The budget debate in the Legislature, which has been dragging its weary length along, was brought to a close on Tuesday, when the vote resulted in a majority of seven for the government.

Interest in the war has perceptably calmed down since the English got on their feet and confidence has been restored. General Roberts is at Bloemfontein preparing himself for a further advance towards Pretoria, and will probably remain there for a week or two. The next fighting will likely be in Natal with Buller's army. There are continued rumors of intended foreign interference but Britain is not unprepared for foreign foes.

Dowieism has received a crushing blow by the exposure given that colossal charlatan, in the Ram's Horn of last two issues, and it is likely that John Alexander Dowie will shortly be but a memory of the past. The Ram's Horn has given him a most scathing exposure, and prints letters from former adherents who were in close touch with his business methods and who repudiated him after having their eyes opened to the enormity of his wrongdoing and blasphemy. The former manager of his printing house is one of these This man charges Dowie with buying a summer house in Michigan for $10,000, a carriage and horses for $2500, and a sleigh costing $125, while he was owing his hands in the publishing house. He also charges him with falsehood, covetousness and trickery. The evidence of this man and many others is given under oath, and the list of sins charged to this herculean fraud are many in number. May they speedily find him out and render him harmless for further injury to an gullible public.

A contingent of the Salvation Army invaded our town on Wednesday evening, 14th inst. They paraded our streets and then resorted to the Orange hall, where a meeting was held.

The Methodist social which was held in the ice rink on Thursday, 15th, was a success, a very enjoyable evening being spent in music and skating.

The Presbyterians will hold a social in the manse on Wednesday evening, 21st.

It becomes our painful duty this week to chronicle the death of Mrs. Baines, one of our most esteemed lady citizens, who departed this life after a few hours' illness while visiting her daughter, Mrs. English, at Glascott. She was in her usual state of health and went to her daughter's on Friday for a visit and on Sunday morning she told her daughter that she did not feel well. A messenger was despatched for her husband in town but ere he reached her side her spirit had taken its flight. The remains were conveyed from her daughter's home to their last resting place out in Sullivan township, followed by a large concourse of friends and accuaintances. Mr. Baines and family have the sympathy of the community in this, their unexpected and sudden bereavement.

Mr. John Walker is confined to his house at present by illness, which we hope is not serious.

Robt. Reaburn, son of Mr. Chas. Reaburn of Shelburne, on Tuesday last, sustained fatal injuries while working in a portable saw mill on Lot 18, 2nd line, east, Mulmur. The chain that carries the saw dust had slipped off the sprocket and Robert went down below the saw table to put it on. For some reason he could not get the chain on, and Mr. Thos. Reaburn called to him to come up and he would go down and put it on. For some reason he could not get the chain on, and Mr. Thos. Reaburn called to him to come up and he would go down and put on. Robert was climing out when his coat cought on the shaft or saw spindle and he was wound around it, his legs coming in contact with the saw, cutting off both feet a little above the ankle. It took some little time to liberate him from his terrible position, and then medical help was hastily summoned. In addition to the injuries inflicted by the saw the young man's body was badly bruised, and his head was cut. There was from the first no hope of his recovery, and all the medical attendants could do was to dress the wounds and endeavor to give some ease to the sufferer. Death took place about five o'clock Tuesday evening.—Shelburn Economist.

Patriotic Concert

God save our volunteers,
Hear Thou our earnest prayers
For one and all;
May they be bold and strong,
To fight against the wrong,
Nor let the fight be long,
God save our Boys.

When dangers round them stand,
Defend with Thy right hand
Our chosen men;
Give them the victory, Lord,
For Thee they draw the sword,
Drive back the rebel horde,
God save our boys.

Lord, hear us while we pray,
For lov'd ones far away,
Keep by thy power
Give rest on gory bed,
Pillow the aching head
On words Thou hast said
God save our boys.

