Mr. R. G. Laird is this week preparing to move to Toronto, where he has secured a hardware business on Danforth Ave., and where Mr. Gordon Laird is now in charge. During their year's residence here they made many friends by their personal qualities and good business relations. Mr and Mrs. Laird spent many years in the far east, and were a fund of real interest and enlightenment on the peculiarities of the people there. Many friends here wish them continued success.—Grand Valley Star

The village council met last week for their regular meeting. A discussion took place on the matter of appointing a constable, but no appointment was made, as it was thought that for all the benefit received would not warrant the village paying a salary. If the streets are to be kept clear of cows running at large a constable will have to be appointed. What good are town by-laws if they are not observed? If there was a small salary attached with the office enough could be made from fines to help pay the salary.

A number of enthusiastic hockey fans enjoyed (?) a trip to Shelburne Monday evening by special train to witness the game between Guelph and Shelburne, the latter winning 7-3. During the night heavy drifts formed in the cuts on the railway and the snow plow was called into service Finally the boys arrived at 4 30 a.m., having been over four hours travelling 22 miles. However, the fun wasn't all over when they tripped blithely off the train at the station. There was that walk of one mile and a half through the big drifts to bed and comfort. We are told that the walk was the best part of the whole evening—more exciting even than the hockey game

English As It Is Spelled

A stranger in our land was he:
He tried to learn our spelling.
He thought it would as easy be,
As buying or as selling.

He tried to write, but couldn't quite
Learn when to wright or right.
He couldn't tell just where he stohd,
When using eood or wood or shood.
He had to stand a lot of chaffing,
When cruel people started laffing,
Then other things confused him so,
As doe and dough and roe and row,
And mail and male and sail and sale,
And many more that turned him pale.
Said he, "I left my wife and daughter,
In other lands across the waughter,
I wanted much to bring them here,
But they will have to stay, I fere,
And I must leave you." With a sigh
He added, "Else I'll surely digh."

Tragic Conditions Surround Deaths

The following dispatch has been received regarding Dr. J. W. Mahan, whom we announced last week as having disappeared:

Unusually tragic have been circumstances connected with the passing of two well known Vanconver brokers during the past ten days. Dr. J. W. Mahan and John A. Westman were partners in the insurance firm of Mahan, Westman, Limited.

On January 31, Dr. Mahan disappeared and, despite careful and energetic search no trace of him could be found. His friend and partner, seriously ill of diabetes at the time, was not told of Mahan's disappearance. On February 6 Westman died, and on Friday last was buried.

On Saturday, some boys playing behind the stables on the Exhibition grounds, found the body of Dr. Mahan. The body was frozen stiff, and had evidently been dead several days. Mahan, who had not been in good health for some time, suffering from the same complaint as his partner, had evidently fallen from the edge of the ravine, and his head had become caught in the crotch of a willow stump. After the body had been removed a small bottle labelled "carbolic acid" was picked up on the spot where it had lain. This has caused some speculation, as the bottle bore the name of a druggist Mahan patronized.

There were no burns on the doctor's mouth, however, and, as medical men rarely end life with carbolic, it is not thought the bottle had any connection with his death.
