Foreign Grown Seeds.

The following article is from the pen of Mr. G. H. Clark, B. S. A., Chief of the Seed Division, Department of Agriculture.

Practically all the seed for our root crops is grown in foreign countries. However important it may be that the seed for such crops be grown in the country where it is wanted for sowing, the cheap labor in those European countries, which have become the seed gardens of the world, has made the seed growing industry unprofitable to the Canadian farmer or seed specialists.

Our supply for foreign grown seeds is bought and imported principally by our larger seed firms. They make their purchase either by paying a commensurate price to reliable European seed growers, men who grow seed from selected pedigreed stock, or they may buy seed at a much lower price—seed that is grown by men whose chief aim has been to produce a large quantity, independent of the quality of the crop it will produce. In the former case the seed is grown from selected plants—from roots which have an ideal size and form and are known to be true to name.

For instance an ideal turnip is one having a small neck and top growth. Such a root when planted will produce a comparatively small growth of stalks and consequently a small amount of seed, but the seed from such a root is apt to produce a crop like the mother root which was planted. On the other hand a small turnip having several root prongs, and excessive growth of top coming from two to three separate neck growths, will transmit its like through the seed to the next crop. Seed can be grown from such roots much more cheaply than from selected roots because, in the first place the mother roots are culls, and are not as valuable for feeding, and secondly, they will produce a much larger quantity of seed.

During the last ten or fifteen years the seed trade has, to a great extent, been passing from the hand of seedsmen who devote all their time to a study of seeds and the seed trade, into the hands of local dealers Unfortunately fair competition in the seed trade is practically impossible since the appearance of most commercial seeds is but a slight indication of their real value. The competition has been and is too largely confined to prices alone. Farmers continue to patronize the local dealer who is able to quote a low price for his goods. The local dealer demands a low priced seed of the wholesale firms, and in turn there has been a growing strife among wholesale seed firms in the buying of cheap goods with which to supply local dealers.

It is well to mention, however, that through the progressing spirit of some reliable seed houses a limited trade of the best stocks of root crops has been fostered, and there is little difficulty experienced among intelligent farmers, in getting the best quality of seeds provided that they go the right way about it, and are willing to pay a commensurate price. But much of the root crop seeds sold in Canada are retailed to the farmer at a price quite as low as our Canadian seed houses have to pay reputed European seed growers for the best seed from selected pedigreed stock.

Appeals have been made, both by seedsmen and farmers, to place such restrictions on the seed trade, as will serve to withdraw the responsibility connected therewith, from the hands of incompetent local dealers. With root crop seeds, this aim may be reached by allowing only reliable seed houses or seed importers the right to place such goods on the market; by allowing them to place goods in sealed packages, each package to be properly labelled, and to bear the name and consequently the reputation of the seed house, in the hands of local dealers to be sold on commission only. Official interference in the seed trade may have objectional features. Perhaps the most striking example of where legislation has been applied to improve the conditions under which commercial seeds are sold, is in the State of Maine, where all seeds sold must be accompanied with a statement, showing the percentage of pure and vital seeds. They have extended to their seed trade a modification of the act which is used in Canada to regulate the quality of commercial fertilizers, and the results have clearly demonstrated that, what ever evils may accompany an enforced guarantee system in connection with the seed trade, it is an effective way to improve the quality of commercial seeds, especially of clover and grasses, of which a great deal is sold in some districts in Canada, that contains large quantities of noxious weed seeds and is injury, not only to the farmer who buys it, but to the locality where it is grown.

Before Treatment

W. A. Metz, of Lima, O., says:—"I was one of the countless victims of early vice at 15 years of age. The drains on my system were weakening to body as well as my sexual and nervous system. For ten years I tried scores of doctors, electric belts and patent medicines. None helped me, some cured. I was giving up in despair, in fact, contemplating suicide when a friend advised me as a last resort to give the New Method Treatment of Drs. K. & K. a fair trial. Without confidence I consented and in three months I was a cured man. I was cured seven years ago—am married and happy. I heartily recommend Drs. K. & K. to my afflicted fellow men."

From Our Own Correspondent

Mr. F. Hutcheson, sr., has been suffering from a severe attack of la grippe. We are pleased to hear of his recovery. We are also glad to see Mr. Warner able to be out again after his severe illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Nichol, welcomed a daughter to their home about two week's ago.

An interesting event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson, on Feb. 26th, when their daughter, Phemia was united in marriage to Mr. J. F. Foswick of Weyburn, Assa. The knot being tied by the bride's pastor, Rev. Campbell of Dundalk, in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties. The bride was becomingly dressed in a travelling suit of gray and was assisted by her sister, Miss Ella, while Mr. C. Fenwick of Burgoyne acted as groomsman. Amidst the good wishes of a large circle of friends they leave for their western home at Weyburn on Tuesday, March 11th.

Pleased to see a representation from Bethel at this church last Sunday.

Rockvale.

From Our Own Correspondent

On Monday evening, the 8th inst., quite an unique birthday party in honor of Miss Elsie Pedlar was held at her home. Over fifty guests met to celebrate the event, and after a short but spicy program games were entered into with much enthusiasm and continued until a late hour, excepting for the interim in which a sumptuous luncheon was being partaken of. Those present speak in glowing terms of their evening's entertainment.

