Balfour Cancels All Engagements

Daily Express Says British Statesman Suffers From Heart Trouble

NOTABLE CAREER

Earl is Also Known for Publications on Philosophy Theology

London.—The Daily Express says that Lord Balfour, Lord President of the Council, former Prime Minister and one of the oustanding British statesmen of the present generation, is suffering from heart trouble and has cancelled all his engagements. He has been ill for some time. In January he suffered a severe attack of laryngitis.

Arthur James Balfour, first Earl of that title, and Viscount Traprain of Whittingeham, has been prominent in British governmental affairs for more than 40 years.

Starting as private secretary to the Marquis of Salisbury when that peer was Foreign Minister in 1878, Balfour went ahead steadily and became Unionist Leader of the House of Commons and First Lord of the Treasury in 1891. He was Prime Minister 1902-1905. During the World War he was First Lord of the Admiralty up to 1916 and Foreign Secretary until 1919. He headed the British mission to America in 1917 and also the British mission to the Washington conference in 1921.

His publications have touched not only the political and economic questions with which he has dealt as a government official, but also have gone into the realm of philosophy and theology.

One of his outstanding work was "The foundations of Belief, being Notes Introductory to the Study of Theology." This was issued in 1895 and was put in popular form in 1901. He holds honorary degrees from all the principal universities of Great Britain and Ireland, and also an LL.D. granted by Columbia University in 1917.

There is no limit to purchasing ability if only the right machinery s put into the hands of labor to produce the right goods, for, let it again be said, labor consumes what labor produces."

The BABY

Why do so many, many babies of today escape all the little fretful spells and infantile ailments that used to worry mothers through the day, and keep them uphalf the night?

If you don't know the answer, you haven't discovered pure, harmless Castoria. It is sweet to the taste, and sweet in the little stomach. And its gentle influence seems felt all through the tiny system. Not even a distasteful dose of castor oil does so much good.

Fletcher's Castoria is purely vegetable, so you may give it freely, at first sign of colic; or constipation; or diarrhea. Or those many times when you just don't know what is the matter. For real sickness, call the doctor, always. At other times, a few drops of Fletcher's Castoria.

The doctor often tells you to do just that; and always says Fletcher's. Other preparations may be just as pure, just as free from dangerous drugs, but why experiment? Besides, the book on care and feeding of babies that comes with Fletcher's Catstoria is worth its weight in gold!

Napoleonic Soldier's Kin Seek Office as Deputies

The days when Napoleon was the object of hero worship are recalled by the candidacy for seats in the next Chamber of Deputies of two men of the name of Chauvin. Both are said to be descendants of the soldier of the "Grande Armee" Nicholas Chauvin, whose ardent affection for the Emperor made his name a symbol for all that is patriotic to an excessive degree.

For a Coconut Caramel Pie

Meringue.

In a frying pan, caramelize ½ cupful of sugar, being careful not to burn it. The sugar will form a ball, when stirred, and do other odd things that mystify the amateur, but it is all right; keep on stirring until there is a liquid almost ready to burn, then pour in, very slowly, 2 cupfuls scalded milk. With the addition of the liquid the mixture will suddenly rise in steam, so be ready for it. When the milk is hot, turn off the fire. Sift together 1½ cupfuls of sugar, 3 tablespoonfuls of flour and 1/8 teaspoonful of salt. Mix it to a smooth paste with some of the hot milk, then turn it back into the rest of the milk and cook it over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture is thick and smooth. Pour it over the well-beaten yolks of 4 eggs, cook a minute, then add 1 teaspoonful of vanilla and 1 cupful of grated coconut. Pour it into a baked pie shell, add meringue and brown as usual.

For a thick meringue for one pie, beat until stiff the whites of 2 eggs and add 4 teaspoonfuls of sugar, beating constantly; never stir meringue. Pile it lightly on top of the pie when that surface has cooled slightly, and bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven (325 degrees F.), when it will be cooked through and golden-brown on top.

Perfect meringue can never be baked in a hot oven, because that does not give the egg-white time to rise gradually to its possible height; a meringue baked too fast is thin and leathery. If the oven is not hot enough or the pie is removed before the meringue is cooked, the egg-whites become watery again and the meringue falls.

Some experts add flavoring to their meringues. Others mix with the sugar ¼ of a teaspoonful of baking powder, and still others add ½ of a teaspoonful of cornstarch instead; the baking powder insures a rising of the mixture, and the cornstarch, its staying up.

Concerning the Nature of Rewards

Pauline Herr Thomas

"Will someone please tell me why it is that the things that are least healthful or beneficial for our children are generally the things they want the most?" demanded Mrs. Johns o the other mothers over the teacups.

"Well," said Mrs. Moore, "perhaps its just human nature to want what we can't have."

