Awful Suffering. Driven Almost Insane by Doctors. Tried Everything. Relief Immediate. Entirely Cured in 4 Months.

I suffered with the dreadful eczema for over six months during which time I had consulted three doctors, and felt tormenting skin diseases had grown more and worse on me in spite of all medical treatment. My condition was unbearable. My legs were swollen, my arms were raw, my face and neck full of eruption, which made me scratch until my whiskers were sealed and pasted with the sickly fluid I could hardly bear my clothing. When night came I was afraid to go to bed, no sleep would come to relieve me, but the itching would increase. During day time I had no rest; I was all broken up nervous to the highest degree, and nearly driven to despair. At that time I read about the Cuticura remedies, resolved to try them and dropped the doctors. After applying Cuticura I had the first night's rest for several weeks. Using the Cuticura, Cuticura Soap, and Cuticura Resolvent, with proper judgment, my condition improved slowly but surely day by day until after three or four months use of them I was cured. Our minister, Rev. J. G. Pierson, in Meriden, knows me and knows how I suffered. Any one can write to him and he will certify to the truth of this testimonial.

EDWARD BLAKE'S SPEECH

TEXT OF HIS ADDRESS BEFORE THE EIGHTY CLUB.

The Member for South Longford Says He Believes Ireland is on the Eve of Realizing the Result That Mr. Parnell Fought for.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Eighty Club entertained Hon. Edward Blake at dinner Thursday. Prof. James Bryce presided, Mr. Blake occupying the position on his right hand.

In the introductory speech which Prof. Bryce, who is member for the South division of Aberdeen, delivered he said that although the Liberal majority was small it was full of fighting spirit. The one main object of the Liberal party was the attainment of Home Rule for Ireland. Therefore the Liberals welcomed a new and powerful ally in the person of Hon. Edward Blake, who brought from Canada a keen intelligence, a large experience as a statesman and a sound judgment, which would be valuable aids in the solution of the Irish problems.

Mr. Blake, in responding to the remarks of Mr. Bryce, recalled the fact that the last time he was present at the Eighty Club, the occasion being a dinner in 1888, he sat beside Mr. Charles Stewart Parnell, who, he said, was a leader of men who compelled rather than conciliated the admiration of the masses. Despite all drawbacks he would retain a great place in history. He referred to Mr. Parnell's confidence in the good faith of his Liberal allies and his sincerity in his adherence to moderate constitutional courses.

He believed that Ireland was on the eve of realizing the results that Mr. Parnell fought for. The combined efforts of the Liberal sections were certain to attain the common objects they had in view. It was well that each of the allied forces recognizes the conditions under which the other is constituted. The Irish party was created and maintained for a definite object under a strict system of discipline allowing only a limited latitude. Experience had shown the truth of the assertion that the Irish interests in the Imperial Parliament required a limited system. The parliamentary weapons forged under Mr. Parnell's leadership had such weight, solidity, temper and keenness and had wrought such great things for Ireland that the Liberals had taken up the Irish cause in an honorable and cordial alliance, creating a friendly feeling between the Irish and British democracies. The might of Mr. Parnell's weapons may have been lessened, but even now they were fully adequate for the original purpose for which they were intended. He hoped that the Irish minority would ultimately see that the tactics of the majority were sound. Every one had the interests of Ireland at heart and desired the passage of an effective home rule bill. It might not be their every detail of the measure would be exactly what some Irishmen would like, but, as Mr. Parnell had once said, any sound measure would be cheerfully accepted.

If they worked with a desire to make a success of a substantial measure it would give them a field for action in Ireland which would produce so great a feeling of contentment in that country that there would be neither time nor inclination for captious criticism or factious agitation.

The Canadian Interest.

