BUY GOOD SHOES

We've repeatedly emphasized the importance and economy of buying good Shoes—the kind that wear well—not necessarily expensive ones. By doing so you are not merely guarding your health, which is of first importance, but practicing economy as well. A few cents difference between the price of a GOOD SHOE and a POOR SHOE will not go far towards repairing which is often made necessary after a few weeks' wear.

Our entire Shoe Stock (over five thousand dollars' worth) is selected with the knowledge that they possess the best wearing qualities, and are the acme of perfection in fit. We're practical shoe men and every pair that is not up to the standard is returned to the factory where it was made. That's one of the many reasons why our shoes are so uniformly satisfactory, and if we apply the same rule to other departments of our store you have the key to the remarkable leaps and bounds our business has made in the past few years, an increase not nearly approached hereabouts nor excelled anywhere.

THE CHINESE QUESTION

A few years ago "Abdul the damned," as he was termed, killed missionaries and converts by wholesale in Armenia and the nations of the earth merely protested but did not send an army or demand the death of his advisers and those who abetted the crimes. Not they. Great Britain was impotent and no other nation dared to more than hold up its hands in horror. Conditions were changed in the matter of China. There was a combination of forces and the herd of avengers swooped down upon the poor pigtail, like vultures on a carrion carcase, with the result that bones are being picked and luscious chunks of flesh are plucked from Chinese ribs. Russia seems to possess the most destructive beak and her rapaciousness and gluttony are giving rise to protests among the other birds of prey which may end in a war of greater magnitude than ever before known. The situation is said to be critical. We do not pretend to lay down a code of morals for the powers to follow in the matter of China, but to the casual observer a comparison of their impotence in regard to Turkey and righteous (or is it merely hypocritical) indignation and avenging activity when it comes to a matter of punishing China, do not appear to add may laurels to our boasted civilization. In our humble opinion the sooner the powers get out of China now the better it will be for civilization and the growth and spread of christianity. Vengeance should be satisfied with what has been accomplished.

We have heard old men remark that our winters are not nearly so severe now as was the case in their boyhood days, and that not nearly so much snow falls, but the present winter will put a damper on that class of boasters. Their stories of big snowfalls and heavy roads fall flat under present conditions. We have heard a story of a gentleman whose horses were floundering through the drifts regardless of roads, or where the road should be, when he saw several leaves, as he supposed, sticking out of the snow, and deciding that it was not so deep there guided his team for the shoal, when to his horror he heard noises and discovered the leaves to be the ears of a span of mules that had become stalled. This story is not sworn to before a justice of the peace, but then neither are some of the other stories we hear of boyhood days.

Mr. Lumsden's bill in the Legislature regarding habitual drunkards is a step in the right direction. This bill provides that the habitual drunkard may be placed on the same plane as a minor or an idiot, and be declared unable to do any business or manage or dispose of any real or personal estate, by application to the proper authorities of any blood relation or public officer. This bill places the disease where it ought to be placed and by putting it on a par with idiocy will tend to make it more odious in the eyes of all. Let Mr. Lumsden's bill become law: But we would suggest that an anti-treating clause be added.

Mr. Bourassa's name consists of three syllables, but those who are fond of nicknames will leave off the first and the last; or probably if the last two syllables were dropped it would leave him in the class where he properly belongs.

Eugenia

From Our Own Correspondent

Born—On March 4th, at Salem, to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Madill, a daughter.

Died—At Salem, on Friday morning March 15th, Mr. John Macdonald, aged sixty-eight years. Deceased was a very quiet, inoffensive man and a good neighbor. He leaves a widow and grown up family, who have the sincere sympathy of a large circle of friends in their hour of sorrow.

Mr. Hopps, Sr., has returned from Toronto with his bride. A hearty welcome is extended to Mrs. Hopps, and congratulations from their many friends at Eugenia.

