TERRIBLE RAILWAY ACCIDENT NEAR LIVERPOOL SATURDAY.

Sudden Illness of the Pope—The Latest Attempt on the Life of the Czar—A Big Financial Smash—The Latest Money Markets.

LIVERPOOL, July 19.—A terrible accident occurred yesterday along the line of the Manchester Ship Canal. A train passing along the railroad running near the canal fell over the latter's embankment near this city, killing 11 men who were working under the heading. Many other workmen were injured.

The accident was due to the fact that the pointsman, a boy 17 years of age, mistook the points and turned a railroad train consisting of 29 waggons loaded with ballast into a siding leading into a cutting. The train then crashed into a slight buffer at the end of the cutting and toppled over upon the men at work below the embankment. The bodies of the men killed were horribly mutilated. The boy pointsman ran away when he saw the accident which was due to his mistake. The lad was captured later in the day and charged with manslaughter.

A RECKLESS JUMP.

A Queenston Drunk Flirts With Death in Niagara River.

LEWISTON, July 19.—John Burns, a well-known Queenston man, about 25 years of age, came to this side yesterday and gave a free and unexpected exhibition.

A plentiful supply of liquor had given him great nerve. He walked out on the cable of the old suspension bridge some distance and dropped into the river below, a distance of over 100 feet, striking on his back with the report of a gun. He floated around for a minute apparently lifeless and with the clothing torn to shreds. He then began to paddle around. A boat put out and he was rescued. He did not appear to be much the worse for the fall.

Burns is a good swimmer, and the act was supposed to have been nothing more than pure deviltry. To-day, it is stated, he made the foolish jump for a purse of $20. He is now feeling the bad effects of his act and it is believed he sustained internal injuries.

Why the Bank Went Up.

LONDON, July 19.—Half the capital of the English Bank of the River Platte, which failed yesterday, is paid up, but the other half is only applicable in the event of the bank's liquidation, and cannot be applied to the purposes of business. The institution has a reserve of $8,100,000.

During the past three years the bank has paid a yearly dividend of 10 per cent. The difficulty in which the bank now finds itself arose from the impossibility of collecting debts in the Argentine Republic in consequence of the moratorium decree recently issued by the Argentine Government.

Among the directors of the bank are the Hon. Carr Glynn and Lord George Hamilton, M. P.

It is said the failure involves $35,000,000.

The Czar Covered With Blood.

LONDON, July 20.—The latest rumor regarding attempts upon the life of the Czar, which rumor caused momentary terror in St. Petersburg, was that an officer had tried to murder the Czar with an axe. The report arose from the fact that the Czar was amusing himself in a forest chopping a tree when the head of the ax flew off and struck an attendant in the face, wounding him. The Czar went to the assistance of the wounded man and got some blood on his hands and clothes. An officer of the guard approached them and thought the Czar was in danger. He called upon some soldiers to rescue His Majesty, and before an explanation could be made the wounded attendant was cut down by the over-zealous soldiery. The Czar caused the officer to be punished for his action.

Money in London and Paris.

LONDON, July 19.—During the past week there was a good demand for discount, with money less abundant. Discount was quoted 1¾ for three months and ¾ for short. The total amount of gold drawn from the Bank of England for the week was £1,100,000, including £805,000 which went to Russia. The Bank of England's reserve is now less than £16,000,000. About 23,000,000 will be wanted for home purposes during the autumn. This drain, besides contingent shipments of gold to the United States, gives a certainty of dearer money.

The English River Plate Bank failure left the stock exchange yesterday in a condition of general depression.

Other Bourses were quiet during the week.

Strange Cause of Death.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A dentist killed by a woman's bite has presented a case unique at 164 East Eighty-third-street. Francis M. Baab was the man, and he died at his home there yesterday. He was 21 years old, and on April 19, in his father's absence, he set out to relieve from pain a lady who came into the office with her face swollen and inflamed from an aching tooth.

To locate the tooth he asked her to open her mouth wide. She did so. He touched it with his finger. In the agony of the touch the woman shrieked and snapped her jaws together, biting Baab's finger.

He went on and pulled the tooth and thought little of the accident until the blood poisoning set in, of which he died.

A Husband's Surprise Party.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A man giving the name of Louis Centreaux was among the steerage passengers who arrived on the La Bourgogne from Havre yesterday. He had with him a pretty little woman, whom he introduced as his wife. As soon as he landed an angry woman met him and began belaboring him with an umbrella. It proved to be his wife whom he had deserted in Paris.