Mr. Blake also said that the Canadians had a material interest in the settlement of the Irish question. Like the people of every English-speaking nation they had been troubled about the matter of Home Rule. But they were actuated with a nobler spirit than that of self-interest. They remembered the American revolutionary struggle for home rule and the development of home rule in the Canadian possessions, and sympathized with the condition of a nation of fellow-subjects entitled to and refused self-government. England tried the experiment a century ago of giving Canada sole self-government without the essential condition that the executive should be responsible to and therefore controlled by the people. That was done under the fear that they were incapable of self-government and the belief that the majority being of the same race and creed would use the power thus obtained to oppress the so-called loyal minority. But the system caused gross abuses, discontent and agitation, and on the advice of an able commissioner, the Government, in 1841, gave a fuller measure of Home Rule, which largely secured the contentment and affection of the Canadians.

Since then the blemishes contained in the measure have been removed as experience guided.

The capital error was the legislative union of Upper and Lower Canada, which failed to extinguish the French national feeling and broke down after 25 years' trial when the federal union was substituted. The results fully justified the advocates of Home Rule. The hostility, jealousy and opposition of the two provinces have disappeared. Doubtless the constitution of Canada had a seamy side. He belonged to the party numbering half the population and which for 20 years had been the opposition, and he believed the policy of the Government was wrong and injurious. Yet the attachment to Home Rule was not confined to the dominant party. The minority had rather be misgoverned at home for the moment than well governed from abroad. (Cheers.) They had a powerful Orange party and bigoted Catholics and Protestants, but the sober, settled thought of the people proved the general adhesion to the principle of civil and religious liberty and equal rights. Minorities throughout the world were apt to be suspicious and exacting. He himself believed that the duty of the majority included the moral obligation to give the minority, not a grudging measure of strict justice, but a full, overflowing measure. This was the principle he had expounded to Irish meetings with enthusiastic acceptance.

Ireland's Imperial Interests.

He was convinced that the respect, loyalty and affection of the mass of the Canadians toward the United Kingdom owed their vitality and their strength to the concession of home rule. (Cheers.) The difficulties in the case of Canada did not exist in Ireland. Ireland had great imperial interests in common with England. While she could not claim to participate in the decisions of England's local affairs she would be unworthy of herself if she did not take a share in the imperial affairs. Therefore she strongly opposed the exclusion of Irish members from Westminster, which was indefensible in principle and dangerous in tendency. He rejoiced that it had been eliminated from the present Home Rule proposals, and that the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament would continue, because while it was hoped that the Imperial Parliament would not unnecessarily meddle with decisions of the Irish Parliament, yet in the highly improbable case of ultra vires legislation being proposed prejudicial to the general interests, Great Britain could always exercise plenary parliamentary authority and might insert executive powers of reservation and disallowance in case of such emergencies. He hoped the Home Rule bill would embrace a final settlement of the land question.

There were also great British social, labor and electoral questions which he thought might be grappled with during the lifetime of the present Parliament. When the Home Rule bill was launched and moving steadily along he would welcome the progress in its wake of other pressing legislation which would give the masses of Ireland, through their representatives in Parliament, an opportunity to show their sympathy with the just demands of the British people. (Cheers.)

Mr. Morton, M.P., in proposing Mr. Blake's health, said the granting of home rule to Canada had changed it from a rebellious dependency to a loyal colony.

Mr. Blake, acknowledging the hearty manner in which the toast of his health had been honored, said that he had left home almost at a moment's notice. In coming across the Atlantic to do what he could for the pacification and conciliation of Ireland he had severed the ties of a lifetime. The kindness that he had experienced since coming amongst them, however, and the generous treatment that had been everywhere accorded him went far to compensate him for the loss sustained. The banquet was a very successful and enjoyable one.

The Pall Mall Gazette says the statement of Cavalry's experiences as a Canadian argument, for home Rule was a most important contribution to the subject. Mr. Blake's remarks on the relation of Home Rule to other political questions were the voice of common sense.

The Daily News says that Blake's grasp of the situation was firm and thorough.

The Star says that the speech more than fulfilled the expectation of an authoritative review of the inner working of Home Rule.

The Times, however, makes a severe criticism and says that Mr. Blake has no real acquaintance with the problem he expected to treat of. At the last he was but humorous in his speech.

When Mr. Blake was referring to a possible rejection of the bill by the House of Lords, he quoted the proverb: "It is time enough to bid the devil good morning when you meet him."

