HORSE RAN AWAY.—On Saturday afternoon, a horse, attached to a buggy, ran away from opposite the new Mechanics' Institute, Princess Street, and, turning the corner of King Street abruptly, the vehicle struck the iron hydrant with such force as to break it off some inches in the ground. The young man driving was thrown upon the cross-walk with great force, and slightly hurt, and the buggy spafts were smashed. The horse was immediately freed from the shafts when they broke, and ran up King Street.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.—Miss Edwards, of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, aged 18, was for a long time in a very delicate states, the mother anxiously watched her daughter, and consulted many physicians in the hope of her being benefited, but she gradually grew worse, and was finally thrown on a bed of sickness. At this time, finding medical assistance unavailing, the mother boldly determined to have recourse to Holloway's Pills, which she commenced using,—after the first week, the improvement was so decided, that she determined to continue them, and by persevering for two months with the treatment laid down by Professor Holloway, the mother had the satisfaction of once more seeing her daughter restored to health, although her life had been previously despaired of. These celebrated Pills are a certain cure for dropsy, as well as stomach and liver complaints.

The great antidote for epidemic is Dr. James McClintock's diarrhœa cordial which has frequently been administered to over two hundred patients in a single day at the City Cholera Hospital and City Prison Philadelphia, during the frightful epidemic of 1832. In cases of Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Dysentry, Cholera Infantum and Summer Complaints, it gives instant relief. A speedy cure is sure to follow its use. It is mild and safe for children and adults.

A Blooming Complexion and a Good Appetite follow the use of using Dr. J. S. McClintock's Alterative Syrup for purifying the blood, eradicating Pimples, Blotches, Scrofula, and all kinds of Taints from the system, and creating New, Pure, and Rich Blood; also his Dyspeptic Elixir, for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, and all diseases incident to this complaint, it strengthens the stomach, assists digestion, creates a good appetite, and speedily restores to health the sufferer.

Delicate Lungs cannot safely be trifled with, and yet tens of thousands of our population are annually swept off by Pulmonary diseases, which in their incipiency a few doses of Dr James McClintock's cold and cough mixture would have radically cured. Colds and coughs lay the foundation of consumption and bronchitis, and where this has unfortunately been the case the patient is earnestly recommended to try Dr McClintock's Pectoral Syrup as the only means of present relief and prospective cure.

Dr McClintock's Medicines have this great merit—they strike at the very root of disease. They do not merely alleviate the symptoms, but totally extinguish the complaint. Those who have tested his Fever and Ague Syrup proclaim it to be the only radical cure for that distressing complaint; and sufferers from Bilious affections who have tried his Antibilious Pills are equally enthusiastic in their praise. Sold by E. W. Palmer and E. H. Parker.

ORANGE ASSOCIATION B.N.A.

PROCLAMATION

By the Right Worshipful the Grand Master of British North America, JOHN FLANIGAN, Esq.,

TO HIS COMPANIONS AND BRETHREN, GREETING:—

AFTER mature deliberation and after consultation with his official Brethren, with whom he has taken a calm survey of events as they are now presented to the public, and in consideration of the proceedings had in high places, the Right Worshipful the Grand Master has resolved to convene a special meeting of the Right Worshipful the Grand Lodge.

Chief among the considerations that have induced the Right Worshipful the Grand Master to take this step is the conviction that every effort should be made to effect a union of the Brethren, and that all minor considerations should be laid aside to effect that great object. Inasmuch as the Brethren unhappily now in connection with the adverse Grand Lodge, will hold their annual meeting at a distance from the place at which the Grand Lodge will assemble, and as on that account all negotiations must meet with more or less interruption and embarrassment, it is deemed advisable that an emergent meeting should be held to devise means by which all such difficulties may be obviated, and the great object so much desired by all true Orangemen honorably accomplished.

