OWL LAFFS

BY O.W.L.

(ON WITH LAUGHTER)

A sick calf acts that way anyhow, but a man only when he is in love.

There are more opportunities today than there are men capable of grasping them.

She's old enough to be called "Miss" if she no longer prefers sitting on the floor to put on her stockings.

THE CORRESPONDENT'S PLEA

If we could write the things we feel,
Could make imagination real—
If pencil, paper, pen and ink
Had but the gift to make us think.
We'd shed our studied attitudes,
Inane remarks and platitudes,
And write our missives just as though
They went to people whom we know.

We'd scorn such terms as "even date"
And "in reply we beg to state,"
"Regarding" would not be "in re,"
Our meanings would be plain as day.
"Yours truly" we would not "remain",
From stilted phrases we'd refrain—
How vivid would our letters be
In simple phraseology!
No "15th inst." or "30th ult,"
Our readers' sense would insult;
From floral bombast like "esteemed"
Our sentences would be redeemed.
In homely words and simple style
We'd write each letter with a smile—
Oh! What a difference—goodness knows,
If we could write plain English prose!

DOINGS OF THE NAMES CLUB

There's nothing in a name, as A. Boss, who was married last week, will soon find out.

Ida L. Shortness was granted a divorce from John Shortness—which indicates the shortness of married life.

Dave Tubbs and Rosa Bowles were married last week. Now that she's got Tubbs she'll probably want a washboard.

Now go on with the story: And there was the Scotchman who wouldn't wear sox because they put too much strain on his garters.

Pity one couldn't know he's got enough until he's got too much.

Cute in a Baby—Awful at Three—and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constiuation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

Dancing Now in Revue Song

London Hit Tells About Girl Who Had Prince for a Partner Twice Removed

London—The Prince of Wales can and often does enjoy a joke at his own expense. A humorous allusion to his many achievements, whether on the hunting field, at golf, or at the dance, is sure of a ready laugh from him, and no resentment.

Such an allusion is most likely to be made on the stage, and it is the duty of the Lord Chamberlain, the censor of plays, to see that it is within the bounds of propriety. Of course, if the Prince himself says he does not object, there is an end to the matter; and he has raised no objection to his name being mentioned in a song which is one of the hits of a revue now running in London.

As Americans know, the heir to the British throne is found of dancing and that he is catholic in his choice of partners. When he patronizes a dance, whether it be a patrician or a plebian affair, he does not just "look in," make one or two gracious bows and then execute a quick getaway. He goes to dance, and he does.

He has patronized many dances organized by the proletariat in the cause of charity, has entered thoroughly into the spirit of them, and has made glad the heart of many a girl belonging to the humble classes by selecting her as his partner. The fact that he is a "good mixer" and can enjoy himself in any company is responsible largely for his great popularity.

The chorus of the revue song in question, as sung by Miss Mimi Crawford, runs as follows:

I've danced with a man who's danced with a girl
Who's danced with the Prince of Wales;
I'm crazy with excitement—completely off the rails;
When he told me what she told him
The Prince remarked to her,
It was simply grand!
He said, "Topping band,"
And she said, "Delightful, sir."
Glory, glory, Hallelujah.
I'm the luckiest of females,
For I've danced with a man who's danced with a girl
Who's danced with the Prince of Wales.

The revue is called "Many Happy Returns," and it contains many sly thrusts at men and women who are for the moment prominent in the public eye. Some of these thrusts, it is understood, were regarded by the Lord Chamberlain as a trifle too personal, so they were either cut out or toned down.

The revue was first produced privately at the Arts Theatre. Being a private performance, the Lord Chamberlain had no authority to exercise his blue pencil. It was thought, however, that the Prince should be asked if he abjected to the song inquestion, and he replied, through one of his secretaries, that he did not.

I'm somewhat of a talker myself.—William Sulzer.

HOW DELICATE GIRLS ARE MADE STRONG

Rich, Red Blood Needed to Keep Up Their Vitality.