Two weeks ago she followed him to Havre and took passage on the same steamer but could not find him on board. The couple made up and went off together, while wife No. 2 disappeared. Centreaux had 2 tickets for St. Louis and it's supposed that he went there.

Tidings of the Missing Mabel.

BUFFALO, July 20.—A trace of the lost yacht Mabel of Port Dover has been found. Capt. Hazen of the tug Comet found the provision chest of the Mabel three miles from the new breakwater yesterday morning. It was empty. It is supposed the yacht is not a great distance from where the chest was found. The box is on exhibition in The News window. It is painted white and on the cover are the words: "Yacht Mabel, Port Dover, Ont."

Pope Leo Suddenly Taken Ill.

ROME, July 20.—The Pope was seized with a sudden illness on Thursday. Dr. Ceccarelli was hastily summoned and the Pope afterwards recovered.

The only disquieting symptom is that he is apt to fall into a profound sleep even when taking an airing in the Vatican gardens.

There Was Death in the Blow.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., July 19.—James McCormick of this place died yesterday from injuries received in a prize fight with William Daniels of Rhinelander last night. The fight was 10 rounds with light gloves. In the seventh round McCormick appeared dazed and fell unconscious under a terrific blow from Daniels. Daniels and his seconds, Frank Broulette and Jim Daly, have been arrested on a charge of murder.

British House of Commons.

LONDON, July 19.—Thomas Reed, ex-Speaker of the American House of Representatives, visited the House of Commons yesterday as a guest of P. Stanhope. Mr. Reed was introduced to Sir William Vernon Harcourt and others and listened to the debate.

Mr. Balfour proposed to increase the grant for the relief of distress in Ireland during the coming financial year to £1000,000.

The French Railway Strike.

PARIS, July 20.—The Railway strike is already weakening. Employes on the Eastern Railway have signed a protest against the strike. The men at the Romilly d'hate have decided to return to work and it is expected that a large number of strikers will resume work to-day.

A Sensation Expected.

LONDON, July 20.—The chairman and several directors of the English Salt Union having resigned, the Liverpool shareholders of the union became greatly excited. They held a meeting at which it was resolved they would await the appearance of the promised statement of the directors before taking further action. A sensation expected.

A SUNDAY RIOT IN TORONTO.

Disgraceful Scene in Queen's Park—The Mounted Police at Work.

TORONTO, July 20.—The Queen's Park yesterday afternoon might fairly have blushed for its name. There certainly was Queen's weather, but the proceedings were in breach of the peace of Her Majesty's liege subjects. Instead of a quiet resting place, a healthful breathing-space, a spot to hold communion with nature and wherein to forget the week's toils and cares, the beautiful trysting-spot, the popular rendezvous was for a couple of hours transformed into a scene of coarse ribaldry, faction fights, tussels with the representatives of law and order, yea, a veritable bear garden.

Premonitions of the coming storm had not been wanting. On several previous Sunday afternoons there had been rumblings of the tempest, when orthodox and heterodox blows were exchanged and several individuals were "run out" of the park. Yesterday there was an immense crowd in the park. "Jumbo" Campbell was in fine fig. He had got his stand painted, wore his shining silk plug and white cravat. He lost no time in preliminaries, launched at once into his favorite subject, his unfailing topic—the corruptions and evils of Roman Catholicism.

After the collection, which apparently was a very liberal one, had been taken up, "Jumbo" proceeded to analyse the Roman Catholic prayer book, alleging that it was contradicted by another prayer book by Archbishop Lynch. Some one called out "rotten beef!"—manifestly a reference to the fact that "Jumbo" was fined in the police court for selling tainted meat.

This was a bolt out of the blue for "Jumbo." His usually pale face became a ghastly hue. Truely he protested, "That is an insult"; and beckoning to one of the white-helmeted policemen who dotted the seething crowd, peremptorily ordered, "Arrest that man; he's a mick."

This was as fuel to the flames, and the storm of angry passions burst forth. There were cheers and hootings as a constable was seen making his way to the spot indicated. There was a tumult before the officer of law reached the implicated one. Some over-zealous ones ruthlessly laid hands on the suspect; he naturally defended himself; everyone around him took sides; there was a general scuffle in which hats were knocked off and sticks were flourished and vigorously used.

As in all crowds, they were many timid ones; these trod on each other's toes, and in the stampede women and children were knocked over and there was a scene of the most pronounced disorder.

A man, whether the real offender or not, was arrested by the police. He gave his name "Malheron of Claremont-street," but was let go on being escorted out of the park by the police. He will be summoned, so it is said, for causing the riot.