The numerous friends at Eugenia of Mr. Adam Hislop of Valley Home Farm, extended to him and his bride their hearty congratulations, wishing them long life, prosperity and happiness, and a cordial welcome is extended to Mrs. Hislop to this community by the many warm friends of her husband.

Messrs Lyons and Thomas of the Credit Forks, who have been stopping for some time at the Eugenia House buying furs, have gone to Montreal to dispose of their stock.

Mrs. Joseph Williams of Lakeview has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Fenwick, of Eugenia.

Mr. D. McMullen, who has been working for some time past at Montreal, was home on a visit the past week.

Fair Evidence for Everybody.

No one can doubt the great merit of Polson's Nerviline, for it has been placed in the market in 10 cent bottles, just to give the opportunity of testing its wonderful power over all kinds of pain. This is the best evidence of its efficiency, for every person can try for themselves. Polson's Nerviline is a postive (it cannot fail) cure for cramps, headache, colds, neuralgia, and a host of pains that flesh is heir to. Good to take good to rub on. Go to any drug store and buy a 10 cent sample bottle. Large bottles 25 cents.

Charles McKay and Elizabeth Parke, of Sweaberg, a little place five miles from Woodstock, waited 30 years for the consent of their adopted parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Cumming, to their marriage. Nearly fifty years ago, John Cumming, of Sweaburg, who had no children, adopted Charles McKay and Elizabeth Parke. As the children grew up, they learned to love each other, but neither Mr. nor Mrs. Cummings would hear of their marriage. They decided to wait, in the hope that their adopted parents would relent, but they found their hair growing grey as they waited Last October Mrs. Cummings died. Cummings himself died a month ago. The farm was left to the adopted children. There was no further impediment to the marriage, so the lovers drove to Woodstock on Friday night and were married by the Rev. Mr. Miller. Mr. McKay gave his age as 60, and his bride as 57.

Mr. Charley Munshaw was taken to the general hospital, Toronto, last week, had an operation performed, when it was found that he was suffering from an abscess on the brain. Since the operation was performed he has been holding his own and hopes are entertained that he will recover, although the case is a critical one.

Mr. W. A. Armstrong has just put in a valuable engraving machine by which the finest class of engraving can be done. The public can now have their monograms placed on silverware without having to send it out of the country. This machine is a delicate and wonderful piece of machanism and Mr. Armstrong's enterprise in securing it is to be highly commended. W. A. will be pleased to show it to customers and exhibit samples of the work.

The benefit concert given last week was a wonderful success financially, the gross receipts amounting to $130 10, and net receipts after expenses were $121 25. On Saturday evening the committee, Messrs. R. N. Henderson, D. McTavish J. Ronstadtler, presented Mr. Petch with the above amount. To Mr. R. N. Henderson, who instigated the affair, and the other two members of the committee, who worked so energetically to make the affair a success by selling tickets and in other ways, much credit is due, and the general public who enthusiastically supported their efforts, the thanks of Mr. Petch and committee are tendered.

Mrs. Angus McGillivray of this village died on Sunday morning at the age of 63 years, after an illness extending over several months. The funeral took place to Flesherton cemetery on Tuesday afternoon, Revs. Darroch and Lamont, Baptist ministers, officiating, deceased having been an ardent member of that church. She was the youngest member of a family of eleven and her death was the first break in the family. She was twice married, the first husband's name being Smith, and by whom she left several of a family.

Snow-Bound

Whittier's "Snow-bound" is a good poem to read these days, while waiting for our mails. The morning train from Toronto on Tuesday got stuck in a snow bank about three miles below Shelburne. An engine and snow plow from the north went to its rescue but also got stalled. Up to time of writing, 10.30 a.m. on Wednesday, there is no sign of a raising of the blockade. Travellers by Tuesday's trains are having a hard time of it. Some were housed in Orangeville and others in Shelburne. It is the worst blockade we have suffered for years, and it is only in a case of this kind that we can fully appreciate the importance of regular railway service in our modern industrial methods.