He is a Leader of the Irish Party.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The Times' London special says there is a consensus of disquieting rumors that Gladstone is not as young in mind as in body and that he sets his foot down resolutely against the movement to introduce new blood into the Cabinet. Everybody is full of the story that he insists on having the whole old band of fossils once more about him, saying he is now too old to learn how to use new tools.

The Irish party had a meeting in the historic committee room No. 15, looked itself over, and was very well pleased with itself.

The new Committee of Control contains all the old members—McCarthy, Healy, the two O'Connors, Sexton, Dillon and O'Brien, with the exception of Dwyer in place of William Abraham, who is not a member of the new House, and David Sheehy, retired to make room for Edward Blake. It will be his own fault if, thus splendidly started, he does not make a mark in the House.

Blake Read His Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Blake's address at the Eighty Club dinner Thursday was the chief subject of political comment in the papers yesterday. Some surprise is felt that Mr. Blake follows his manuscript so closely, but the subject matter of the speech was warmly praised by the audience and heartily recognized by the Liberal press.

TRADE GOSSIP.

Business is of Customary Moderate Volume Without Special Activity.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Special telegrams to Bradstreet's show that at most commercial centres general trade is of customary moderate volume without special activity, though there are some exceptions.

Advices from the Province of Quebec indicate that the results of six months' business there have been on the whole disappointing. Harvest products, however, are good and the outlook is bright.

In Ontario wholesale trade is fairly active with some lines improving.

The wheat yield there will probably not equal earlier estimates.

Bank clearings at Halifax, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton equal $19,170,000 this week, a decrease from the previous week's total of less than 2 per cent. The first three cities named report bank clearings of $18,446,000 this week, a decrease of nearly 2½ per cent. from last week, but an increase of fully 11 per cent. as compared with the total the first week in August, 1891.

There were 16 business failures in the Dominion of Canada this week as compared with 22 last week and 28 in the like week a year ago.

MORLEY CHIEF SECRETARY.

Conference Between the Irish Leaders and Mr. Gladstone.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The series of conferences between the leaders of the Irish party and Mr. Gladstone has definitely resulted in such a degree of mutual confidence as promises to expedite greatly the advent of Home Rule in Ireland. The acceptance by Mr. John Morley of the post of Chief Secretary for Ireland was a point upon which the chief of the McCarthyite faction laid considerable stress.

Mr. Morley only agreed to accept the secretaryship when it was represented to him by Mr. Gladstone that no other Minister would so fully command the support of Irish members of Parliament.

In an interview yesterday John Dillon expressed the satisfaction of the Irish party at the prospect of Mr. Morley's holding the post during the critical period in the progress of the Home Rule Bill.

Referring to the reports printed in some of the English papers that certain Irish members might take office under Mr. Morley, Mr. Dillon said that such a thing was next to impossible. No member of the party, he declared, would dare to accept a place under an English Government. "We are pledged," he added, "to accept no post except under a purely Irish administration, when we get it, and any man violating that rule would be expelled from the party."

When asked whether he could communicate what modification Mr. Gladstone had made in his Home Rule Bill Mr. Dillon replied he was not at liberty to say anything except the bill was likely to be one that Mr. Parnell would have accepted, adding, "We will not take anything less. Mr. Gladstone knows that our position in the matter is definite and inflexible. He has pledged himself to place Home Rule in front of all other measures and to keep it there until it is passed. I believe we can rely upon his intention to do so."

"When do you expect Mr. Gladstone to introduce the Home Rule bill?"

"As soon as the House reassembles in January or early in February. We do not expect an autumn session. The House is likely to adjourn next Friday."

The proceedings of Parliament yesterday were of a routine nature and devoted to swearing in of members and choosing of seats.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt said in convention yesterday that they intended to bring in a home rule bill which will make the Tories shiver.

The Times says: Mr. Balfour regards the capture of five seats from the Nationalists as one of the most significant features of the election. In his speech on the address he will give special prominence to the attitude of Ulster in regard to Home Rule. It is stated that the Queen's speech will be of unusual brevity, and that the greater part of it will be devoted to foreign affairs.