The most ludicious incident of all was that the mob tumbled "Jumbo" from his perch, whereat there was great laughter and cheering. Then came an extraordinary scene, such as has not been seen since the visit of William O'Brien. Two mounted policemen with careering of horses and flourishings of whipstocks, cleared an open space around "Jumbo," who thus secure from present molestation let loose the nails of his wrath;

"Shame on the Roman Catholics! Are the Orangemen of Toronto going to see me put down? [Cheers and cries of "no, no!"] You have the papers say that I caused the row; and they will call me and my friends the ribald rowdies of Toronto."

And then "Jumbo," in the white-heat of his excitement, rounded on the police, who were at the moment doing him such yeoman service. "What," he roared, "did the police now do to protect me? They let me be pushed about and I've lost my papers. And all through those ignorant Roman Catholic interrupters. [A voice: "Lynch them!"] No; I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll take up another collection."

And so he did, saying: "You put in your dollars before; now put in your quarters. It shall want it all." Then to his shame, be it said, as he sprang down and mixed among the crowd, while under the agis of the police, he said: "We know who our fathers are, because our mothers never went to confession." And except one or two expressions of "Shame!" this gross insult was allowed to pass unchallenged.

Continuing his provocative harangue from his rostrum, Campbell thundered: "The Romanists have smashed my windows three times, but I will make them smart yet" [Cheers and laughter and voices: "Pull him off the stand!" "Shut up!"]

"To Hell with him," roared a gang of young ruffians, and to that region or a more congenial one the poor fellow undoubtedly would have gone had it not been that Inspector Hall, one or two policemen in plain clothes and the two mounted men escorted him out of the park and thus protected him from the howling mob.

As it was, there was a scene of the most approved disorder. Carriage traffic was stopped, people entering the park were rudely obstructed, hundreds of Toronto's educational visitors held up their hands in dismay as they were hustled and jostled. "Is this the boasted quiet Sunday for which Holy Toronto has been so loudly praised?" was asked on every hand.

Vainly the police, mounted and on foot, sought to stem the ruffianly tide. On it rolled through the park gates, westward on College street, down Heary, thence into Orde, on into Murray, through Queen's avenue, on to Agnes street, where for safety the hunted man, who gave the name "James O'Brien," and stated he was an employe of the Waterworks Department, and that he has a brother on the police force, was left to his Sunday evening reflections and to meditate on the anathemas which had greeted his ears en route: "Hang him to a tree!" "Slug the bloody Dogan!" and other choice epithets that startled the peaceful residents of College and Murray streets.

After the mob had dispersed, O'Brien was allowed to furtively depart for his own home, 76 William street. The end is not yet.

Spurgeon and Gladstone.

LONDON, July 20.—Mr. Spurgeon is progressing slowly but satisfactorily toward recovery.

Mr. Gladstone in a letter to Mrs. Spurgeon says:

In my own home darkened at the present time I read with sad interest the accounts of Mr. Spurgeons illness, I can not help conveying to you an earnest assurance of my sympathy and of my cordial admiration not only for his splendid powers but still more for his devoted and unfailing character. I humbly commend you and him in all contingencies to the infinite stores of divine love and mercy.

Mrs. Spurgeon replied with a note of thanks, a post script to which was traced by Mr. Spurgeon as follows:

"Yours is a word of love, such as those only write who have been into the king's country and seen much of his face. My heart's love to you."

A Reverend Umpire for the Girls.

WASHINGTON, O., July 20.—This city is to have a female baseball team. It is not their intention to travel or to make a public exhibition of themselves, the object being to afford a source of home amusement and recreation. The ladies interested in the national game here are among our best society young ladies. They played their first game with a team of young men, and the latter, not desiring to defeat the girls too badly, used only their left hands, while they allowed the ladies to use both. Rev. S. B. Alderson, D. D., pastor of the Presbyterian Church, umpired the game very satisfactorily. The game stood 17 to 22 in favor of the young men.

Gossip from Ottawa.

THE TALK IN TORONTO.

DEPARTURE OF THE VISITING UNITED STATES TEACHERS.

Disappearance of a Benwell Tragedy Celebrity—The Death of Miss Sophia Handcock Now Thought to be Accidental—The Street Railway Franchise and the Esplanade Agreement.

TORONTO, July 20, 1891.

