THE GREAT COAL STRIKE

The coal strike now in progress on the other side of the line is having very far reaching consequences and is working havoc with the industries of the country, many of which are shuting down for want of fuel to burn. Added to this it is feared very much physical suffering will ensue during the coming winter in many cities of the United States. This will have one good effect in Canada by opening the eyes of our people to the fact that they have been building too much upon an anthracite foundation—trusting too much for a fuel supply to the very limited coalfields of Pennsylvania. Already a movement is on foot, or at least a suggestion has been made, to nationalize our own fuel preserves. We have large quantities of good coal in our country which ought to be taken over by the government and mined as a national undertaking. A good lesson is being read us by pointing out the folly of relying upon private investment for our fuel supply. It is too important a franchise to allow of vesting in the hands of a few capitalists who can grind the life blood from their workmen on a Chinese financial basis and place the price of this necessity at any figure they choose to demand. This condition of despotism has about run its race, and for this reason, if for no other, we would like to see the miners win their case. Up to the present time the owners of coal mines have suffered least of all, from the fact that all stock on hand soared up to a price that is intended to reimburse them for loss. The American people are certainly free and independent, but in one instance at least they have for long allowed themselves to be ground under the heel of a few capitalists who own all the coal fields, and the war between capital and labor which is now on may see in the near future an emancipation as important as that of 1866 when the colored people were freed by our American cousins from their yoke of bondage.
