to the marked establishment, and when Smeaton and his companion appeared, and ascended the stair I followed, and ensconced up the recess. They were not long gone. We heard the alarm, and some shouting and struggling, and soon saw Smeaton come scrambling out at the window on the roof by which he had entered, and come flying along the slates towards the hatch. As he got close my head popped out in front of him, and he started—staggered back with an oath—lost his footing, and w nished over the edge of the roof. He v as picked up on the pavement below, very much injured and quite senseless, and borne on a shutter to the Infirmary, while his captured companion was marched over to the Office and locked up. Dinah, in ferocious joy over Smeaton's accident, got drunk and abusive, and was taken to the cells next day. Smeaton remained for the most part unconscious during two days and nights. Towards the close of the second day a cab drove up to the Infirmary gate, and out of it stepped a young girl, so pale and feeble that every one thought it was a patient instead of a visitor who had arrived. It was Jessie Amers, who had risen from bed and taken that long journey the moment she heard of the accident. She was helped into the ward, and sat there with Smeaton's hand in her own till evening, when he opened his eye for a moment and hazily recognised her.

"Oh, Jessie, I'll never rise off this bed," he feebly exclaimed; and then, as her warm tears rained down on his cheeks, and her lips were pressed to his own, he said, "Dinna! dinna dae that! I dinna deserve it. Pray for me, Jessie, nae; it's a. I can ask o' ye now."

A screen had been put up round the bed, shutting them off from the gaze of the other patients; and inside that the nurses glanced occasionally. They remained there, whispering and communing till Smeaton relapsed again. Towards morning there was a cry, loud and piercing, behind the screen, but the night nurse was out of the ward at the moment. When she appeared one of the patients spoke of the cry, and the nurse looked in on the pair. Jessie lay across the bed, with her arms clasped tight about the patient, and her face hid in his bosom. Smeaton's face was marble like, his eyes half open and fixed. The nurse knew that look at a glance, and called to her companion that Smeaton was dead, and she feared that the young girl had fainted. Gently they tried to disengage the clasping fingers, that they might raise her and restore her to consciousness, but the deathly coldness of the thin hand caused them both to start back and exchange a look of inquiry and alarm. They bent over her, they listened, all was still—still as the grave, still as eternity. Jessie was dead.

PAIN-KILLER.—The testimonials borne to the efficacy of this valuable medicine are sufficient to warrant its introduction into every house. Our own opinion is that no family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour. In flesh wounds, aches, pains, sores, &c., it is the most effectual remedy we know of. A bottle will last a very long time, and its low price places it within the reach of all.—News, St. Johns, C. E.

BOSTON SOCIETY.

The Nonsense that Encounters at the Hub—Frivolities of the Fashionable Young Dudes.

If the German narrow's society in a dancing hall, still more can the absence of introductions diminish our social pleasures, for it would be foolish to suppose that Boston is yet old enough to enable one to speak to another in a friend's drawing-room without being present. A mild amusing instance of the consequence of such boorishness was a scene between an elderly and a middle-aged lady in a crowded supper-room on Bacon street. The younger one had eaten her salad and ices in unbroken silence; so had the elderly woman. As coffee was still to be handed round, the first ventured to remark that, as the room was very hot, the ice was refreshing.

"Yes," was the long drawn reply, coupled with the words, "Have I met you before?"

"No," was the amused answer; "perhaps we may never meet again, but I fancied we might speak to each other now."

"Yes. I am Mrs. B., of D avenue. And you?"

"I am Miss W., of X street."

"Ah, indeed! The ice is cooling." And the elder lady, having satisfied herself that the person had a name she had known, slowly drifted into a conversation which was more congealing than the ice.

Many of our elderly young men decline an introduction, as they "already have such an extensive circle." One such individual was asked to be presented to a lady who was sitting alone. He eyed her back and front and declined. He returned in half an hour saying:

"I'll be introduced to her now. I see several of the men have been talking to her. Her profile is not bad."

"No," replied the lady. "When I asked you because she was my friend, you declined. Now I decline to present you."

One of Boston's oldest families gave a reception. Two scores of other families attended, to whom the host said:

"I'll introduce you to those ladies opposite," and they moved towards them.

"Excuse us," said one of them; "the ladies are of a pleasant style of beauty; it is hardly worth while."