Sixty-six McCarthyites met Thursday and re-elected Justin McCarthy as seasional chairman, Mr. Deasey, Sir T. Esmond, Mr. Malloy and Dr. Tanner as whips, and Arthur O'Connor and Donald Sullivan as secretaries. Mr. McCarthy was re-elected as a mere figurehead to keep differences in abeyance. The McCarthyites will sit on the Opposition side of the House, though they will cooperate with the Gladstonians on the Home Rule bill.

To Contest Newcastle-on-Tyne.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The Newcastle Unionists have selected a wealthy London merchant, Mr. Ralli, to contest the seat against Mr. Morley. Mr. Ralli has consented to run.

THEY BLAME A MOSQUITO

But Peter Kenny's Death was Really Caused by Blood Poisoning.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Peter Kenny, a laborer, 69 years old, died in Bellevue Hospital yesterday of what he and his family believed to be a mosquito bite.

The physicians, however, set down the trouble as cellulitis of the face and say it was simply a case of blood poisoning, brought on in some unknown manner. They say that the abscess may have started from a mosquito or other insect bite, into which some poisonous matter was introduced, probably by a scratch from a finger nail, but that it could not have come from a mosquito bite alone. The mosquito's bill, they declare, is not large enough to carry poisonous or putrid matter on which he may have been feeding, and the pestiferous insect has no means of injecting anything of that sort into anybody whom he may afterward attach. His bill has simply a suction pump action.

Sent His Money to His Mother.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Robert S. Rankin, who came to Manitoba from Dublin, Ireland, recently, has suicided at Virden. He leaves letters to friends directing that the money found on his body be sent to his mother at home, but gives no cause for suicide. He was working on a farm and doing well.

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC.

NEWFOUNDLAND'S DISTRESS LOAN OF $750,000.

Lord Salisbury Promises to Support it Should it Come up in Parliament—Verdict Against the British Government in the Baird Case.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—In view of the present critical political situation Lord Salisbury has declined to legislate in favor of a distress loan of $750,000 for Newfoundland, but he promises to support the measure if it is introduced in Parliament.

The celebrated case of Baird v Walker has been settled at last by a victory for Newfoundland. It arose out of the closing in 1890 of lobster factories on the French shore, owned by James Baird, by Sir Baldwin Walker, captain of H.M.S. Emerald, acting by instructions under the modus vivendi arrangement. Baird contended that the factories were in operation before the modus vivendi was concluded, and took an action against the captain in the Newfoundland Supreme Court, claiming $2500 damages. The court unanimously upheld his claim, and the British Government, which upheld Walker, appealed to the Imperial Privy Council. It delivered judgment in London affirming the former decision, and Baird now makes the British Government disgorge the sum claimed, besides costs, which are enormous.

DUKE AND PLEBEIAN.

An Incident in England Showing That Republicanism Is Waking Up.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Lord Chief Justice Coleridge delivered judgment yesterday regarding right of way in an action in which the plaintiff, a workingman, sued the Duke of Rutland because of the latter's gamekeeper stopping traffic on a highway while they were driving grouse. His Lordship in his deliverance said that the days of high handed interference with the rights of the people had passed and that if the Duke could not conduct his shootings without meddling with the right of the public to use the highway he must select other places to hold his battues.

The evidence given during the trial of the suit showed that the gamekeepers knocked the plaintiff down on the highway and that when the plaintiff complained of this treatment to the Duke's son, Lord Edward Manners, the latter replied:

"Go to the devil. If you are shot your life will be on your own head."

This, the Lord Chief Justice said, could not be tolerated from any person, Duke or other.

Lord Edward Manners, interposing at this point in the remarks of the Lord Chief Justice, said that His Lordship's words seemed to hold him (Lord Edward) up as a prospective murderer.

To this His Lordship replied:

"I only said what I considered it my duty to say."

TO MEET THE AMEER.

Gen. Roberts Despatched to Jellalabad With a Detachment—They Regard the Situation as Serious.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The serious position of affairs in Afghanistan has decided the Indian Government to send General Sir Frederick Roberts at the head of a large detachment to meet the Ameer at Jellalabad. The mission will be accompanied by a political agent, but the main object is a conference to arrange plans to strengthen the Ameer against internal feuds and Russian advance.

