Surnames and Their Origin

HAWLEY.

Variations—Hawes, Haw.
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A locality.

Here is another of those English family names of the kind which sprang up in a great many sections of that country through the entire period of family name formation. These names were based upon local place names, mostly of the descriptive kind, in many instances known only to those who lived in the communities in which the names sprang up, names like Hill, Dale, Ford, Woods, Cliff, Grove and the like.

Literally the name Hawley would mean a hedged piece of meadowland, for it is a compound of the ancient Anglo-Saxon words "haeg" and "ley," the former being the word from which has come our modern word "hedge" as well as such names as Haig, Hedges, Hay and the like.

The forms Haw and Hawes, of course, are either shortened forms of Hawley or else names derived simply from the old word "haeg."

GROSSBECK.

Variation—Broesbeck.
Racial Origin—Dutch.
Source—A locality.

Groesbeck is really the more correct spelling of this name, if it can be said that there is any better standard of spelling family names than the habit of the bearer himself.

Groesbeck is the Dutch way of spelling it. The other form, Grossbeck, is a changed spelling which has come about through the influence of the English language in instances where the name has been used for long periods either in America or England.

If you were to translate this name literally into English it would be simply "Bigstream." The word "groes" is nothing but the Dutch equivalent for the English word "gross" (or "great"), which is also to be found in both French and German, and "beck," meaning stream.

BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SPRING

The Spring is a time of anxiety to mothers who have little ones in the home. Conditions make it necessary to keep the baby indoors. He is often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catches colds which rack his whole system. To guard against this a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. This will prevent colds, constipation or colic and keep baby well. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Farthest-North Radio Weather Station.

Jan Mayen Land, a tiny volcanic island north of Iceland, is in the track of arctic storms sweeping toward the coast of Norway, 600 miles distant. In order to obtain timely warning of the storms which peril its interests, the Norwegian government less than two years ago established on the island a radio station, the farthest-north station in the world. It is in charge of Akbard Ekeroid, an American citizen. The operator and his assistants are the first permanent inhabitants of the island.

The Gardener.

So lovingly he holds within
His hand the tiny seeds and sees
A vision of bright fairy things,
That soon will flutter in the sun,
Like butterflies on flaming wings.

So lovingly he lays them down
In beds made soft and warm to sleep,
And carefully above their heads,
For fear of bitter wind and storm,
A magic coverlet he spreads.

So lovingly he waits until
Awakened by a thousand sounds,
With tender outstretched arms they rise,
And struggle to their feet, to find
An eager welcome in his eyes.

So lovingly he watches when
With quick response they do his will,
And in his garden, kneeling there,
With busy hands, care slips away,
And peace comes like an answered prayer.

League of Nations to Urge Protection for Scientists.

The right of scientists to share in the benefits derived from the application of their discoveries has received official attention from the League of Nations Intellectual Co-operation Commission. A sub-committee assigned to go into the question has just concluded its studies, and a plan is now being drafted for the legal protection of scientific work. After approval by the commission, and then by the council of the league, the plan would serve as a basis for legislation in the parliaments of the different countries throughout the world.

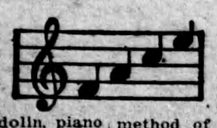
See How Easy It Is To Learn Music This New Way



YOU know how easy it is to put letters together and form words, once you have learned the alphabet. Playing a musical instrument is not very much different. Once you learn the notes, playing melodies on the mandolin, piano or violin is simply a matter of putting the notes together correctly.

The first note shown above is F. Whether you are singing from notes, playing the piano or banjo or any other musical instrument, that note in the first space is always F. The four notes indicated are F, A, C, E, easy to remember, because they spell the word "face." Certain strings on the mandolin, certain keys on the piano represent these same notes—and once you learn them, playing melodies on the instrument is largely a matter of following the notes.

Anyone can now learn to play a musical instrument at home without a teacher. A new, simplified method of teaching reduces all music to its simplest possible form. You can now master singing, piano playing or any musical instrument you wish—right at home, quickly, easily, without endless study and practice.

You don't have to know anything whatever about music to learn to play a musical instrument this new way. You don't have to pin yourself down to regular hours, to regular classes. You practice whenever you can, learn as quickly as you please. All the intricate "mysteries" of music have been reduced to a method of amazing simplicity—each step is made as clear as ABC. Thousands have already learned to play their favorite musical instruments this splendid new, quick way.

SPRING IMPURITIES DUE TO POOR BLOOD

A Tonic Medicine a Necessity at This Season.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an all-year-round tonic for the blood and nerves. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to enrich the blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people doze themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but does not help the blood. On the other hand, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bring new strength and vigor to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

Who Wrote the Words?

At a recent concert in Winnipeg, a gentleman said to his guest from the East, "I just notice that on this programme the names of the composers of the song lyrics are omitted. I wonder who is responsible for such an oversight?" It may be said at once that such omissions are not confined by any means to Winnipeg. Everywhere you go you will find programmes giving the names of the composers of the music, but the persons responsible for the texts are nameless. Sometimes the programme even gives in full the two or three stanzas of each of the texts without mentioning the writers' names.