In the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, no one can doubt the necessity that the double administration of affairs should cease. It has already been attended with serious evils, and, if continued, will render the institution itself perfectly inactive and inefficient. It is no period now for discussing who is right or who is wrong, but the welfare of the whole demands mutual and immediate concessions, such concessions as will convince the world that as a brotherhood, Orangemen have means by which to settle their unhappy differences. He who was for years the acknowledged head of your order, retired from the high position to which his Brethren had elected him, hoping thereby to bring us the blessings of peace and union, and the R. W., the Grand Master, hopes that the example so honorably set will be followed by the Brethren generally. For himself, the R. W., the Grand Master, declares he never had any desire to be placed where the too favorable opinion of his Brethren placed him. His only object was to serve and be useful to the order, and while now ready as ever to maintain the integrity and rights of the order with his property and his existence, he will cheerfully join with his Brethren in making any sacrifice consistent with the dignity of the association, which its general interests may demand.

Movements are afloat, which, more or less, must affect the Protestant constitution of the Association, and therefore in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, it is necessary that the original position of the order should be restored and maintained in an energetic condition. It, after mature deliberation and consultation, the order is of opinion that the movements of the day are adverse to those great protestant principles, to maintain which the Brethren are bound together, then, in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, the order should place itself in the front of battle and stoutly and resolutely oppose the same.

But if the convictions of the Brethren are such that they recognize in the movements of the day and in the questions propounded, support for those principles of civil and religious liberty which they are bound to maintain, and which, if impaired, must produce their ruin and overthrow, then, in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, the brethren should endeavor by all constitutional means to carry out those undertakings by again placing themselves at the head of the movement.

It signifies nothing that a temporary cessation of aggressive movements be brought about—if danger really exists—if there be cause for action on the part of the order—if it be conceived that attempts are made or making to betray the interests and principles of the order to its opponents, then the emergency arises which must unite Orangemen to seek to obtain a voice where opinions tell and where principle must ultimately triumph. But distracted as the order now is before the public, although its members are perfectly convinced of each other's private sentiments, opinions, and feelings, they are incapable of effecting any good, and cannot resist the phalanx of their opponents. This disorder, this sad disorganization, requires speedy attention, unless it be desired that the gangrene should effect the permanent division of the order.

Dissimulation should never be employed by the order, nor does the R. W. the Grand Master mean to intimate that it has been, but he puts forward these statements that all may know that when Orangemen avow their undertakings they will stand by them, and whether affirming or opposing a principle, the resolution to succeed will be equally evident and clear, and he really and sincerely believes that on the reunion, re-modelling and re-organization under one head, the entire prosperity of the order depends. Straightforward and lofty principles will conduce to this desirable end, while selfishness and unworthy ambition must lead to ruin and defeat.

The R. W. the Grand Master begs to call the attention of the Brethren to the fact that the Grand Lodge has, ever since these deplorable differences arose, used its best endeavors to reconcile them, and has been always ready to lay aside any minor considerations of its own position to effect this object. Unfortunately their endeavors have hitherto been ineffectual, but the R. W. the Grand Master fondly hopes that the effort which he is desirous of making on the present occasion will be attended with happier results.

While thus expressing his convictions more immediately to those, who, as in duty bound, have faithfully adhered to what they believe to be the legitimate authority of the institution, the R. W. the Grand Master also earnestly appeals to that high sense of duty and honor which has always been characteristic of all true Orangemen, whether they have for the time being been in connection with the proper authorities of the institution or not, and he is confident that all who are sincerely desirous of maintaining intact the integrity and purity of the order, will, in the present emergency, heartily join with him in laying aside all minor differences and meeting any concessions that the Grand Lodge may be willing to make in the spirit in which they are offered, and will on their part have no hesitation in making such concessions as the mutual interest of all parties may require.

Wherefore in the opinion of the R. W. the Grand Master, much consultation is required to remove obstacles and embarrassments which stand in the way, and no better method can be devised to deal with them than such means as may be suggested at a special convocation of the R. W. the Grand Lodge; and it is that these matters may be all duly considered with moderation and caution, that in the opinion of the R. W. the Grand Master an early convocation of the R. W. the Grand Lodge should be held, and in order that the convenience of all may be consulted, an EMERGENCY MEETING of the R. W. the GRAND LODGE of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA will be held on the 5th June, 1856, in the City of Kingston, at the hour of 12 o'clock, noon.

By order of the R. W. the Grand Master.

(Signed.)
