Surnames and Their Origin

ARUNDEL
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A locality.

It is a matter of fact that the number of English family names in the classification of those which have been derived from the names of places is limited only by the number of place names which existed in England through the period of family name formation.

The name of virtually every city, town and hamlet at this period was likely to be taken not by one but by many individuals who moved away from it to some other place. Or rather, it was likely to have been conferred upon them by their new neighbors, for family names were more often a natural growth than the result of deliberate adoption, and a family's neighbors had more to say about the most convenient designation than the members of the family itself.

HARTWELL
Racial Origin—English.
Source—A place name.

Hartwell is one of those family names which have been taken from place names, and it is to-day better known, perhaps, as the former rather than the latter.

In the period of family name formation, which in England lasted, roughly, from the eleventh to about the fifteenth century, place names formed one of the most usual sources from which surnames grew. Family names, of course, were seldom fromed by arbitrary adoption. They were the outgrowth of descriptive surnames conferred upon an individual in an age when populations had become so large that there were not enough names to go around, and it was necessary to distinguish between two men of the same given name. A most natural method was to refer to the place from which a man had come.

Hartwell was a village in Buckinghamshire. Its name meant "the well of the deer."

Intensive Farming.

"How are you making out with that abandoned farm you bought?"

"Fine! I sold the quarry rights to one crowd, and rented the surface to another as a golf course. Now if I can lease the air to some wireless company I'll have about everything under cultivation. Who says intensive farming doesn't pay?"

France's Sherlock Holmes.

The best-known detective in France at the present time is Edmond Bayle, a chemist whose laboratory is in the Palais de Justice in Paris.

He is chief of the technical bureau of the Paris police department, and he has met with such success that the more meducated criminals look upon him as a dabbler in magic.

Dr. Bayle does not work on the British Sherlock Holmes lines. He pays no attention to the personality or psychology of the criminal, but confines himself to material things.

His workshop is equipped in accordance with this, and the numerous pieces of apparatus are designed for special purposes, such as examining forged money, the detection of bloodstains, and, in fact, the analysis of anything and everything that is picked up by those on the trail of a criminal.

In his records are registered the names of over eight million persons who have ever been involved in crime of any sort, and full particulars of any one of them can be produced at a moment's notice.

This extraordinary man has a theory that there is no crime that cannot be detected, and that every criminal, however clever, leaves traces behind him.

A GOOD MEDICINE FOR THE SPRINGTIME

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic is All You Need.

Not sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin, or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in the spring is a tonic that will enrich the blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do this speedily and surely. Every dose of this medicine helps to enrich the blood, which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children active and strong. Miss S. L. McEachron, Nairn, N.B., says:—"I have been in the habit of taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring and they keep me in the best of health. I think it is entirely due to the use of these pills that I always have such good health."

Bread 2,500 Years Old.

It seems impossible that bread could survive for nearly 2,500 years, and yet that is the age of a loaf dug up not long ago.

The discovery was made by a French explorer in Syria, and he estimated that the loaf was baked in the year 560 B.C. In the shape of a bun, it was in excellent condition and was wrapped in a cloth in a tightly-sealed tomb.

Other ancient loaves have been found at Pompeii, in Italy. Unearthed in a well-preserved oven, they were slightly charred, but the baker's name was read quite easily.

Not so old as these, but still getting on in years, is a loaf which is preserved at Ambaston, in Derbyshire. It is over 700 years old, and was originally given to the Soar family with a grant of land made to them by King John.

Achievement.

Two travelers halted on a mountain trail,
Blocked by great pyramidal crags of snow,
"Beyond this point," said one, "no man can go!
He who would climb those jutting towers must fail!
He would be flogged and frozen by the gale;
Lightning would scorch him, polar winds would blow;
And he would fall to icy caves below,
Bleeding beneath the cliffs he could not scale!"

But while one wanderer thus invoked despair,
The other dug his spikes deep in the soil,
And inch on inch, by steady, straining toil,
He mounted that precarious, rock-strewn stair.
Hearing his fellow wail, "You are too weak!"
He stood, triumphant, on a starry peak!

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Population of Palestine.

Palestine has a total population of 757,182, according to the figures of the census of three months ago. Ten per cent. of the people in Palestine are given as Christian, 11 per cent. as Jews and 79 per cent. as Mohammedans. The figures for Christians and Jews are regarded as about correct, but there was such strong opposition to the census on the part of the Mohammedans that their number probably is considerably under-estimated.

In two cities only is there a preponderant Jewish population, Jerusalem and Tiberias. In former, out of a total of 62,000, 34,000 are descended from Abraham and the balance are about equally divided between the followers of Jesus and the prophet of Mecca.

It is interesting to note that Bethlehem is the only town in the land in which Christians predominate. Here there are 5,838 of this faith, 818 Mohammedans and two Jews. Nazareth has a population of 7,424 of which roughly two-thirds are Christian, one-third Moslem, and only 53 Jews. The principal seaport, Jaffa, has about 47,000 people, of whom there are 20,000 each of Jews and Mohammedans, and about 7,000 Christians. The other large centres of population are very largely Mohammedan.

The Palestine Weekly, a Zionist organ, claims that according to Roman figures this country has supported a population of 7,000,000, but when one considers that the area of Palestine is about equal to that of Vermont and that it has about an equal amount of arable land, one questions seriously whether, with the highest development of her natural resources, it will be possible for Palestine ever to support a greatly augmented population. Vermont, in 1920, counted 352,428 people within the state.

Veteran Real Estate Broker of Toronto Tells of Remarkable Restoration by Tanlac.

James Burns, 20 St. Albans Street, is still another man of prominence in Toronto to speak out in behalf of Tanlac. Mr. Burns is now seventy-three years of age, but says:

"No one takes me for seventy-three now, and I feel every bit as active as I did forty years ago.

"Before taking Tanlac my weight fell off from one hundred and sixty to one hundred and thirty pounds, and I had begun to feel the hand of 'Old Father Time' laying heavily on me. I seldom ate more than one meal a day and that caused me hours of misery. Nights I would pace the floor too nervous to sleep, and many days I felt too worn-out to dress and go out anywhere.

"I don't believe I could have ever pulled up to where I am now if it hadn't been for Tanlac. It has restored my health completely and built me up to one hundred and sixty-five pounds. Tanlac is the best investment I ever made."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.
