which they state that they have been ten weeks in Pennsylvania and "have not yet found an hour's work." They complain in very severe terms of the officers of both Scottish and English societies "for withholding information relating to trade in America." "The members at home," they say, "have been continually kept in the dark. All kinds of work are equally scarce; we see nothing but starvation before us, and hundreds of our fellow-moulders who have come here, as we did, are in a like, or even worse, condition." The president of an Iron Moulders' Union in Philadelphia corroborates the statement of the unfortunate Scottish emigrants. "Fully three-fourths of the labouring population of the States are now out of work," he says, "and there seems to be no prospect of better." He denounces the "emigration scheme" promoted by the officers of the English and Scotch trade unions as "a direct outrageous fraud" practised upon their own members, and a gross imposition upon the American people. If the leaders of trade societies can make no reply to this to this they ought to be severely punished in some way or other.—Scotsman.

The relations between the commodore on the Australian station and the captain of the Galatea (for in that light must we regard the Duke of Edinburgh) have not been conducted in the manner we could wish during the time that the Galatea has been within the bounds of Captain Lambert's command. We have been informed that the senior officer on one occasion communicated to his junior the orders he had received from the Admiralty, and the latter, by way of answer, replied by telegraph that the later orders in his possession which rendered him independent, and much more to the same effect. If his Royal Highness is in charge of the property of the public merely for his own gratification, or for state reasons, the fact should have been intimated to the commanding officers on the different stations which he has visited, and is about to visit, so that no contretemps should have been permitted to exist; but if he is visiting different quarters of Her Majesty's dominions as a captain of the royal navy, he should be prepared to act as any other officer of his rank would on meeting with a superior.—Army and Navy Gazette.

CAUTION.
THE perfection and cheapness of the American (Waltham) watch have given it such a wide-world celebrity that unscrupulous dealers years ago imitated its style and pirated its trade marks. Irresponsible dealers are occasionally found who fraitively trade upon the popularity of the American watch by selling a base imitation under the name of the genuine article.
It is hardly necessary to state that such watches are worthless as time-keepers, and when bought for the genuine are calculated to injure the high reputation which our watches have attained. The several grades of the American watch (except the lowest grade marked Home Watch Co.) are guaranteed by special certificate bearing the number of the watch and the signature of the Treasurer of the Company, R. E. ROBBINS. The purchaser should in all cases require one of these certificates, which is furnished to all dealers in the genuine watches.
The following are the trade marks on the several grades of our manufacture:—
AMERICAN WATCH CO.
APPLETON, TRACY & CO.
WALTHAM WATCH CO.
P. S. BARTLETT.
WM. ELLERY.
HOME WATCH CO.
PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD CO.
Office of the General Superintendent, Altona, Pa., 15th Dec., 1866.
GENTLEMEN—The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this Railroad for several years by our engine men, to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are some THREE HUNDRED OF THEM CARRIED ON OUR LINE, and we consider them GOOD and RELIABLE TIME-KEEPERS. Indeed I have great satisfaction in saying YOUR WATCHES GIVE US LESS TROUBLE and have worn and do wear much longer without repairs than any watches we have ever had in use on this road. As you are aware we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation, but as a class they never keep time as correctly, nor have they done as good service as yours.
In these statements I am sustained by my predecessor, Mr Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years.
Respectfully,
EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent.
American Watch Co., Waltham.
NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD.
Locomotive Dep't Western Division, Rochester, Dec. 24, 1866.
GENTLEMEN—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe the great majority of locomotive engineers have found by experience that WALTHAM WATCHES ARE THE MOST SATISFACTORY of any for their uses. They RUN WITH THE GREATEST ACCURACY AND STEADINESS, notwithstanding the roughriding of an engine; and as I have NEVER KNOWN ONE TO WEAR OUT, they must be durable. I hope to see the time when railway companies will generally adopt your watches, and furnish them to all engineers and conductors. In my opinion it would greatly tend to promote regularity and safety.
Yours respectfully,
CHARLES WILSON,
G. Chief Engineer,

TESTIMONIAL
From Sig. Carlo Mora, Professor of Music, Kingston:
HAVING had ample opportunity of testing Mr Reyner & Son's Tuning and Repairing of Pianofortes, &c., since I have been in Kingston, I heartily recommend them to all those having Instruments to tune or repair, and would further advise those that have Instruments that are not in good order, to give them a call at once, as delay will only occasion more work and money when it is done.
SIG. CARLO MORA,
Professor of Music,
Kingston.

FROM MR RIDDELL.
MR REYNER has recently re-covered the Hammers of the Pianoforte used in my family with the new improved patent leather, and otherwise repaired it. He has also tuned it, and it is altogether much improved, the quality of the tone being greatly better than before the Instrument was put into his hands. I shall certainly continue to keep the piano under his charge for the future.

Toronto, Sept. 13, 1866.
Messrs MUSGROVE & WRIGHT,
B. A. Com. College, Toronto.
Dear Sirs,—We have much pleasure in testifying to the order of training for commercial pursuits obtained by the young men educated at your College.
We have now in our employment one of your graduates who, notwithstanding the fact that he never had any previous experience, has proved himself a most reliable, accurate, and efficient Book-keeper.
We may further state, that having had occasion to engage another office hand we gave a decided preference to one of your graduates. In short, we have no hesitation in saying, that as far as our experience goes, your course of training is eminently adapted to make a thoroughly efficient office man.
Yours truly,
LYMAN & MACNAB.

Messrs MUSGROVE & WRIGHT,
B. A. Com. College, Toronto.
Dear Sirs,—We can eminently recommend your establishment to the business public, from which to select their Book-keepers. The young man in our employ bears testimony to the efficient system in vogue in your College, and the accurate habits acquired therefrom, and though different houses pursue different methods, yet the general principles, rules, and varieties of commerce are so thoroughly inculcated by your system of tuition, as to render the knowledge applicable to each peculiarity in each peculiar system.
Your efforts are worthy of every appreciation, in founding a sound Commercial Emporium of the intelligent youth of Canada, and though occasionally students fail to become proficient, it can only be attributed to lack of ability on the students part, and not the incapacity of the tutor. We shall ever give and advise preference to your pupils for an office, and feel glad to thus attest our experience of the same.
We remain, Gentlemen, yours, &c.,
