Wireless Telegraphy

Successive steps in the establishment of wireless telegraphy follow each other with a rapidity which is quite unprecedented in the developement of a new invention. It is not many weeks since the first successful signals were transmitted across the Atlantic, and in the interim the inventor has returned to England, completed his arrangements, and is now on his way back to America for the purpose of establishing a permanent station for the regular transmission of commercial wireless messages. Furthermore, it is announced that a contract has been made with the Canadian government for the transmission of ordinary transatlantic messages for ten cents a word, with a press rate of five cents a word. In accordance with the contract, the Canadian government will contribute $80,000 toward the erection of a station in Nova Scotia. At present the rate for general messages is 25 cents; so that the general public in Canada reap the immediate benefit of a reduction in the rate of fully 60 per cent.

Thus again do we see the indomitable patience of one man bring to fruition, after years of patient investigation, another of those epoch-making inventions, which was destined from the very first to bring untold benefit to the world at large and well-earned prestige and wealth to the inventor himself. In this age of increasing travel and multiplying international interests of a political, commercial and private character, this facilitation of communications between the old and new world will be beneficial to a degree that can scarcely be estimated. To the private individual particularly, will this great cheapening of telegraphic communication be welcome, as it brings the transatlantic "cablegram" within reach of a vast number of people to whom it is an impossible luxury at the present price. It is true the commercial success of the system has yet to be demonstrated; but Mr. Marconi has been so unfirmly modest and conservative in his claims, and has evidently been careful never to announce his achievements until he had proved beyond a doubt their practicability, that the public will have every confidence in the inventor's ability to carry out to the letter his contract with the Canadian government —Scientific American.

Prohibition Resolutions.

At the big prohibition convention held in Toronto on Feb. 25, consisting of 1200 delegates, the following resolutions were passed: That this convention hails with pleasure the decision of the Privy Council sustaining the Manitoba Liquor Act, thus affirming the right of a provincial Legislature to prohibit transactions in intoxicating liquors which take place wholly within the territorial limits of its jurisdiction, by the residents of the province.

That the bill introduced into the Ontario Legislature making prohibition conditional upon difficult, unreasonable and unjust requirements cannot be accepted as a fulfillment of the Government's pledges, and this convention expresses its deep regret that the Government has not carried out the simple definite promise of Sir Oliver Mowat, reiterated by Hon. J. S. Hardy and Hon. G. W. Ross, to introduce a bill to prohibit the liquor traffic to the limit of the declared power of the province.

That a specially objectionable and unfair feature of the bill is the provision that even if the bill is approved by a majority of the electorate voting thereon, it will not become law unless that majority attains very large dimensions, and this convention begs to respectfully inform the Government that legislation limited by any condition that would permit the opinions of a minority of the voting electorate to prevail, would not be considered by the prohibitionists of Ontario as a fulfillment of the Government's promises, nor as entitling members of the Legislature who voted for it to their confidence and support.

That this convention also objects to the unfairness of a method which makes it necessary for prohibitionists to poll a large vote in order to secure legislation they desire, while anti-prohibitionists are not required to do so, but may succeed without taking the trouble of voting

That this convention further protests against the fixing of the date for the proposed voting at an inconvenient time of a municipal election with an important economy of public funds and the time and effort of the voters, and we call for a vote, if at all, on that date.

That a deputation be appointed to lay before the Government the foregoing resolutions, and to ask for the removal from the bill of unfair conditions complained of, and that every member of the Legislature be urged to do all he can to secure the elimination from the bill of those conditions.

Three Animal Items

Some odd experiences are told by the Grand Valley Star. One morning last week Mr. E. Campbell saw a large sized gartersnake swimming in the water trough, and at once killed it. The reptile had no doubt come out on account of the warm weather.

Mr. Woods, 3rd concession, Garafraxa, killed a fox in close quarters one day recently. It was being hard pressed by the dogs, and running close by the house espied an opening in the ground and immediately popped in. It landed in a cistern where Mr. Woods easily despatched it.

Mr. George Smith of East Luther had a rather unusual experience with a wild cat or lynx the other day. Hearing a noise out about the chicken house, he found the dog barking at the cat, which on seeing Mr. Smith put for the swamp. Mr. Smith followed with his gun, but to no avail. But on arriving back at the house, about the first thing he saw was the lynx, and at once shot it. The beast was quite a large one.

By the recent opening of the Cape Australian telegraph cable as far as Perth, Western Australia, practically the whole of the British possessions are now linked together by telegraphic communication. For this Cape Australian section, nearly 15,000 miles of cable have been used at an expenditure of over $15,000,000. By this latest achievement the whole cable between London and Australia is in British hands entirely. By next February the cable will be extended to Adelaide. This new cable route opens a more direct means of telegraphic communication with Australia. The messages will be transmitted from London to Porthannon in Cornwall, thence straight to Cape Town via Madeira, St. Vincent, and St. Helena. From Cape Town they will then be transmitted overland to Durban, the South African terminus of the new Cape Australian route, thence direct to Mauritius, Rodriguez, Cocos Island, and on to Perth, Adelaide, Sydney and New Zealand.

Father Walsh, R. Cincumbent at Irish Lake some years ago, removing subsequently to Stratford, got into trouble at that town on Friday evening last by striking two young ladies whom he met, with a cane. One was hit on the head, the other on the arm, the priest ordering them to "go home." The young ladies were members of the Presbyterian church. A warrant was issued for the priest's arrest by the father of one of the young ladies, but the former left town before it could be served. Dr. Kilroy, under whom Father Walsh labored, attributes the affair to the fact that Father Walsh's mind has been sick for some time, and has lately received news of bereavement in Ireland, besides which he had recently taken up a peculiar idea regarding the time when young women should be at home and off the streets.

A Scientific Voice Improver

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal chords. Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes hoarseness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest anxiety, uniteness of voice. The most emi ent speakers and Prima Donnas would not be without Catarrhozone and credit in no small degree their unifirm strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence. The hard rubber inhaler fits conveniently into a purse or vest pocket, and may be used in the church, theatre, any place or any time. Complete outfit $1.