Steamer Australia on Fire.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—The steamer Australia, formerly the splendid Anchor liner plying between Glasgow and New York, while lying at the Portishead Dock, near Bristol, took fire on Wednesday night. In spite of the efforts to extinguish the flames the steamer was well-nigh gutted.

A Defaulter Convicted.

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—Rudolf Jaeger, who for 17 years was chief cashier in the banking house of the Rothschilds at Frankfort, and who in April was found to be a defaulter was convicted and sentenced to 10 years' penal servitude. Jaeger stole more than 1,000,000 marks.

Six Lives Lost in a Coal Pit.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Six miners lost their lives this morning in a coal pit near Dewsbury, County York, through the pit becoming flooded by water from an abandoned working.

FORESTALLING UNCLE SAM.

Pago-Pago Harbor Seized By a British Man-of-War.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Aug. 6.—The steamer Mariposa arrived last evening from Australia, and in addition to details of the British occupation of Johnston Islands brought intelligence that a British man-of-war has seized Pago-Pago harbor, to be used as a coaling station by the English Government. This has created considerable talk in San Francisco. The steamer Alameda, which sailed for Sydney via Samoa on July 15, took an officer of the United States navy, Lieut. John H. Coffin, whose destination was Apia. His duty was to put the United States coaling station at Pago-Pago in order and to appoint officers and men to take charge of it. Before leaving he stated that the United States was going to keep a large supply of coal there and make a regular naval station of the place. The Evening Star of Auckland, New Zealand, says Pago-Pago Harbor was formerly used by the Americans as a coaling station, but with the loss of their ships in Apia in the 1889 hurricane it has been discontinued.

In 1875 a Samoan envoy made a visit to the United States, and the grant to the United States of the exclusive privilege of establishing a naval station at Pago-Pago was confirmed. In 1876 the coaling station established there in 1872 by Commander Meade was formally inspected by Special Agent Steinburger.

Minnetonka Regatta.

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 6.—Races were rowed Thursday in International regatta at Lake Minnetonka, crews of St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg entering. First race, junior fours—Winnipeg won by 10 lengths. Second race, senior singles—Fox of Winnipeg won easily. Third race, junior double—St. Paul 1, Minneapolis 2, Winnipeg 3, Duluth 4.

Toronto Cricketers Defeated.

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 6.—The London Asylum cricketers easily defeated the Torontos in the match played on the asylum grounds here yesterday. Only one innings each was played, the game being called on account of rain. Toronto made 71 in their innings. The asylum made 186 runs with no wickets down.

On Hamilton's Bicycle Track.

HAMILTON, Aug. 6.—The entry list of the bicycle races closed Thursday, and to the list already published may be added Jaffray, McQuillan and Dell of the Toronto Wanderers.

Starritt's ankle has again gone back on him as a result of exertion in the club road races on Wednesday night. He will not be able to compete on Monday in anything except possibly the quarter mile dash.

Wells is riding better every day and is in grand shape. He is sure to capture his share of firsts against all comers.

Palmer is suffering from nausea, which comes on after riding. He is, however, so full of grit that he may be depended upon to ride to the finish every time.

Zimmerman will probably arrive on Sunday morning if he makes connections at Niagara Falls.

THE PRINCE WAS KILLED

And the Lieutenant Blew His Own Brains Out—Jealousy the Cause.

MOSCOW, Aug. 6.—At a ball, arranged by the officers' corps of the czar's body, last night, at the Castle, Linat, Rottovitch suddenly stepped into the middle of the ballroom, drew a pistol from his pocket, took deliberate aim and shot Prince Nicholas Sussiovitch, another officer. Prince Nicholas was waltzing with the fiancee of the man. He received the bullet in his heart and fell, dragging his partner with him to the ground. The assassin, amid wild excitement, stepped over the body of his comrade, raised his fiancee's head by the hair and then blew his own brains out. This happened in less than thirty seconds. So quickly were the shots fired that interference was impossible. The terrified woman gave the alarm to those in other parts of the hall. Medical assistance was at once procured, but was of no avail in the case of Prince Sussiovitch and Ivan Rottovitch. The young lady was, with difficulty, dragged from the death grip of her murdered partner, and is lying at the point of death. The murder has created much excitement in Russian upper circles, where all parties concerned are well known. The czar ordered a special report to be forwarded to him by telegraph. The murdered prince had been warned beforehand by Rottovitch not to attempt dancing with the latter's intended. It was a clear case of jealousy, though there was, apparently, no ground for any suspicions on the part of the murderer.

