Poor Old Folks—

Looks as if they'll have to go "over the hill to the Poor-house."

Their children either can't or won't support them.

Tragic? Yes! But not half so tragic as the old folks' remembrance of the fact that their present plight is due to their lack of foresight in not making provision for their declining years.

Be independent in YOUR old age.

A small amount invested annually for a few years in an Imperial Endowment Policy will enable you to end your days in comfortable independence instead of as a burden upon the charity of friends or in a paupers' home.

May we tell you about the income you can insure for yourself 20 years hence, by making small payments now when you have the money?

Don't wait—write for particulars to-day.

WILL THEY FINE THEMSELVES?

If the Department of Fish and Game propose to prosecute all infringments against the game laws, they have an opportunity right here of collecting a nice fat fine from themselves. Sub Section 7 of 13 of the Ontario Game and Fisheries Laws of 1921 says:

"No person who has taken or killed any bird or animal suitable for food shall allow the flesh thereof to be destroyed or spoilt, and no person who has killed or taken a fur bearing animal shall allow the skin thereof to be destroyed or spoilt"

The case which we wish to draw attention to occurred in this vicinity. Some weeks ago a large deer was found on the farm of Mr. Jos. Oliver with a leg broken in such a way that the animal bled to death. The Department was communicated with, when Mr. Oliver was ordered to dress and hang up the animal until further orders. This was done! but presumably the Department proceeded to forget all about their own instructions and allowed the carcas to putrify. It seems a pity, too, when so many benevolent institution would have been pleased to use the meat. Somebody ought to lay an information against the Game and Fisheries Department for an infringment of its own laws.

The Attorney General wants to abolish appeals to the Privy Council. If Mr. Raney and his party would abolish some of the things they promised to abolish when they came into power it would be much more to their credit—Government House, for instance. There are cases where it is much more convenient to let the Privy Council finally settle our disputes. Sir Oliver Mowat's appeal on the boundary question was a case in point. International questions could not be satisfactorily settled by our own judiciary.

Six officials of the Grand Trunk railway draw down as salaries the huge sum of $141,000, and yet the public wonders why the Grand Trunk system does not and never did pay its way. If the government does take over this system it is to be hoped that it will not be forced to take over these high priced officials along with the rest.

Tara is also dissatisfied with Hydro. The Leader says: "Tara's share of interest on capital account has trebled in the past three years, in fact if the plant at Eugenia is not operated upon a more economical basis, public ownership in this section of Ontario will receive such a black eye that it will go out of existence"

Bull For Sale

A pure bred Shorthorn Bull thirteen months old, recorded Mortgage Lifter—156270, male, color white, bred by F. J. Curry, Markdale, calved the property of W.J. Meads, Flesherton. He was sired by Batchelor Duke, he by Gainsford Matchless, the highest priced Shorthorn Bull ever produced in Canada. He was sold to go to California for $10,000. Matchless Duke was sold here in our own county for $1,300. Mortgage Lifter is a good type of an animal in fair condition and has proved himself a sure stock getter. His dam, Roan Flora—117014—is of a good milking strain and runs back to (imp.) Apply to Feeding the Cow Before Calving.

The proper time to begin feeding a dairy cow is six or eight weeks before calving, and practical dairymen agree that this preparation has more to do with the amount of milk and butter fat which a cow produces during the lactation period than does the feeding during any other period.

For cows calving during the summer or early fall most dairymen like to have a small pasture away from the herd but with an abundance of grass, and, in addition, they like to feed a suitable grain mixture. Corn silage, with clover or alfalfa hay and a limited grain ration of three parts ground oats, two parts of bran, and one part of oil meal is especially good for cows calving during winter or early spring. After calving the cows should be brought slowly up to full feed and thereby steadily to a higher production.

Feeding Young Chickens.

Young chickens should be fed from three to five times daily, depending upon one's experience in feeding, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Undoubtedly chickens can be grown faster by feeding five times daily than by feeding three times daily, but it should be borne in mind that more harm can be done to the young chickens by overfeeding than by underfeeding, and at no time should they be fed more than barely to satisfy their appetites and to keep them exercising, except at the evening or last meal, when they should be given all they will eat. Great care must be exercised not to overfeed young chicks that are confined, as leg weakness is apt to result.

The New Farm House and Trees.

When planning to build a farm house it is well to select a location near good trees, so that their shade may be used and enjoyed by the family every day during the summer. It takes so long to grow good trees that existing ones should be cherished and utilized to the fullest extent. If trees must be planted they should not be placed directly in front of the farm house, but should be put somewhat to each side so as to make a frame through which a view of a portion of the front is obtained.