We are sorry to lose from our midst Mr. and Mrs. Wood, who have moved to their farm on which Mr. Guy Blakely has been living.

Though some are moving away others are coming in—Mr. Gillespie of the fourth line to Mr. S Pedlar's farm, and Mr. W. J. White back to his home on this line.

Several from here attended the funeral of the late Mrs. W. Armstrong of Markdale, on Friday last.

Logs have been coming to Rockvale in great numbers during the past few weeks, but the roads being now in a very unfavorable condition, we fear the rush will cease. An improved machine for manufacturing shingles has been purchased for the mill here and will be in course of operation in the near future.

A series of special meetings has been held for over a week by the S A in Saleon church, and have been fairly well attended.

Port Law

From Our Own Correspondent

After a long illness patiently borne Mrs. Falls passed away to the spirit world on Tuesday of last week at the age of 50 years. Deceased was a general favorite among a wide circle of friends, having won the esteem of all by her amiable disposition and true christian character. The funeral took place to Maxwell on Friday, conducted by her pastor, Rev. P. Fleming, and was one of the largest seen in this district. She leaves one only son who resides in British Columbia. For some years past deceased was the companion and comfort of her aged and widowded mother to whom especially the sympathy of the neighborhood is extended.

Constable Arrested.

Down at Holland Centre there is a constable by the name of Close, who has just paid into the public cash box the sum of fifty dollars, which includes a fine of twenty dollars and costs, for neglect of duty in the disposal of a prisoner. At the recent assizes William Walters was the defendent in a criminal charge, of which he has since been acquitted, and it was Close's leniency with this prisoner that got him into trouble. On being arrested Walters was brought before Wm. Norton, J.P., of Holland Centre, who committed him to jail to await trial at the assizes. The question of giving bail was under consideration, but nothing was done, and Constable Close was directed to proceed to Owen Sound with the prisoner. The Constable started for Owen Sound but later made arrangements to keep the prisoner in custody at his house till the opening of the assizes, which would take place in a few days. Holland Centre is a small place, and naturally the conduct of the officer was the topic of discussion among the inhabitants. The matter reached the ears of the justice of the peace, and a new warrant for the arrest of the prisoner was issued without delay. Another warrant was issued for the arrest of Constable Close, who appeared before Justices of Peace B. Allen and D. F. Ritchie on Friday. These gentlemen committed the prisoner to gaol for trial. Later, through the influence of friends, he was released on bail, and that afternoon appealed for trial before His Honor Judge Morrison, who fined him, as stated, twenty dollars and costs. The case is an unusual one, and the extreme penalty provided by law where a prisoner escapes from custody through the neglect or with the assistance of an officer is five years in the penitentiary. There are, however, extenuating circumstances in this case, to which may be attributed the merciful view of the case taken by His Honor Judge Morrison.—Times.

Stones Settlement.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Editor—Your correspondent is in a similar position to Pat, whose wife, when asked how Pat was, replied, "Faix, thin, he's been enjoying very poor health lately, but now he's complaining of being much better." The happenings of the last few weeks would be uninteresting, as they are outdated, the present budget is also of little interest, but we send it to let you know that your cor. is still on the land of the living.

Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Williams of Corbeton with their daughter, Miss Ethel, paid a short visit to relatives here last week.

Miss Rachel Lyness returned home on Thursday last, after spending the winter with friends in Albion.

The friends, "both young and old," of Miss Lizzie McArthur of Toronto were glad to see her again in this neighborhood. She returns to Toronto next week.

Mr. W. J. Beattie is able to be around again after a three or four weeks' shelving with a cut in his left hand foot.

Charley Boyce has returned to his employment on a dairy farm near Brampton where he has been the past year. He was taking a couple of weeks' rest. Johnnie talks of going away about the end of the present month.

Mrs. Henry Stone has purchased a new cabinet organ, and Miss A. G. R. has given up the notion of going to the city. Music has charms.

We understand that Miss Laura Whittaker, who is now at home, intends to take another term at the Business College, Owen Sound. She will likely come home next time a full fledged phonographer and typist.

Should the progress made by the pupils of our public school during the past six months be maintained our school might rightly be designated "Academy."

The singing class which was organized in the fore part of the winter is making very fair progress considering the ability of their teacher, who, by the way, is a real professor, for he candidly professes to know very little about it, but nevertheless, takes an untiring interest in the matter, cherishing the fond hope that he may yet be able to learn a little by teaching other what he can do very imperfectly himself, namely, a 1-n-g.

The Toronto Telegram recently contained a good cartoon on Dr. Landerkin and James McMullen. The latter is seated in an invalid's chair and Landerkin is feeling his pulse and his medicine box is open on the floor of the Senate chamber. Landerkin says, "When we were roaring against this benificent, this sublime institution in the old days, James, who would have ever thought that I'd be treating you as a patient in the Senate, the political hospital. Jim McMullen's reply is not recorded.

The saw mill, stave factory, engine and boiler-house, together with a quantity of staves and headings, at Murphy's siding, some miles from Owen Sound, owned by J. E. Murphy of Hepworth, were destroyed by fire Friday night. Loss about $8,000; insured in Gore Mutual for $2,000.