IN this city of churches about one-fifth of the visiting teachers spent a last Sunday, the other 4,000 of them having started the day before all over Canada on the various cheap side trip our railways provided in order that the educators of the United States might be thoroughly acquainted with this country. The hospitality shown the visitors by the people of this city has predisposed them to view things Canadian in a very roseate light, and no doubt their visits to other portions of the Dominion will prove profitable looked at in this optimistic spirit. The convention has been an unqualified success, and its memories will not be to the disadvantage of Canada. A feature of the transportation accommodation is worth mentioning. The tickets for the side excursions are all from Toronto and return, consequently those who take them in will have to come back to the city before going home. Detachments of the great educational army will, therefore, be dropping into the city every day for a week to come.

MAY BE BLOCKED YET.

The Esplanade agreement may not be as near a settlement as was hoped for. A difficulty has been raised by Elias Rogers. That gentleman has large coal yards both north and south of the tracks and west of the Midland yard. At present the Grand Trunk's entrance to the Midland yard is from the east. In order to facilitate the crossing of the Canadian Pacific at Berkeley street it is proposed to make that entrance from the west. This will cause a continual shunting back and forth between Mr. Rogers' two yards and interfere with his traffic from one to the other. As that gentleman says, "The Canadian Pacific crossing has been made possible by stopping the shunting east of the Midland yard and doing the shunting to the west of it between my two properties, thus shifting the difficulty from the Canadian Pacific to myself." Mr. Rogers, on being spoken to, would not express himself very definitely, but said the matter is in the hands of his solicitors and intimated that action will be taken to prevent the completion of the agreement unless his interests are more fully protected. Mr. Rogers is a member of the Joint Esplanade Committee, and to many it seems just a little singular that he did not raise these objections a little sooner.

NOW THOUGHT TO BE ACCIDENTAL.

The medical testimony given in the coroner's inquest at Fairbank, touching the death of Miss Sophia Handcock, virtually dispelled the theory of foul play. It was demonstrated pretty conclusively that the fracture to the skull might have been caused by a heavy fall against some blunt substance, and that the wound could have been caused by the head coming into contact with the corner of the cellar door. The corner of the trap door bears a corner freshly broken off. The growing impression in the neighborhood is that the deceased was carrying a pail of butter across the floor, near the trap door which was not closed tight down. Close to the door is a home-made mat, on which she tripped and fell with all her weight against the door. Her father, it seems, was the first to discover the wounded girl, and immediately proceeded to bathe the wound and staunch the flow of blood. Finding that his efforts were unavailing he ran out of the house, meeting in the roadway a couple of neighbors. His hands were still stained with blood, he not having stopped to wash them before rushing out of the house. The circumstance caused some ugly rumors to be circulated. High Constable Jones says "We have not been able so far to attribute any motive for murder."

PICKTHALL AGAIN.

Neville H. Pickthall, the young English farmer whose disappearance from his farm near Woodstock about the time of the Benwell tragedy brought him into prominence for a while, has again become the subject of a little sensation. "Pick", as he was familiarly known, has disappeared from the New Fort Barracks where a short time ago he commenced a three years course with the intention of becoming attached to "C" school permanently. He left the Fort one evening over a week ago and has not been heard of since, though diligent inquiry has been made in the city. The people at the Fort think that he has grown tired of military life and gone away to the States or to England. If he continues absent for twenty-one days he will be marked down as a deserter. Until that time he is only "absent," unless a member of the school should see him in civilian's clothes, in which case he would be recorded as "deserter" at once.

THE BOODLING CHARGES.

No time is being allowed to lapse in setting the investigation on foot in the boodling charges in connection with the street railway franchise. Subpoenas have been served on J. F. Coleman, G. S. McConkey, G. G. Woodworth, Thomas Mitchell, jr., G. W. Kiely, J. K. Kerr, Baruch Mahler, Nichol Kingsmill, Alderman Hall, and Alderman Hewitt. The last mentioned are subpœnad to attend before Examiner Bruce this morning, Ald. Hall at 10 a. m., and Ald. Hewitt at 11 a. m. In a week at most it should be definitely known whether there is any truth in the charges.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

The annual flower show, to be held in the pavilion of the Horticultural Gardens on Thursday and Friday, will, it is anticipated, lead the van in anything in that line ever held in Canada, and the indications are that leading horticulturists from all parts of the province will be present.

NO CAMP AT NIAGARA.

The military camp for the Toronto district will be held at Niagara, from September 1st to 12th, the following corps being ordered under canvas:—"C" Company I. S. Corps, 2nd dragoons, 19th, 20th, 31st, 39th, 44th battalions.

TORONTO TOPICS IN A FEW LINES.

