FRONTENAC
IRON WORKS,
Rideau St., Kingston.

Important to the Users of Steam.

REASONS
WHY TANDY'S PATENT BOILER IS SUPERIOR TO ALL OTHERS:

1st.—It is simple in construction, easy to keep clean and less liable to get out of order than any other Boiler.
2nd.—It is constructed on sound scientific principles the water circulating as near as practicable at right angles with the action of the heat.
3rd.—The water circulates inside the tubes which gives double the strength and one third more effective heating surface with the same number and description of tubes when fixed in an ordinary Boiler.
4th.—It is one third lighter than other Boilers with the same amount of evaporative power and cheaper in a corresponding degree.
5th.—It cannot prime, it gives perfectly dry steam and effects a saving in fuel of at least 30 per cent on any ordinary Boiler.
6th.—It requires no brick work to set it and is applicable to every variety of purpose, both for steam engines and heating buildings by water or steam.
☞ N.B.—I will replace any other boiler now in use with my Patent Boiler and take the saving in fuel in part payment. It can be seen in operation at my Works.

MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 13, 1876.

MOTHER'S WAY.

Oft within our little cottage,
As the shadows gently fall,
While the sunlight touches softly
One sweet face upon the wall,—
Do we gather close together,
And in hushed and tender tone,
Ask each other's full forgiveness
For the wrong that each has done.
Should you wonder why this custom
At the ending of the day,
Eye and voice would quickly answer,
"It was once our mother's way."

If our home be bright and cheery,
If it be! a welcome true
Opening wide its door of greeting
To the many—not the few;
If we share our father's bounty
With the needy day by day;
'Tis because our hearts remember
This was ever mother's way.

Sometimes when our hearts grow weary,
Or our task seems very long,
When our burdens look too heavy,
And we deem the right all wrong,
Then we gain a new, fresh courage,
As we rise to proudly say,
"Let us do our duty bravely—
This was our dear mother's way."

Thus we keep her memory precious,
While we never cease to pray
That at last when lengthening shadows
Mark the evening of life's day,
They may find us waiting calmly
To go home our mother's way.

SUDDEN RISE FROM OBSCURITY.—The boy Guicowar of Baroda, who has been playing at royalty with the Prince of Wales, is a monarch some twelve years of age, whose career is a romance. Only a few months ago he was a poor boy in an obscure village, of a family who were occasionally pinched for the necessities of life. Suddenly there came for him a grand transformation scene. Through careful genealogical enquiries he was discovered to be collaterally the nearest heir to the disgraced and deposed Guicowar. He was taken from his village with all honor, adopted by the Rance, and placed with elaborate ceremonial on the throne of Baroda; the nobles and state dignitaries owned the village boy as their master, and bowed down before him; the British resident did him honor to gold and siver guns of Baroda were his; chains, collars aigrettes and aiguillettes of gems, fabulous in their value, were the indefeasible if incidental appanage of the youth fefore whom a month before there lay a uture of sordid toil. No freak of fiction could be imagined stranger than the amazing revolution in this child's lot. And how does he comport himself under conditions which must be so bewilderingly novel to him? Do the clods of his obscure village and the associations of his old life cling to and hamper him? On the contrary, it is as if for him a wet sponge had been passed over the past. The boy is as composed and even apathetic in his new position as if he had been born in the purple. He accepts homage with a languid placidity of condescension. He negligently patronizes government secretaries and self-important residents, apparently regarding all such persons as having been expressly created to contribute to his convenience. He has fallen naturally and with genuine gracefulness into a tone of perfect equality and frank boyish cordiality, wonderfully well blended with dignity, in his intercourse with the Prince of Wales.

THE U.S. LABOR MARKET.—A leading New York paper discussing the subject of labor and wages in that city shows that reductions are still going on the number of workmen employed in different pursuits, with a corresponding reduction in wages. Carpenters and joiners, whose wages before the panic were $3,50 per day, now receive but $2,50 for a day's work of eight hours, and there are hundreds in New York who would quickly work for $1.50 per day. Among bricklayers there is more, established rate of wages, and good workmen can be obtained as low $2.00 per day. Stone cutters who received $4.50 per day before the panic now get $3.50. Wages in other trades have decreased as follows:—Plasterers, from $6 per day to $2; shoemakers, $20 to $30 per week to $10 to $20; brass moulders and finishers, from $18 per week to $15; house and sign painters, from $4.50 per day to $2.50; sail makers, from $20 to $15 per week; carriage makers, from $3.50 to $2 and $2.50 per day; coopers, from $20 to $10 per week; cabinet-makers, from $18 to $10; varnishers and polishers the same; blacksmiths and machinists, from $3 per day to $10 and $12 per week; tailors earn from $10 to $15 per week, about 10 per cent. less than before the panic; cigar makers average $12 per week against $16 and $18 of last year, and $20 before the panic; iron moulders reduced from $3 50 to $2 per day; horse-shoers receive $3.50 per day, the same as before the panic. The wages in almost all trades have fallen off considerably, while the purchasing power of money has increased in almost equal proportion.

