

Lindsay has had many very impressive houses during the past hundred years. One of these was the old Logie home, on Verulam Road, an impressive brick structure which was torn down a few years ago. This photograph, taken at the turn of the century shows the house with members of the Logie family in the front yard.