Wm. Hayes, convicted last spring of rape upon a woman named Winnie McKenna and sentenced to seven years in the Penitentiary, has been pardoned by the Government, it having been afterwards ascertained that the woman was not so violently assaulted as she swore to at the trial.

Judge Morgan on Saturday concluded the extradition proceedings in which Harry Garbott of Texas is particularly interested. A prima facie case of forgery was made out against the prisoner, who was known in the Lone Star State as James Huntley. Judge Morgan refused to accept the evidence, and ordered Garbutt's extradition pending an appeal to the higher court.

Alex. Lobban, the Humber Bay teamster who was thrown from his wagon, the wheels of which ran over him, died on Saturday from his injuries.

Cannibalism in the United States.

PINE CITY, Minn., July 20.—A fishing party from this city has just returned from the pine forests of Snake River and bring with them a wild woman and her 16-year-old daughter. The daughter tells a story of terrible suffering and privation. She says that the husband and father of the family was eaten by wolves while in an intoxicated condition last March. Since that time they have had no food in their humble cabin. The three younger children died of stravation and were cooked and eaten one by one by the mother and eldest daughter.

Cherries Followed by Shot.

GUELPH, July 20.—Thomas Garvin, aged 60, was brought to jail here charged with shooting William Byers of West Garafraxa on the 16th. He is the owner of a farm subject to a life lease, and on that day had some dispute about the cherries on the trees, and fired his shotgun at Byers, several of the shot hitting him. The prisoner's explanation is that he did not intend harm, but only to frighten him.

Scalded to Death.

WINNIPEG, July 20.—The three-year-old son of Mrs. Hogg, teacher, of Oak Lake, pulled a kettle of hot water over himself, receiving such injuries that he died soon afterwards.

A NEW HAVEN TRAGEDY REVIVED.

Jennie Cramer's Tragic Death Recalled by Her Mother's Suicide.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 19.—Interest in the story of beautiful Jennie Cramer whose body was found drifting with the tide at the Savin Rocks here ten years ago is revived through the suicide of the unfortunate girl's mother, who was found hanging from a rope over the doorsill of the old Cramer residence in Grand-avenue at 4.30 o'clock yesterday.

Of late years Mrs. Cramer has been living with her son, the only surviving member of the ill-fated family, at his home in Brooklyn. A few weeks ago she returned to New Haven, and since then has been living alone at the old home.

All the message that she left was this:

"Send for my son, E. Cramer, Postal Telegram Company, No. 185 Broadway, New York."

This was written on a piece of paper and tucked under the door of the death chamber.

Mrs. Cramer's premeditation as she set about the details of her own execution all alone in the house is shown by the fact that she carefully wrapped a cloth about her neck so that the rope would not disfigure the flesh. The rope was fastened to the top of a door screen.

To-night the tragedy of ten years ago is discussed with almost as much interest as it was at the time, and it is now thought that Jennie was not murdered, but that she killed herself. It will be remembered that Walter and James Malley, sons of the proprietor of the largest dry goods store in the state, in connection with Blanche Douglass, a notorious woman from New York, whom they had introduced to Jennie Cramer as their cousin, were charged with her murder. After a most sensational trial, lasting several months, the jury disagreed and the Malley boys escaped.

The last night that Jennie Cramer was seen alive she spent at the palace of the Malleys. Two hours after her father, who had been a prosperous merchant, unable to stand his grief, killed himself, and now Mrs. Cramer's death at her own hands gives publicity to the report that has long been talked of among the most intimate friends of the family, that the Malleys, while responsible for the girl's downfall, had nothing to do with her death.

The body was found at daybreak about 5 miles from the Malley house, where the prosecution claimed that Jennie had last been seen alive and had gone the last night of her life with the rich young Malleys and Blanche Douglass. In her stomach was found a grain of arsenic and the state claimed that in attempting to ruin the local beauty the accused had overdrugged her. The jury after months of trial failed to agree and the Malleys have never since been tried. Blanche Douglass has recently died, and Mrs. Cramer's suicide removes the last important witness of the famous case.

Mrs. Cramer has not been quite right in her mind for years. At the last interview between mother and daughter, the day before the latter's body was found, she chided the girl severely for her intimacy with the Malleys, and there is a firm belief among those who knew the family well that Mrs. Cramer's reproaches caused Jennie to take her own life.

A HARROWING DISASTER.

Women and Children Drown off the Newfoundland Coast.