The host bowed in recognition of their farseeing power, adding:

"Yes, they are my nieces from the country, but I will not trouble you."

No apology would be received, though eagerly offered. The old gentleman was right. He wished to vindicate the honor of his house.

No one has the right to expect even the most general hospitality unless he accedes to reasonable demands; but we are in mortal terror lest a young man may not come again, and we allow him to do as he pleases, which means to seek the attractive girls. Then, as every woman has a host of friends who are only delightful when known she is obliged to seem unaware of their value, because so many men decline introductions. The society phrase is, "I think you." I see so many here whom I know that I will not trouble you;" and if the hostess persists, then is added, "Thanks. I will speak to Miss —— and then come back." Woe to the hostess if her persistency continues, for she will have to go after the young man; he will never come back.

YARKER NOTES.

Harvesting is now mostly over, excepting that of late oats and Spring wheat. Most of the crops have been saved in good condition. The threshing machines are busy. Steamers and horse power go on circuit, giving employment to several men.

E. W. Benjamin's drive has, after four or five months' voyage, arrived. It is now passing over the Falls. The water is low, but by damming up and shutting off the supply from the factories. The logs will be cut into lumber at Wartman's mill. The tres will be taken out above the Falls and drawn to the track of the N.T. & Q. RR.

It is very instructing to witness the astonishing effects of nature's medicine, viz. medical electricity. When science goes hand in hand with the physician most wonderful results manifested. Rheumatisms of many years standing leap for joy, and throw away their crutches; neuralgia, the bane of many a happy home, flies like smoke before the wind; nervousness, of every kind, debility of the worst description, the hydra headed monster that fills many of our graves, is immediately relieved and permanently cured by the help of the scientific discovery—Norman's Electric Belts, Bands, and Insoles. Mr. Norman has perfected his belts, till now they are peers of the whole 'nut of known remedial agents. W. J. Wilson, "The Pharmacy," 181 Princess Street, is agent in Kingston, he will be pleased to show testimonials from several in the city and vicinity to those who wish further proof of their efficacy.

Don't buy

Worthless remedies. Don't waste your money, but look into the claims of Fowler's Nervoline as the best, quickest, cheapest, and surest remedy for all kinds of pain. It only costs 10 cents. Even if no good you cannot be a great loser, as 1 a. 10 cent trial bottle will convince you at once that you never have used anything so good. Nervoline cures vomiting, cholera, dysentery, cramps, neuralgia, headache, and the host of distressing complaints arising from nerve pains. Don't wait, but go to King's drug store and get a 10 or 25 cent bottle of Nervoline—Folsom's Nervoline.

Prof. Squire's Acid Phosphates is popular beverage and is useful at the same time for the stomach and nervous systems. It braces and invigorates the nerves, tones the stomach and is very good to any that are troubled with kidney troubles. Sold by W. J. Wilson, at the Pharmacy.

Do not delay, if suffering any form of Bowel Complaints, however mild apparently may be the attack, but use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. It is old reliable cure for all forms of Summer Complaints that require prompt treatment. Ask your druggist and all dealers in patent medicines.

There is no preparation before the people to-day that commands their confidence more, or meets with a better sale than does Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for all forms of Summer Complaints.

"Leaves have their time to fall," says the poet, but Wild Strawberry leaves are in the time just now, being utilized in such enormous quantities in making Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for Cholera Morbus, diarrhoea and other Summer Complaints.

Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters are not an Alcoholic Stimulant, but a purely Vegetable Medicine, Carminative and Tonic in the action and invaluable in all affections of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

TOPNODDY AGAIN.

A Man Full of Snubs and Compliments—Appearances are Sometimes Deceitful.

When Tom Topnoddy came home to tea on Thursday evening he found his wife in a new calico dress and looking quite tidy.

"Aha, my fair one," he said gallantly, "you look charming."

"How?" said she, looking at him closely.

"You look charming, my dear."

"Been drinking again, have you?"

"No, my dear, but you do make a fine appearance this evening, and if there is one thing I admire more than another it is a handsome, well-dressed woman."

"In a five-cent calico, yes. I suppose if you had paid $5 a yard for this you wouldn't be so complimentary. That's men's way."