Is it to save a few cents in composition at the printers? Is it just thoughtlessness? Or is it because the one responsible for the programme considered the words of no importance?

One of the foremost vocalists on this continent said the other day, "before I study a new song to add to my repertoire, I read over the words carefully and if they are not worth while, I wouldn't put any time on the song no matter how exceptionally fine the music was." Another singer, a famous tenor, said recently: "When I get a new song, I first familiarize myself with the text. If the words prove silly or sentimental, I throw the song aside. For no matter how good the music, a song is not worth singing unless the words are worth hearing. Words and music should constitute a harmonious union. For that matter I believe that the accompaniment to a song is just as much a part of it as the portion written for the voice."

The most successful composers lay great stress on the lyrics. There is absolutely no excuse for using the words of a song on the programme without giving proper credit to the writer of those words, and it would be good taste when listing songs to say words by so-and-so, and music by so-and so. No music publisher would issue a song without the title page covering the name of the lyric writer in prominent type along with that of the composer of the music.

"Twentieth Floor, Please!"

New York is a city of skyscrapers. Highest of all these enormous buildings is the well-known Woolworth Building, headquarters of the world-famous stores, one of the founders of which has just died in London.

It is known as the "Cathedral of Commerce" because of its sham Gothic architecture. It is more than 800 ft. in height.

Next comes the "Equitable," in which 15,000 clerks are employed. It has a dining-room which seats many hundreds, and a roof-garden for the workers.

Then comes the Metropolitan Building, the home of the Metropolitan Insurance Company, with its five or six thousand employees.

These giant buildings are fitted with most wonderful lift systems, including several that stop at every twentieth floor or so.

One would have thought that the existing buildings are quite near enough to the sky as it is, but it is announced that one with 150 storeys is contemplated.

No Place Like Home.

When a native of Prince Edward Island had sailed forth to see the world, he engaged a room at a modest hotel in Boston, intending to remain there while he hunted for work.

"Will you register?" asked the clerk handing him a pen.

"Register?" said the traveler. "What is that?"

"Write your name."

"What for?"

"We are required to keep a record of all our guests."

The man wrote his name and was about to lay down the pen when the clerk added:

"Now the place, if you please."

"What place?"

"The place you came from. Where do you live?"

"I live on the island."

"Well, but what island?"

The other looked at him in amazement. Then he said, with an emphasis that left no doubt of his feelings, "Prince Edward Island, man. What other island is there?"

An Original Explanation.

They were having a botany lesson, and the children were asked by their teacher if they knew what made the leaves turn red in the autumn.

Up popped one hand—and only one.

"Well, Johnny?" asked the teacher.

"Please, miss," replied Johnny, "they blush to think how green they have been all the summer."

WILLIAMS TELLS OF WASTED CASH

Spent Lots of Money, But Wife Got No Better Until Tanlac Ended Stomach Trouble.

"I never saw such a change as Tanlac has made in my wife and she says she is feeling like a girl of sixteen now," declared Harold Williams, a well-known shoemaker, of 28 Cornwall St., Toronto, Ont., recently.

"For years, she was so weak and run-down I often thought she would fall in her tracks. Nearly everything she ate disagreed with her and at times she was simply in agony. Her nerves were so unstrung the least little thing would worry and upset her for hours and she could scarcely get any sleep.

"Well, after spending hundreds of dollars on different medicines, I didn't have much hope that Tanlac would help her, but, it's a fact, when she finished the treatment, every ailment was gone. That was several months ago and since then her health has been splendid. Hereafter we will always pin our faith to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

Orient's Largest Building Nearing Completion.

The Marunouchi Building, now nearing completion in Tokyo, Japan, is said to be the largest office building in Asia. It is an eight-story structure built on a ground area 350 by 300 feet, and is 110 feet tall. The weight of 87,000 tons is supported on piling that extends nearly 100 feet below the ground line. It contains approximately 800,000 square feet of floor space that will be devoted almost entirely to office purposes, and is of fireproof construction throughout. Modern equipment, such as fire and ventilating systems, bathrooms, and other conveniences for the tenants, has been included, and the building houses its own power plant.

It would take a good counter, counting 24 hours a day, more than 9,512 years to count a billion.

PUTS HEALTH AND VIM INTO WOMEN

So Says Mrs. MacPherson of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Brantford, Ontario.—"I was always tired and the least exertion would put me out for a day or two. I had a pressing pain on the top of my head, pain in the nape of my neck, and when I stooped over I could not get up without help, because of pain in my back. I did not sleep well and was nervous at the least noise. I keep house, but I was such a wreck that I could not sweep the floor nor wash the dishes without lying down afterwards. A friend living near me told me what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for her so I began to take it. With the first bottle I felt brighter and got so I could wash dishes and sweep without having to lie down. Later I became regular again in my monthly terms. I have taken ten bottles all told and am now all better. I can truly say that your wonderful medicine cannot be beaten for putting health and vim into a woman."—Mrs. JAMES H. MACPHERSON, 309 Greenwich St., Brantford, Ont.