"Oh, it's just perverseness, that's all," said Mrs. Hunt, rather heatedly. "They know they can tantalize. Billy is always tormenting me for something he couldn't have."

"You know," said Mrs. Sheldon, thoughtfully, "I believe that this very thing which is so commonly characteristic of our children—to say nothing of ourselves—is our own fault to a great extent."

"I can't see that," said Mrs. Hunt, "Aren't we always trying to instill knowledge of what is best and what is not? Unless you mean it is our constant talking about the forbidden thing that keeps them reminded of it."

"Yes, that is abvious," said Mrs. Sheldon, "but I think there is another reason which escapes most of us. We say to Mary, 'Now if you eat that soup, you may have this cake,' or to Billy, 'If you don't go to bed this minute. you may not stay up late Saturday evening.' By such tactics we give to the less healthful cake or the less beneficial late hours the role of reward. It becomes at once the coveted thing."

"Oh, yes," answered Mrs. Hunt, "but what good will it do to say to Mary, 'If you eat your soup, you may have a nice dish of spinach'? That wouldn't be any inducement."

"Of course not. I admit that cake tastes better, and our tastes are fickle, always rejecting the old when something more palatable can be had; but one of the reasons why cake is more of an inducement is that it has always been used for one.

"My little Jeanne is a wonder to everyone because she will play in a room where candy is uncovered and within reach and seldom think of asking for a piece, much less helping herself. She has never had one piece as a reward for good behavior. She eats it when it is passed at table or elsewhere, as the case may be. It has never been presented to her as anything but something to eat.

"She is also a source of considerable admiration to my friends because she 'goes to bed so nicely'. Never has she been allowed to remain up late as a reward for good conduct. She goes early regularly, unless some unusual occasion makes it necessary for her to stay up somewhat later.

"You'll say, perhaps, 'She is an unusual child,' but I insist that she is not, for she misbehaves like any other child, at times.

"Spinach, as you say, seems ridiculous to us as a reward. Nevertheless, I am sure that if parents would cease to surround the less healthful and beneficial things with the atmosphere of reward, and not withhold only such things by way of punishment, they would, in turn, cease to be the most coveted by the children."

We were all thoughtful—at least for the rest of that cup of tea.

Once a mother has used them for her children she will use nothing else. Concerning them Mrs. Charles Hutt, Tancock Island, N.S., writes:—"I have ten children, the baby being just six months old. I have used Baby's Own Tablets for them for the past 20 years and can truthfully say that I know of no better medicine for little ones. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all other mothers to do so."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be mailed upon receipt of price, 25 cents per box, by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Where the Shoe Pinched.

The Strong Man from Norway was booked on the Orpheum Circuit. His specialty was breaking paving stones with a sledge-hammer on his wife's head. It was a wow, as we used to say in the old country. Suddenly his bookings were switched. They put him on the small time, where he had to do four and five shows a day.

He did it for several weeks, then canceled his contract. "What's the matter-" they asked him. "Is your wife getting headaches?"

"Oh, no, it isn't that," apologized the Strong Man, "but I'm afraid she's getting fallen arches."

The Peacemaker

BrisbaneCourier: It would be the greatest tragedy of all history if the British Navy were weakened at the instance of those dreamers who imagine that the League could save us in the day of international upheaval. So long as the world is at peace the League may do very effective work as a philosophy; when some bellicose nation decides upon resorting to war as a final arbiter the League is useless, and depends wholly for its success upon the half dozen great Powers of the world that can use enough influence to preserve peace. That is the role that Britain has played for years.

Man Who Smoked in Car With His Wife is Fined

London — A chivalrous stranger drew the attention of the man who was puffing a pipe in a non-smoking car on a suburban railroad to the fact in the opposite corner was a woman with a baby.

The woman with the boby said nothing. Nor did the man with the pipe. He went on smoking. So at the next station the chivalrous stranger complained to railroad officials.

"I then found that the silent woman I was championing was his wife," he testified in court when the stubborn smoker was fined $5.

Paris Traffic Injuries 340 Policemen in Year

Paris.—A Paris traffic policeman is no risk for the accident insurance companies at all. According to a recent statement of M. Sarrault, Minister of the Interior, the maelstrom of darting taxis, automobiles and cyclists in the French capital places 340 of M. Criappe's traffic regulators on the injured list during the last year. And vehicles are increasing monthly.

Another indication that Paris policemen are no more to be envied than those of New York is given with the report that 537 policemen were wounded trying to maintain peace and order and four were killed.

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Coniston, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was almost frantic with pains and suffering until I thought sure there could not be any help for me. I had very severe pains in my left side and suffered agony every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother begged me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me completely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAJEUNESSE, Box 103, Coniston, Ontario. G