In these dark days of strife
Renew the daily life
Of Britain's Queen;
Enrich her heart of love,
With blessings from above,
Let every cloud remove.
God save our Queen.

Our patriotic concert has come and gone and has demonstrated that the people in this vicinity are not a whit behind those of other sections in their loyalty to Queen, Flag and Country. The town hall was crowded as it has never been before; the audience was most enthusiastic, the chairman (Dr. Christoe) was most felicitous in his remarks, the program was one of the choicest ever presented to a Flesherton audience, and what more could be asked to make up a successful concert? The entertainment opened with instrumental music by the band, followed by the national anthem by the Glee Club, in the chorus of which the audience joined most heartily. The chairman's address was very short but pointed. A splendid chorus, "Queen, Flag and Country," was next given, after which our rising young artist, Master Elwood Genoe, recited "The Absent minded Beggar" with good effect, and Mr. E. W. Ritchie gave a solo, "Up With the Flag." Dr. Murray rendered an up-to-date song in good style, and as this was his first appearance before a Flesherton audience as a soloist he received quite an ovation. Then came a solid address by Rev. J. Ward, followed by a rousing song and chorus by Mrs. Sheppard and the glee club—Rule Britannia—the audience again joining heartily in the chorus. Mr. Sheppard gave a choice new song, "Canadian Jack" and our finished elocutionist, Miss Annie Richardson, rendered Tennyson's immortal "Charge of the Light Brigade" as she alone can do it. Miss Joy sang an adaptation of the "Rose, Shamrock and Thistle," which appealed to the audience and was thunderously applauded. As a strongly demanded encore, Miss Joy sang the beautiful prayer, written by Rev. W. J. Hunter, D. D., which appears as an introduction to this item. Rev. Mr. Thom gave a short, pithy address and Miss Christoe sang sweetly, "The Maple Leaf" assisted in the chorus by the Glee Club and audience. Then came another short address by Rev. Mr. Darroch and a splendid solo by Mrs. Sheppard, "The Englishman," after which Miss Richardson recited a touching piece, "The song of the camp," a scene in the Crimea. There was at least one Crimean veteran in the audience, who appreciated this piece as none of the others could, and who remarked that he could again hear the bullets whistling during its recital. Mr. Barnhouse gave that now popular and rousing song, "Soldiers of the Queen" assisted by a select company of the soldiers themselves. This was one of the choicest pieces of the evening. Then came an address by M. Richardson, Esq., who went quickly and clearly over the causes of the present war and cited the principal events in connection therewith, and closing with the ventured information that at that moment British soldiers were marching the streets of Bloemfontein, capital of the Orange Free State. As a matter of fact the news that such was the case arrived at Cape Town at ten o'clock that evening and at London half an hour later. Mr. Richardson's address was very highly appreciated by all, combining eloquence, simplicity of language, and giving a very clear conception of the stirring events of the past six months. Mr. W. Smith, night operator at the station, sang another new patriotic song, "The Strathconas," and although encores were strictly tabooed he was asked to give one and responded with a comic Irish song. Miss Ida Gjerdum rendered "The Revenge." and well sustained her growing reputation as an elocutionist. Then came another of the gems of the evening by Mrs. Blackburn and the Glee Club, with a realistic camp scene, "Tenting on the Old Camp Ground." An instrumental piece on the gramophone "Soldiers of the Queen," followed, and an intensely realistic tableau, "The Dying Soldier," ended a program of unusual interest. Large numbers were present from outside points, including many from Markdale, Priceville, Eugenia, etc. The energetic committee have much reason to congratulate themselves upon the great success attending their efforts, as a magnificent sum was raised for a good and humane cause. The receipts of the concert were $112 55.

At the conservative caucus at Ottawa it was decided that the senate majority should again defeat the redistribution bill, says the Globe.

Anthony and Paul Decker were each sentenced to five years in penitentiary at Woodstock for counterfeiting. Kunz was given fifteen months in the Central and Nurnberger will probably be given his freedom in return for for further information.