HALIFAX, N. S., July 20.—The schooner Pubnico Belle has been wrecked and two women and five children lost. Capt. Samuel Butts of the lost vessel states that the Pubnico Belle, with a crew of four men, left Catalina on the morning of Wednesday, bound for St. Johns with a cargo of lumber. She had on board five women and five children as passengers. During the storm of Thursday morning the vessel foundered and these perished: Mrs. Freeman and infant child; Miss Caroline Higgins; three children of Mrs. Rachel Burton, aged 12, 9 and 5 respectively, and Alice Hicks, another child coming on to St. John. Mrs. Burton was rescued with two other passengers. All the crew succeeded in reaching land. It appears from the statements of the survivors that as soon as the vessel struck the cabin began to fill with water. The passengers went on deck taking the children with them, all the crew had reached shore excepting the captain. He commenced aiding the ladies to land. The captain tied a rope around Miss Burton and she was landed safely. While in the act of placing the rope around Mrs. Burton a heavy sea came and washed all off the deck. The captain, Mrs. Burton and Miss Melle were washed on the rocks, where they remained several hours before assistance came.

After the ladies got ashore two little boys could be seen in the rigging and their voices could be heard calling for help. The rope was repeatedly thrown to them, but each time fell short. Finally the little fellows were washed off and their voices were stilled in the sea.

Miss Julia Barton, one of the survivors, says she could see her brother Malcolm clinging to rigging and hear him calling for help. He was there a long time but at last the sea came and washed him off.

Mrs. Freeman, one of the lost, was the wife of William Freeman, now in Victoria, B. C. Mrs. Burton and her whole family was coming for the purpose of taking passage by the SS. Parties for New York where her husband is.

Capt. Butt stated that the crew looked after themselves and jumped ashore the first chance.

A BRAVE RESCUE.

How a Bostonian Was Saved From Drowning in Digby Gut.

HALIFAX, July 19.—One of the most daring and heroic deeds in Canadian annals occured in Digby gut last midnight. The steamer W. H. Weatherspoon was making for Digby with 150 excursionists abroad, having been on a moonlight excursion. Charles Goldsmith, of Boston, who was one of the excursionists, fell overboard. A terrible current sweeps through Digby gut and a fog prevailed. Only one man on board imagined that Goldsmith could be saved, and quick as a flash W. W. Clarke, formerly a brakeman on the Windsor and Annapolis railway, leaped overboard and swam towards the "black speck," which was fast being carried out towards the bay of Fundy. Clarke quickly got the Bostonian upon his back and both were hauled on board the steamer amid the wild hurrahs of the admiring spectators.

Count Mercier's Arrival.

QUEBEC, July 19—The steamship Parisian arrived at 2 o'clock yesterday bedecked with flags and firing rockets in honor of Mr. Mercier. The steamer proceeded straight to Point Levis, where she was joined by the steamship Vaga, having on board the Provincial ministers and a large number of Mercier's admirers. As Mr. Mercier appeared on the steamer's bridge hurrahs were given for him. Then a spell of hand-shaking followed. At 3 o'clock the Vega, having Mr. Mercier and his friends crossed the river to her wharf where some thousands of people had gathered to welcome the count. His appearance caused an outburst of acclamation.

Hon. Mr. Mercier left at 10 o'clock last night to join his family at St. Anne De La Perade.

The Whirlpool Victim Identified.

NIAGARA FALLS, July 20.—The body seen floating in the whirlpool during the forepart of last week and secured was that of Frederick Udell of this place, who had been missing since July 2. Mrs. Nellie Udell, a sister-in-law of the missing man, learned that a peculiar scarf pin was found on the body, and upon being shown a drawing of it at once recognized it as belonging to Udell. A tear in the pocket of the coat which had been mended by her, the underclothing, and the shoes were in turn identified. Mr. Amberg remembers selling Udell the same suit which was found on the body. The corpse will be disinterred to-day and will be viewed by the relatives.

Coaticook Excited.

MONTREAL, July 20.—Coaticook, in the county of Stanstead, is much exercised over a forgery case. For a long time the firm of Quevillon & Lamoureaux had been noted for the probity and business integrity of its partners, but the disappearance of Cyrille Lamoureux, jr., a most popular man put a new face on the whole concern. He had held positions of trust in the community and his downfall is deeply regretted. Lamoureux is accused of extensive forgeries. He decamped, but was followed to Montana and extradited.

READY TO DO BATTLE.

