School Inspector Campbell visited the Flesherton public school on Tuesday of last week and found everything working satisfactorily, so much so that he strongly advises retention of the present staff next year "He says "It would be a mistake to change unless unavoidable."

Mr. J. W. Hodgson of Hornings Mills, who was visiting friends here this week, informs The Advance that he has made $300 this season from his bee colony. He has now over 100 skips and began the season with about 35. Mr. Hodgson thinks there is money in bees.

Entries for East Grey Show Fair, to be held here Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, are pouring in, and bids fair to be a record breaker, no less than 125 entries being received from one member.

If you want to have a good afternoon's fun come to East Grey fall fair on Wednesday of next week. Expert judges, good racing, music. and a general fine time is expected.

There will be a total eclipse of the moon on the night of October 16. It will begin at 10.17 and will be at its best about 12 o'clock. Young men and maidens will make arrangements accordingly.

New subscribers are coming in fast. Our offer of The Advance for the balance of this year at twenty cents is an attractive one and is bearing fruit. Tell your neighbors who do not enjoy the weekly visits of The Advance about this offer.

The Fair board of East Grey Agricultural society are putting their track, grounds and hall in first class condition, as from the large and numerous prizes offered for all exhibits, as well as for trials of speed on the track, they naturally look for a large turnout that day.

The Epworth League held an 'at home' in the basement of the church on Monday evening, when a short program was rendered and refreshments were served. The gathering was not large but those who were present enjoyed the evening very much.

East Grey fall fair will be held in Flesherton on Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, when government judges will be present to judge live stock. If you want to see just where your animals stand and hear the good and bad points pointed out, then bring them to the fair.

Osprey fall fair will be held at Feversham on Thursday and Friday of next week. Secretary J. A. Kernahan, Feversham, has plenty of prize lists for those who desire them. At the Friday evening concert W. J. White, comic, and D. McGregor, baritone, will supply the program. Go to Osprey fall fair and stay for the concert.

Irl R. Hicks of St. Louis predicts warm weather, with electrical disturbances, on the second day of Flesherton fall fair, Wednesday next, to be followed by quite cold weather. Electrical disturbances don't bother—it is cold, wet weather that knocks out a fair, and may this hold off for two or three days longer than the prediction calls for.

Every one of the large advertisements in The Advance has new matter this week. It meant an immense amount of extra work to put all these in type, but now that the buying and selling season is upon us our advertisers are vieing with each other to see who will place the choicest dishes before the public. It will be time well spent for all buyers to study them carefully.

Mr. Tom Wardrobe met with a terrible accident at the woollen mill on Thursday of last week by getting his left hand caught in the wool picker. The member was drawn in up to the elbow and terribly mangled from the elbow down. The most serious injury was to the palm of hand, which was literally torn away, tendons and flesh. Drs. Carter and Bilby dressed the mangled limb, and expect to save it, although the hand will always, in all probability, remain stiff. The accident is most regrettable and much sympathy is expressed for the young man and his family. An elder brother, Alf., had his leg taken off in Markdale a few years ago.

A rather peculiar case was tried before Magistrates Stuart and Harris of Kimberley on Saturday, September 20th, when Daniel Henderson of Kimberley was tried on the charge of taking and concealing a football belonging to the boys of Kimberley and vicinity. The boys had the ball about the sixteenth of July and Mr. Henderson secured it and concealed it. He was asked by different people for it but never produced it till too late. Action was taken and on Saturday after hearing two witnesses, Mr. Henderson pleaded guilty to the charge and was fined $5 00 and costs, amounting in all to $9.05. He was also charged with unlawfully carrying firearms. This case was adjourned till till Wednesday of this week when it is to be tried in Kimberley before Magistrates Stuart and Harris.

S. No. 13, Egremont, $30; S. S. No. 1, Normanby, $50; S. S. No. 12, Priceville, 30; S. S. No. 9, Osprey, $30.—Total $1,020. East Grey—S. S. No. 13, Collingwood, $100; S S. No, 5, Euphrasia, $30; S. S. No. 5, Collingwood, $30; S. S. No. 7, Collingwood, $30; U. S. S. No. 4, Euphrasia, $30;—Total $235. Thornbury (Urban) $15.

Miss Ida Cole of this place had a great rarity to exhibit to her friends on Monday evening last when a cactus—a night-blooming cereus—which she has attended during the past four years, put forth a flower which for beauty distances by long odds anything known in the floral world. The plant had but one flower, but this was nine inches in diameter, pure waxy white with delicate lacy anthers inside. The flower was much like a white water lily, but five times as large. It is one of the rarest and one of the most ephemeral things in flowers. The bud began to open between 8 and 9 o'clock p. m. and at 12 o'clock was in its full beauty, the queen of the floral world, and then it began to fade. In the morning it was a drooping mass without form or beauty. Its life was but a span of a few hours. Between the hours of 9 and 12 large numbers of flower lovers called to worship at its shrine. We believe this was the first flower of its kind to open in Flesherton. The plant is a native of the Mitre mountains of Mexico.

Poor Irwin! We mean the Durham Chronicle man. He is into it up to his ears and there is no sign of an early release. In his pedagogical days he was wont to fret and fume at the news-paper that would dare to print a religions controversy, and at one time he even dared to lecture The Advance for admitting matter of this nature to its columns. Early last summer a controversy of religious character was started in the columns of the Chronicle and the belligerents are now firing double-headers at him—that is two letters a week without waiting for the other fellow to reply. Last week's Chronicle contained a six-column article from one of the talented writers. It is getting faster and more furious. The ordinary staff is unable to cope with it and we understand that our poor confrere is obliged to sit up and burn midnight electricity in order to get the lengthy articles into type. His nerves are giving way, his hair is turning gray, his eyesight is failing, his readers are wailing, but the writers have a pull and there is no relief in sight. Hire a mergenthaler typesetter and run a daily for the Christmas season, William. A grind of that nature might tire them out.

The anniversary services in the Methodist church on Sunday last were attended by very large congregations. At the evening service especially the church was literally packed, special seating having to be brought into requisition. The service was most beautiful and impressive throughout. A sermon on "Ideals" was delivered from the text "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might," etc. * Ecclesiastes 9 10. The musical portion of the service was of more than ordinary excellence, and consisted in part of a couple of choice anthems, a solo by Miss Allie Joy, a quartette by the Misses Joy and Mr. Barnhouse and a trio, "Guard while I sleep," by the Misses Minnie, Annie and Allie Joy. The later piece is a gem of the first water, and as interpreted by Miss Minnie Joy it is something to be long remembered. Miss Minnie is quite competent to take a solo part in any large city church and Flesherton is indeed fortunate in possessing a singer of her ability. She has a clear sopranno voice of good power, and for the past two years her voice has been much improved under the tuition of her talented sister, Mrs. T. J. Sheppard. The thankoffering contribution amounted to $163.65, but more is anticipated from those who had not an opportunity to give on Sunday. Of this sum $77.90 was in cash. The subscription also included the sum of $50 from Dr. Christoe to be applied towards erecting a new fence in front of the church.
