There is this about the plebiscite vote: If you are not for it you are against it; if you do not vote for it you vote against it; if you stay at home your vote is counted with the liquor party. Those in favor of the continuation of the sale of liquor do not need to cast a vote, and still their vote counts one against prohibition. That is the pecularity of this contest. There is not a franchised man in this province who can shirk responsibility.

The Toronto exhibition piled up the shekels this year in a way to make Toronto business men smile from one side of their countenance to the other, also up and down. The receips are given out as being $30,000 ahead of any former year. It means a big haul for Toronto and a big financial drain from the country at large.

Another murderer has been committed in this country by a young London slum production who was given a home near St. Thomas. It is pretty nearly time that something was done to prevent the influx of this putrid stream of humanity to our shores. It is a hard matter to deal with, because the good comes with the bad, but it is pretty nearly always safe to judge any production of London slums as particularly vicious, and a rigid inspection by competent officers of every child be sent out might produce a more unobjectionable class of children. At any rate some effort should be made to stem the tide of viciousness which, undoubtdly, has been flowing upon us for many years. A guarantee should go with every child foisted on this country with a statement of its antecedents, former place of abode, and any other information that might be thought necessary to guard the safety of the homes where they find haven.

The wife of a Methodist minister in West Virginia has been married three times. Her maiden name was Partridge, her first husband was named Robbin, her second Sparrow, and the present one's name is Quayle. Ther are now two Robbins, one Sparrow and three little Quayles in the family. One grandfather was a Swan and the other was a Jay, but he's dead and now he's a bird of paradise. They live on Hawke Avenue, Eagleville, Canary Islands, and the fellow who wrote this article is a lyre bird and an interested relative of the family.—Exchange.

Got Lame Back or Lumbago?

No need of that now. That sort of pain can be knocked out in short order, for Polson's Nerviline which is five times stronger than any other, penetrating at once through the tissues, reaches the source of suffering, drives it out and thus gives relief almost instantly. Not magic, but strength that gives Polson's Nerviline this power. You will think it magic however if you try it, pain goes so quickly. Sold by dealers everywhere, in large 25c. bottles.

Daniel Matthews, a farmer near Waterford, committed suicide by taking arsenic.

Arthur Brunet, convicted of fraud in connection with St. James' division of Montreal elections, has been released from jail.

The Flesherton Advance man put in a nervous apology last issue for printing a sermon. We have been engaged in worse than that for the last six months and we haven't made an apology yet; but we're a little obtuse.—Durham Chronicle.

Frank Rollins, of Elmvale, met with a fatal accident on Monday. He was out shooting, and in order to fasten his belt, rested the gun on the ground with the muzzle in his armpit. The trigger evidently got caught in some way, for it was discharged, blowing his left arm and part of his side off, killing him instantly. Deceased was the adopted son of Mr. Lent, of Elmvale, and was sixteen years of age.

No man conducting business dependent upon public patronage can do so profitably for any length of time unless his business is kept promiently before the public in the paper published in his town. It is all very fine to talk of the people all knowing where to find him, but unfortunately for the man who does not advertise, the people do not buy that way. Four times out of five the goods were practically bought before leaving the house. That is the place of business and the goods to be purchased had been selected from advertisements in the paper. If you are represented there you reap the benefit; if not, well, you don't. Many persons, too, decide on purchasing goods they would not have thought of but for having their attention called to them in an advertisement. Advertising not only brings people to your place of business but makes it easier to sell your goods when you have them there. The prosperous business is invariably one well advertised.