The Latest Condition of Affairs in Chili—Surrounding a Town.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A cablegram from Coquimbo, Chili, to the Herald says: This morning, to learn the exciting news that four of the insurgent fleet, viz., the formidable Esmeralda, the Cochrane, the Amazon and the Aconcogan, were outside Coquimbo Bay. They had stolen down under the cover of night from Huasco, a little over a hundred miles to the north of this port, where we have been given to understand the land forces of the congressional party have been massing for the past ten days or two weeks on the movement now being made on Balmaceda's territory. By the leaders of the Junta the insurgent vessels have evidently come prepared to do mischief and an attack is hourly expected. The insurgent plan seems to be to make a hot sea seige of Coquimbo and while the Balmacedists are all intent upon repelling the warships to have the army of the Junta advance upon town as quickly as possible. In this combined attack by land and sea they hope to force the government troops from this all important sea port. Intense excitement prevails here, the women and children are in a state of terror so, it may be added, are quite a number of the male residents. A great many persons are seeking safety in flight. Everybody expects the town to be stormed with shot and shell in very short order. The Balmacedist officers are alive to the seriousness of the situation. The streets are filled with soldiers. Every native who can carry fire arms, is being pressed into the government service. There will be no mimic warfare this time. The government authorities are awaiting with anxiety the arrival of Balmaceda's warships from Valparaiso. If they should show up in time they will be able to keep the insurgent vessels busy, and thus permit the troops of Balmaceda to go out and meet the approaching forces of the congressional party. I think that I shall be able to send you, in a short time, details of stubbornly fought naval and land battles."

"LE CANADA" EXPLAINS.

Mr. Dewdney and Mr. Haggart Aimed at by the French Journal.

OTTAWA, July 18.—Referring to its recent remarkable article on the demoralization in certain departments, Le Canada says the papers did not exactly understand what it meant when they held that it was inspired by Sir Hector Langevin, and that the departments aimed at were those of Mr. Dewdney and Mr. Chapleau. Our contemporary then declares once more that it is the organ of no party, faction or ministers, but frankly speaks out its own opinion without being influenced by any one. As regards Sir Hector Langevin, Le Canada admits that it does not believe in his guilt and says it will not believe it until conclusively proven, which is simple justice; but if Sir Hector Langevin is guilty of the charges laid against him, it will be among the first to condemn him. Le Canada then denies having referred to Mr. Chapleau when speaking of certain ministers who secured their position through unavowable means, since the battles and oratorical powers of the secretary of state entitled him to a position in the cabinet, and it then adds: The two ministers whom we have in view are Mr. Dewdney and Mr. Haggart. The first was imposed upon Sir John A. Macdonald, who afterwards imposed him upon his party. The second imposed himself upon his chief by threatening to secede from the conservative party, with Dewdney as one of the chiefs. The turn-about face of Mr. Haggart, well posted in electoral manipulations, would have been a constant source of danger for the party in power, and this is the secret of his success. This is the proceeding we mean when we say "unavowable means." Some people called that 'pushing one's self; others called it blackmail."

Another Man Gone Wrong.

CHICAGO, July 20.—William Luthstrohm, manager of the Carey-Lombard company, missing from home for more than a week, is supposed to be a defaulter to the extent of $10,000. He was last seen by his wife a week ago, Tuesday, at which time he told her that he had to make a business trip. The Saturday afternoon previous he left the office of the lumber company with $2,000 which he was going to deposit in the bank. Failing to appear by Tuesday enquiry as to his whereabouts developed the fact that Luthstrohm had left the city. A hasty examination of the books shows shortages amounting to over $10,000. Although a married man and the father of five children, Luthstrohm, when he left the city, was accompanied by a woman. It is known that the defaulter has been engaged in considerable speculation on 'Change of late yet the firm, of whose interests he was manager, had implicit confidence in his honesty. His wife and children are left destitute.

Everything Swallowed Up.

Special to the WHIG.

NEW YORK, July 20.—The report of receiver J. Edward Simmons, of the American Loan & Trust Co., will probably be filed with the supreme court in a few days and is expected to contain some interesting disclosures. One thing about this company that the books are expected to show is the thoroughly rotten condition in which president Rowland Hazard left the company. To the officers of the company and to president Hazard's friends large loans were given on the slightest security. The condition of affairs becoming known to some of the directors they demanded a change and in order to save themselves Hazard and his friends bought in their stock, using for this purpose money borrowed from the company by hocus pocus. It is said that in winding up its affairs the receiver will be able to pay the preferred creditors in full, but it is doubtful if the ordinary depositors get anything while the stockholders will have nothing from the wreck.

