That Fierce Plastering Again

To the Editor of The Advance.

DEAR SIR,—The Patton Bros. think I must have been jollying them when I referred to what they called fast lathing and plastering. Not at all, it was zeal for the reputation of cur town. You must know that the Advance travels a long way up into the busy towns of Northern Ontario and away out on the wide prairies into those centres of hustling energy, where cities are sometimes founded in less time than it took Patton Bros. to lath and plaster a 20 x 26 house. I notice the charge in regard to the boy who helped them lath is evaded in a contemptible mannerj I would like to ask Patton Bros. if they consider it fair to try to crawl out of the hole they got into by striking at a boy in such a cowardly manner. This was the third time you had this boy this season and is it likely that you would have paid him $1 per day and board if he was no good? One would not expect a boy of 16 to know as much as a man nearing 40, and yet he is just fast enough to count one when working with Patton Bros. Even in regard to measurements you have neither actually denied nor proved our statement that there was only 400 yards in the houses, but like the other you have shown your nature by trying to strike below the belt. You want to know why someone does not do their fast work in Flesherton? Why didn't you do yours here, and then we could easily settle the disputed points. I gave you one or two examples of work faster than yours? Why don't you challenge to a test of skill? Also, you admit that you are not the fastest men here If that is so how came you to call your work exceptionally fast? And now in regard to your invitation to carry the hod. My dear Patton Bros., you really must excuse me for two reasons. You know it is beneath the dignity of any self respecting mason to carry the hod. Why my brother masons would call me a scab if I did so, and I don't want my eyes closed, and judging by the amount of mortar that Mrs. Manders shovelled out of the last house you plastered here I should indeed be in danger. Is that the reason you have no tender? But if you need a laborer why not try the good lady who handled the shovel so ably in the other house? And as woman is nowa days invading the domain of man, it is just possible that the promise of a future partnership might induce her to become an apprentice and learn the noble art of mud slinging. MECHANIC.

Mr. Arthur Vogt, who died at Mildmay recently, was born in Germany in 1815. He came to this country in 1841, settling in New Germany. He married Marie A. Schnurr, who lived until 1860. The fruits of his marriage were fifteen children, fourteen of whom still live, and twelve of whom attended their father's funeral. Mr. Vogt lived to see 145 grandchildren, making a total of 217, probably the largest line of descendants possessed by any man in Ontario.

Another man in khaki arrived in Shelburne by the morning train from the south Monday, in the person of Mr. C. Hodgson, son of Mr. J. W. Hodson, Horning's Mills, who arrived at Quebec from England on Saturday. Mr. Hodgson enlisted with the last batch of Canadian Mounted Rifles at Winnipeg for service in South Africa, and latterly has been in England, and was at the coronation of Edward VII., with the Canadian representatives of the South African forces.—Economist.

The Methodist General Conference took an important step at the session in Winnipeg, by fixing the length of a pastoral term at four years, instead of three, with the privilege of extending the term to five years under certain conditions. There was considerable discussion before this important move was decided on—a few of the delegates thought the term should be five years, a great many others thought 3 years as at present, was "quite sufficiency"—but finally the motion to make the term four years was carried by a large majority. Another important move was made at the Conference the same day by deciding to appoint a Field Secretary for temperance and moral reform.