A DISAPPOINTMENT.—The regret of Earl Russell at the loss of his son, Lord Amberley, has been increased by the directions of the deceased for the education of his children. Acting under the advice of the late John Stuart Mill, Lord Amberley directed that they should not be trained in the communion of any church, his desire being to leave their minds unbiased as to religious dogmas. In order that this plan should not be upset by his death, he provided that the children should not be placed under the guardianship of their grandparents. It is believed that this will not be sanctioned by a court of law. Earl Russell had high hopes of Lord Amberley turning out a credit to his name and family. When the latter made his maiden speech in the House of Commons, Earl Russell was under the gallery, and was in high spirits at the speech, and Mr. Disraeli came forward and congratulated him on his son's success.

A GHOST LAID.—The Brighton Ghost has come to grief. Dr. Deans and Mr McCallum went to have an interview with his spookship, and as he came towards them they could see nothing but the light, so when the apparition came near enough the Dr. fired a shot from his revolver at the spectre. It immediately dropped, and three lads were overtaken and confessed they were the moving power of the Ghost, which consisted of a dark lantern on a pole.

NEWFOUNDLAND FISHERIES.—The London Standard understands that one of the first duties to be undertaken by Vice Admiral Sir A. C. Key, the newly appointed commander-in-chief of the North American Station, will be to collect information respecting these fisheries from those actually engaged in the same, and to ascertain fully the nature of the rights and the privileges asserted by the French boats.

A GRAND IDEA.—Says the Monetary Times:—"There are occasionally very odd applications to the House of Commons, but we have seldom seen anything so curious as the following:—'Notice is hereby given that an application will be made to the Parliament of Canada, at its next session, for an Act to incorporate the 'General Expenditure Assurance Company of Canada,' for the purpose of assuring the returns of all money expended from day to day, for the various necessaries of life, and for other purposes.—W. H. Tuck, Solicitor for applicants. St. John, N. B., 14th January, 1876.' A great many people would be glad to have the money expended from day to day for household purposes returned to them. And if this company can do it, without charging too much for the service, they will have plenty of customers."

MATCHED WELL.—This story comes from Chicago, and consequently must be true. A young woman in that city, after taking a course of instruction in chemistry, assisted her father in his drug store. A few days ago a prescription for some simple medicine for a sick baby was brought in, and put up by the young graduate. The report goes on to say that the next day the baby's father went down town to buy a little coffin. The chemist was required to rise to a personal explanation. "Great Jehoshaphat!" he said, looking at the powder, "why there's arsenic in this! It ought to have been bicarbonate of soda. Eliza, how is this?" "Oh, pa!" replied his unmoved assistant, "we had no soda, and arsenic was the nearest shade that matched!"

HALL WORKS.—The estate of the Jos. Hall manufacturing company was sold on Thursday at Oshawa by their creditors to Dr. William Briggs, one of the shareholders, upon a tender supported by Dr. McGill, Mr. Glen and others. The competing tender was from Whitely, Fassler & Kelly, of Springfield, Ohio, and was actively supported by Mr. T. N. Gibbs. Specialties in Medicine,

We publish on our eighth page a lengthy article describing the system of the noted specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., in which he sets from with considerable force and clearness his reasons for devoting his whole time and attention to a single department of medicine—the treatment of lingering chronic diseases. The same article also takes up the subjects of diagnosis, methods of consultation and treatments, etc., and will be found to contain many valuable hints to the invalid. Dr. Pierce is the author of a work which has already attained a large circulation—"The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser"—containing some nine hundred numerously-illustrated pages, and devoted to medicine in all its branches, a work well calculated for the guidance and instruction of the people at large, and which may be had for $1.50 (post paid) by addressing the author, Dr. Pierce has now been before the general public long enough to enable the formation of a careful estimate of efficiency of his treatment and his medicines, and the verdict, we are glad to know, has been universally favorable to both.

1874 vs 1542.—Pennyryall doth purge melancholy and doth comfort the stomacke and the spyrites of man: Isope cleanseth vicus flemme, and is good for the breste and for the lunges; Rosmary is good for palses and for the fallynge syckenes, and for the cowghe, and good against colde; Roses be a cordyall, and doth comforte the herte and the brayne."—Horde's Dyetary of Health for 1542. Fellows Hypophosphites, by giving tone to the nerves, removes melancholy and restores the spirits, promotes expectoration by strengthening the muscles of the chest, and is consequently the remedy for congestion and inflammation of the lungs, cough and cold. From its great nerve strengthening properties it is found to prevent a return of epileptic fits, it gives power of endurance to the brain, and strengthens the action of the heart.

Physicing Horses.—Many persons physic their horses frequently—especially every spring. This is a great error and one which has caused the loss of many valuable horses, as physic as it is usually given, often produces inflammation of the bowels which generally proves fatal; it also weakens the horse and thus renders him more liable to disease, or less able to throw it off—what is required is a medicine which will operate gently upon the bowels and act upon the liver and lungs removing all obstructions therefrom, purifying the blood and enabling all the organs to do their work without overtasking any, which is accomplished by the use of "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy," it is safe and certain. Remember the name and see that the signature of Hurd & Co.'s on each package. Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors. Sold by all medicine dealers.