He is a Defaulter.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Benjamin R. Spellman, jr., recently cashier of Eleventh ward bank, Brooklyn, has disappeared, and an examination of his accounts showed that on leaving the bank he was short at least $90,000. On account of his intemperate habits he had been requested to resign, which he did May 30th. He then went to Albany and has now disappeared from that city. Spellman was born in Albany thirty-five years ago and he had lived there till four years ago. He had been connected with the First National bank, of Albany, and was its teller when an offer was made to him to go to Brooklyn. He was well known in Albany and was always popular.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Pleasure on the River St Lawrence.

KINGSTON, July 18.—(To the Editor): Leaving home and seeking pleasure resorts for the summer seem to be the order of the day and often the question is difficult to solve, where such resort is to be found and how to reach it. Again, many unable to go camping or enjoy sea breezes seek how to get the most pleasure for the least expense of time, etc. Being among this class I have concluded that for fresh air, beautiful scenery and the best of company commend me to Kingston and its vicinity, embracing the river St. Lawrence with its picturesque islands, which can only be enjoyed in all there beauty by a trip to Brockville or Ogdensburg. Learning that the new steamer Bon Voyage left the city three times a week for the burg I stepped on board, at 5:15 a.m., enjoyed the summer sunrise, took my way with many others to the hurricane deck where not only the scenery could be enjoyed, but the officers took pleasure in pointing out the places of interest. When I learned that James B. Estes was master I no longer wondered at the courteous treatment of all the crew as his name has been complied with all that is affable in steamboat circles. The steamer is kept neat, berths arranged in the most approved manner and catering all that could be desired. The purser, C. F. Hanchett, is making himself popular with all while the builder and general manager, R. T. Rogers, is on board seeking the comfort of the passengers, satisfied that his steamer is among the best upon the St. Lawrence for speed. Home is reached at 8:35 p. m.—A TRAVELLER.

The Boys of 1837.

LANSDOWNE, July 14.—(To the Editor): I have been deeply interested in the part taken by those trying to obtain something for the patriotic participants in the troubles during '37 and '38. You may be aware of the promises made by the governor that the soldiers of that time should receive a parcel of land or a pension for their loyalty and patriotism. I am one of those who volunteered service to my country at that time. I am not a "pension hunter," as a Kingston paper called the vets, but only claim my rights, as a faithful subject, to whatever may be the rewards of patriotism. I enlisted under Capt. James Fraser at Fredericksburg, in November, 1837. The company left Napanee the same year and was discharged in May, 1838. Archie McNeil was first lieutenant and was succeeded by Paul Wright. Our adjutant was named Bates. I am an old subscriber to the WHIG and shall watch the pensioners' column with redoubled interest.—ALEXANDER MCNEIL.

More of Them.

C. A. Charles, Sheldon, Iowa, was one of the Lower Canadian volunteers of '38, serving under Capt. Reid, with quarters at Huntingdon, under Colonel Campbell. James Roberts, Haliburton, writes: "I enclose you one dollar for WHIG. I must have it, no matter what it costs. I am one of the old veterans of 1837-38. Enlisted the time of the Windmill battle and I admire your paper for standing out for us volunteers."

Truth in the Letter.

KINGSTON, July 18.—(To the Editor): Can you, or any of your readers, inform those interested as to where on the lake shore, within the city limits, boys may learn to swim? It is very desirable they should do so, but it seems no opportunity or encouragement is given them in this direction. Can the council do anything, and are the friends of education helpless? The present state of things is not satisfactory to the boys nor creditable to the city.—PATER.

SUNBURY SIGNALS.

Important Items Made Public And Carefully Condensed For Our Readers.

SUNBURY, July 20.—Farmers through with their hay crop and report a favorable yield. The Salvation meetings are fairly well attended. Capt. Tiner and Lieut. Boiler, lady officers, are in charge of the corps. They are well suited to their calling. On Wednesday evening the "Musical Musketeers" gave a concert in the barracks. A large crowd gathered and were interested throughout the meeting.

The proceeds of the lawn social, held on Thursday near the residence of G. Waldron, will be used to purchase a suitable library for the Presbyterian Sabbath school much needed. Mrs. I. Alien, visiting friends in this vicinity for some time, returned last week to Mississippi station where her husband resides. A working committee has lately been formed in connection with improvements to be made as soon as convenient to the surroundings of the Methodist church. A favorable change is awaited in connection with the property by the many members.

Some forty boxes of cheese were shipped from Sunbury factory on Saturday; price, 8½c. per lb. C. Smith, jr., accompanied by Miss M. Spooner, arrived from Chicago last week. Pugilistic encounters are becoming frequent occurrences and, in the future, should not be tolerated by the citizens. It seems to come natural for rowdies to create disturbances after religious gatherings.
