Till tappers went through town early Wednesday morning of last week. Visits were paid to Boyd, Hickling & Co's store, Munshaw's hotel and Cairns' hotel, at the station. Only a few cents were got in each case. They were seen going towards Durham in the early morning but were not apprehended.

The Flesherton hunting party left for the wilds of Nipissing Wednesday morning. The party consists of Messrs. Geo. Mitchell, John Wright and Mark Wilson, Flesherton; P. Munshaw, Eugenia; W. Southgate, Toronto; J. Gerow and J. Hudson, Brougham. They have chosen the same location that has been visited for several years past, in the vicinity of Commanda.

It is whispered around in this section that Bro. Irwin of the Durham Chronicle had a little difficulty in getting home from the teachers' convention a week ago Saturday. When leaving town he took a horse belonging to a Meaford liveryman but recognized his mistake after getting a mile or so from town, and returned it to the the owner with profuse apologies. On the second attempt he got as far as Mr. H. Tucker's, the other side of the station, when the buggy was found to need oiling, and a stop was made. The dust proof cap of the axle was taken off, but even then the wheel could not be made to budge. Our respected confrere took off his coat and vest. He pulled, yanked, hauled and twisted at that wheel, but the pesky thing would not stir, so an adjournment was made to the nearest blacksmith shop, where the knight of the anvil explained to a disgusted editor that he had not unscrewed the nut that held the wheel in place. Last week's Chronicle did not mention this chapter of troubles. We presume it was an oversight and therefore merely draw attention to it without attempting to "rub it in."

Church Notes

The Bishop of Huron visited St. Mary's church, Maxwell, on his episcopal visitation to the county of Grey on October 22. Confirmation service was held at 4 p.m. when a number of candidates were presented to His Lordship, who gave two searching addresses. one to the candidates before the "laying on of hands," and another to the candidates and the congregation, delivered with his usual fervor. In the evening confirmation service was held at Flesherton Station, when six candidates there were presented by the incumbent, Rev. C. L. Mills.

The annual Thanksgiving services at St Mary's church, Maxwell, were held on Sunday last, Oct. 26. The incumbent, Rev. C. L. Mills, preached both morning and evening. Holy communion was administered at close of morning service Bright and hearty services were enjoyed by the congregations present—the evening service was well attended although a heavy thunderstorm delayed the service for an hour.

Boys, Read This,

Inspector Campbell in the Durham Chronicle, writing on the qualifications of boys of the present day to fill positions, says: "A few weeks ago, I was requested by a private banker in another county to recommend to him a young man, from 15 to 20, fairly educated, but accurate and careful in figures and above all, one whose honest and moral habits could be relied on. For the right kind of "boy," this gentleman offered a good salary and permanent position. I confess, Mr. Editor, like you, I was in a dilemma. I found it difficult to select one to "fill the bill." One, as a student, was inattentive and neglected his work, another was a cigarette fiend, a third loitered aimlessly too often on the public street, still another was uncourteous and uncivil, while many had not shown that they could do anything well. None of these boys would do. Yes, boys are watched, young men are watched, watched everywhere by men having positions to fill—watched not with the eye of a policeman, but with regard to their fitness to fill positions of trust with unfaltering devotion and unflinching honesty."

Rabbit No. 1.—"I am done for. My axe is broken."
Rabbit No. 2.—"Why don't you buy a Dundas axe? They stand Hemlock Knots.
I bought it at Boyd, Hickling & Co., Flesherton. THAT's the place for Reliable Hardware."
