Farmers' Institute.

Centre Grey Farmers' Institute met in the town Hall on Thursday afternoon, as announced, with Mr. Wm. Inkster, Vice President, in the chair. The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. H Glendinning, who gave an elaborate address on "Feeds and Feeding," illustrated by charts. We cannot attempt to report his address. One of the points elaborated upon was the fact that mixed feeds produce the best results.

Miss Maddock of Guelph spoke on bacteria, explaining the nature of these and distinguishing between those that were useful and those that were injurious. Sunlight and fresh lime, she said, were good bacteria destroyers.

Mr. Glendinning then showed a weed chart and pointed out the fallacy of sowing seed because it was cheap. Clean seed is the only safe seed to sow, no matter what it costs.

At the afternoon session the attendance was not large, but at the evening meeting the hall was filled with an interested audience. The chair was occupied by M. K. Richardson, M. P., and the speakers were the same as at the afternoon meeting. "Beautifying the home" was handled very entertainingly by Mr. Glendinning, the following being most of his points: Farmers, he said, thought they had not time to beautify their home surroundings. This he thought a mistake, because a farm so beautified would bring from $500 to $1000 more at a sale. He advocated the planting of trees along the roadside. For this he preferred maple. Lawns added much to the beauty of a homestead. Lawns were looked upon by many as a luxury. This he also thought a mistake. The man in the country had more land and was better able to have a lawn. Never plant trees in a row on large lawns. No stiff form of planting would do in landscape gardening. Clumps of bushes here and there were the correct thing. The house should be erected on land higher than roadway and not too far from it. For lawns there was nothing so beautiful as grass The prettiest lawn on the continent had nothing on it but grass. In the matter of using paint, not enough was done on the farm. Farm houses should be painted light colors to make fine contrasts. Never set the road gate directly in front of the house, but make a winding path. As to suitable trees for lawns, small sized ones were best, and the following were good: Oak leaved mountain ash, cut leaf weeping birch and evergreens. Where larger trees were wanted Basswood, ironwood and birch were fine. Evergreen hedges were the most beautiful. Cedar was probably the best evergreen hedge tree we have. In hardy shrubs he recommended the spireas, especially praising Van Houtei, Wigelia. Those which required slight protection were hydrangea paniculata. Austrian honeysuckle and syringas were also hardy. From the beautification of the home the speaker passed to household conveniences and strongly advocated the installation of windmill waterworks from a pure source and the installation of a hot water system for house heating He raised his water 60 feet and piped it half a mile. A small 8-foot windmill supplied both house and barn. Miss Maddock spoke on plant life and explained the proper method of taking and rooting cuttings. Cut square across just below eye and root in pure sand pressed down. She also explained her method of combatting insects. For green fly, tobacco water; worms in soil, lime water; for red spider, water. During the course of the evening Mr. and Mrs. T. Sheppard and the three Misses Joy gave several pieces of vocal music in their own in inimitable way and the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Last fall James Bell exhibited some apples in class "any other variety, winter" at the fair held here and secured first prize. They were noticed by J. I. Graham as an unknown variety to him, who asked for the samples that he might send them to the Committee on New Fruit for the Province. Their receipt was acknowledged and they were placed to test their keeping qualities, and now their flavor has been pronounced good. The Prof. has written for scions to test growth, vigor and habits of the tree. Out of 24 varieties sent to the committee this year only one was considered worthy of trial. This is the second seedling sent by Mr. Graham that has been considered worthy of testing.—Standard.