It is now thought that Sir Daniel Wilson cannot recover, though he may linger for several weeks. No marked change has occurred during the past week, but as there has been no improvement it is feared that it is now too late to hope for any.

Pleased With the Speech.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Hon. Edward Blake's speech at the Eighty club, yesterday, produced a favorable impression. The speech is highly praised in the liberal press as well worthy of the reputation which Mr Blake has gained as a statesman and orator. The Pall Mall Gazette says that one of the most influential among his listeners declared that Mr. Blake had said everything that ought to have been said and nothing that he ought not to have said. This describes admirably the combination of boldness and tact which the speech displayed. Mr. Blake proved himself as much impressed by the reception accorded to him. He has been elected a member of the Irish parliamentary committee.

Trouble Over Religion.

CINCINNATI, Aug 6.—Jesuits of the new Orleans stripe, better element of Italians, here, decided that it was disgraceful to Americanize fellow countrymen in this city and to that end a school was established, the school board donating the use of a room. The children were taught Italian and English and the grown people English. It was a brilliant success until the close of the year when the question of religion came up and on that took the school is about to be wrecked. The Camillo Cavour society and the Italian consul had all questions of religion taboed. The opposition insists that the school shall be made a Roman Catholic institution. The fight is on, and it is not improbable.

Down on the Coast.

HALIFAX N.S., Aug. 6.—The captain of the steamer Harlow, which arrived this morning from the west coast of Newfoundland, reports that no herring have yet been taken there and the prospects are, fishermen say, that none will be. When the steamer passed Twin Island in the straits of Belle Isle, last Monday, two large tugs were at work there endeavoring to float the Gloucester schooner Shenandoah, stranded there for the past two months.

No Room for Appeal.

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—Dr. Bourinot, the distinguished clerk of the house of commons, referring to the decision of the privy council in the Manitoba school question, said yesterday that a decision of the highest court of the empire, which declares that no rights have been interfered with, leaves no room for any other appeal or for remedial legislation, since in law, and in fact, it is declared that there is nothing to remedy.

"Boodler" Jaehne Not Pardoned.

WATERTOWN, N.Y., Aug. 6.—Governor Flower says there is no foundation for the report that he has pardoned Jaehne, the New York "boodle" alderman, now serving a sentence of imprisonment in Sing Sing under conviction of bribery in the matter of the Broadway railway charter. Jaehne's term will expire on Oct. 15th, 1892.

The New Northwest School Bill.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—The new school bill regulating public schools in the Canadian Northwest was introduced at the session of the Northwest Assembly yesterday. This bill does not disturb separate schools, but provides that English shall be taught in them and that both Protestant and Roman Catholic inspectors may inspect them. It also disqualifies all clergymen from holding office as either inspectors, teachers or trustees.

WHAT CAUSED THE DEATH OF WILLIAM CHAPMAN.

The Northwest School Bill—Sent His Money to His Mother—The Recount Made it a Tie—A Jockey Scalped—Prairie Crops.

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—The death of William Chapman of Thorndill has been investigated, and the verdict of the coroner's jury is that he died from injuries received by a fall; cause of fall unknown.

Chronic Orr presided at the inquest, which was held at Sheridan's Hotel yesterday afternoon, and County Crown Attorney Stewart did all the questioning. High Constable Jones looked after the jury, and everything was carried out with despatch.

The following is a true story of the whole affair, as gleaned from the evidence of the half-dozen witnesses who were sworn:

The deceased, William Chapman, was a hard drinker, and has several relatives in Thornhill who are half highly respectable. On Friday night he had been called at Sheridan's Hotel at 8.30 and again at 10 o'clock. On the occas