"But, love, a dress needn't cost much money to be becoming, and that one makes you really pretty. A friend to-day down street was complimenting you on your good looks."

"Is that so? Was he after you for a subscription of some sort?"

"No, my dear, it was a case of spontaneous admiration."

"And I received a compliment for you also."

"No?" he said, with an enquiring smile and a smoothing out of his face.

"Yes; a lady told me she thought you were such a good man, and that when she looked in your face she could see in it evidence of a kindly spirit, a good heart, a generous nature, a manly courage, a noble soul and all the other evidences of a model husband."

"Ah, my dear," and Mr. Topnoddy's face was one of broad expansion of self satisfied smile, "that was delightful to you, wasn't it? And what did you say?"

"Oh, nothing much."

"But, my dear, you should at least have thanked her."

"Well, I did thank her.

"Nothing else?"

"Yes; I told her that appearances were always deceitful, and that it wasn't a good thing to judge of a last year's corpse by the fragrant flowers on the grave.

Topnoddy ceased smiling.

ORDER OF FORESTERS.

Dr. Oronyhatekha, Supreme Chief Ranger, instituted at Deseronto last evening Court Deseronto, No. 93, Independent Order of Foresters, with the following officers:

A. Loft—Treasurer.

MOSCOW JOTTINGS.

A harvest dinner was held on Wednesday under the auspices of the Canadian Methodist Church. The object was to raise money for circuit expenses. The text from Nazareth was brought here and erected for the occasion, and it proved satisfactory, especially as the weather was very damp from occasional showers. The day was very disagreeable, but there were present between 200 and 300. A grand dinner was prepared by the ladies. Addresses were given by Rev. Mr. Leach, of Odessa, and Revs. Messrs. Davies and Drew. Singing and music were furnished by the Yarker choir. All were well pleased with the day's entertainment. Proceeds of the day about $50.

AN EXCELLENT OPPORTUNITY.

For those in need of order clothing having ordered largely for the Fall trade I have decided to sell Summer suits, "made to order," at the following prices: $15 tweed suits reduced to $13; $18 Scotch tweed suit reduced to $16. All other Summer material reduced in proportion. Those in need of the above will save money by calling on S. Provost, New York Clothing Shops.

Nothing Hurts on Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Friends, cheap, poisonous and dangerous substitutes are in the market. Beware of them. Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

Wise People

Are always ready to accept a suggestion, especially one that is likely to minister to their comfort and hap piness. The same Nervoline—nerve pain cure—is a suggestion in itself, but a further and more important one is in pointing out that a trial test bottle can be bought at King's drug store for 10 cents. Nervoline is a most wonderful remedy, for it works so quickly, banishing the most excruciating pain as a few minutes. Polson's Nervoline, in large bottles, 25 cents. Trial bottles, 10 cents—sold by all druggists.

If you are broken down in constitution and wasting away by sickness, dissipation, too great nervous tension, or suffer from any chronic disease, do not abandon hope until you have tried Burdock Blood Bitters. What it is doing daily towards restoring others, it might do for you.

BE ADVISED IN TIME, and do not allow what may appear to you as a simple bowel ache now, to run into a disease of the kidneys, which invariably proves fatal in the end. Dr. Van Buren's Kidney Cure will at once ease your pain and positively prevent those unfortunate results. Take it at once. Any druggist will have it.

Sanson lost his strength with his hair. Thousands of men and women lose their beauty with theirs, and very large numbers restore the ravages of time by using the famous Cingalese Hair Restorer. Sold at 50 cents per bottle by all druggists.

In Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters will be found a Specific for Biliousness, Dyspepsia and Indigestion. You are foolish, if you suffer, not to try it. For sale by all Druggists.

Smart Weed and Balmonia combined with the other ingredients used in the best porous plasters make Carter's S. W. & B. Durable Plasters the best in the market. Price 25 cents.

If you are troubled with a disordered Stomach, Dr. Carson's Bitters will afford prompt relief. It is the best Family Medicine, as Superior to Pills. All Druggists sell it.

Reader, if you suffer from any disorder of the Liver, Stomach, Bowels, Kidneys, Skin, or Blood, try Burdock Blood Bitters. Nature's specific medicine for acting on these organs for the relief of disease. 50,000 bottles sold in the last three months.