Auction Sales.

An auction sale of a large quantity of farm stock and implements will be held on Tuesday, April 2nd, the property of Mr. Andrew Bentham in the suburbs. Mr. Bentham has rented his farm to his brother Richard. Sale at 1 p. m. R. J. Sproule, auctioneer.

Mr. Hugh Spofford, lot 10, con. 8, Osprey, will sell farm stock and implements on Tuesday, March 26, at 1 p. m. J. J. Kaitting auctioneer.

Bills were issued last week for an auction sale by Mr. N. McKechnie of Priceville, but the sale has been withdrawn. Please remember the fact.

Remember A. McLeod's auction sale on Friday, March 22nd.

A credit auction sale of farm stock and implements will be held on lot 29, con.5, Artemesia, on Tuesday, March 26, at 1 p. m. sharp. See bills. Anthony Kenny proprietor, R. J. Sproule auctioneer.

A horse, the property of Mr. Richard Ewens, during the storm of this week, was blown from the barn, over the nearest fence into the next lot, a distance of fifty yards, and as a result suffered to the extent of four fractured legs and other injuries, and although the horse has withstood every storm for the past ten years or more, it is questionable if it will again be of any service. The horse thus badly damaged is one of the tin animals that have been in service at the highest points of the barn.—Chatsworth Banner.

A gentleman living quite near this village purchased a new pair of boots a week or so ago. After three days enjoyment of the new bunyon protectors he awoke one morning to find one of them utterly destroyed, and chewed into an unrecognizable mass of leather. Rats.

Tale of a Narrow Gauge Train

The following story of an actual occurrence on the pioneer railroad in this section appeared in a Toronto paper some years ago and speaks for itself:

Before the gauge of the old Toronto Grey and Bruce railway was broadened a trip on that line from Toronto to Owen Sound was like a voyage on the Atlantic ocean. The beginning was known, but the end was beyond the limits of human knowledge. To put it mildly, the trains were slow. Stops were frequent, and the gait of the fastest express was little improvement on the speed of a good horse. Conductor Lewis, who is still on the line, which is now second to none in the Dominion, was in command of a train that pulled out of Dundalk station away back in the seventies. Something went wrong that day, and caused a stop shortly after leaving the station. This was a protracted delay, and when the conductor come around his keen eye lit on the stalwart figure of a boy whose mother was trying to run him through at half fare. The lady was indignant that her assertion that the lad was under twelve she told be question ed.

"I am his mother, and I surely ought to know the age of my own son."

"You ought to have got that boy shaved before you passed him off as under twelve," said the conductor. "Stand up my man and let me see how big you are."

The boy towered two or three inches above the head of the full grown conductor and his statue settled the case.

"It is all right, Mr. Lewis," reported the mother as she paid over the full fair, "but my boy has grown a lot since we left Dundalk.

The Dominion Parliament has passed an act making it unlawful for money lenders to take more than 20 per cent. for loans under $500. And thus, again, is the poor persecuted Shylock ground down under the wheels of the great Juggernaut that prevents his taking more than a miserly one-fifth of the principal for the year's interest. How is the poor note shaver to keep body and soul together if tied down to 20 per cent? Of course we must not look over the one redeeming feature of the act that allows any rate, even a hundred per cent., to be taken on loans over $500. That shows that the great sympathetic hearts of our legislators still go out in tenderness towards the poor money lender, at least those who are able to lend more than $500 at a time.—Tottenham Sentinel.

A minister going along the street the other day was surprised to see a crowd of small boys standing in a circle around a hungry looking dog. He asked what they were doing and was told that the boy who told the biggest lie was to get the dog. The preacher was shocked and said: "Why this is terrible. Do you know that when I was a boy I never told a lie." There was silence for a brief interval when one of the youngsters spoke up. "Hand the preacher the dog. We can't beat him."