It should be borne in mind that pale, bloodless girls need plenty of nourishment, plenty of sleep and regular out-of-door exercise. But a lack of appetite and tired, aching limbs tend to hinder progress. To save the weak, thin-blooded sufferer, she must have new, rich blood, and nothing meets a case of this kind so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills not only enrich and increase the blood supply, they help the appetite and aid digestion, relieve the weary back and limbs, thus bringing new health and strength and transforming anaemic girls and women into cheerful, happy people.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of anaemic girls is proved by the case of Miss Lucy Stoddart, Margaretville, N.S., who says: "From the age of 12 to 15, I was in an anaemic condition. I was very thin and nervous, had no appetite and had no desire to take part in the doings of those of my age. My mother got tonic after tonic for me, but they did me very little good. Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were recommended and almost from the first they seemed to be just what was needed to restore my strength. After taking the pills for a time I felt an altogether different girl. I got up in the morning feeling bright and active, and ready for work or play. Since then I have always taken a couple of boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the spring as a tonic and have thus kept in the best of condition."

Every weak girl should promptly follow the example of Miss Stoddart, feeling sure that the pills will renew her health. You can get the pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The King Collects His Rent

At the beginning of the week, on the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo, the Duke of Wellington went to Windsor Castle to present to the King the banner by which he pays his rent for the estate of Stratfieldsaye. This estate was granted to the "Iron Duke" who won Waterloo, and his descendants in perpetuity, on the quaint condition that the holder of the ducal title should present to the sovereign on each anniversary of the battle a banner which has taken the form of a miniature Napoleonic eagle standard.

Quitrents of this kind are not uncommon survivals of other times. The Duke of Atholl holds part of his lands on condition that he presents a white rose to the sovereign when honored by a royal visit. Red roses have been given to the King by the owner of a house in Buckinghamshire when the monarch passes that way and the owner of estates near Aylesbury is under obligation in similar circumstances to furnish straw for the royal bed.

If part of the proceeding is that his Majesty should sleep upon straw, it seems unlikely that he wil ever collect this quit rent.

Sandino Flays U.S. "Crime"

Note From Rebel Chief Thanking Americans for Medical Supplies Received

Tells of "Extermination"

A grimy, weary rider on a mule, fighting jungle beasts and suffering from tropical diseases, has succeeded in piercing the lines of the American marines to General Augustino Sandino with the first shipment of medical supplies, bought with American funds and has returned with a letter from the leader of the Nicaraguan rebels denouncing "the systematic extermination of a deenseless people by a country that is not officially at war," according to the headquarters of the All-American Anti-Imperialist League, 39Square. A copy of the purported letter was given to the press.

The shipment of medical supplies was sent from New York in the early part of March, in answer to a plea from General Sandino that "for want of bandages and medicines my wounded are dying like dogs on the road." When the consignmet reached Froylan Turcios, personal representative of Genearl Sandio at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, a call was made for a volunteer to take it to Sandino, accordingto the story by Harry Gannes, Secretary of the Anti-Imperialist League in New York. Dr. Gustave Machado was accepted, Mr. Gannes said.

General Sandino in his purported letter assails the "policies of aggression" of the Washington Government.

The letter reads as follows:

Sirs—Members of the United States Section of the All-America Anti-Imperialistic League, 39 Union. Square, Room. 40, New York City:

"I am glad to inform you that I have received from the hands of Dr. Gustave Machado(who came to our encampment as a representative of the Central Committee of the Hands-Off-Nicaragua Association) a package containing cotton, bandages and other medicines to cure the wounds of our soldiers.

"We are especially delighted that you, honest North Americans, manfest in this manner your protest and disapproval of the policies of aggression that the existing Government of United States is carrying on in Nicaragua.

"We know that the majority of the North American people is not directly responsible for the ferocious crimes that the marines commit every day in our country. Even to us came notice of the news of the meetings and public manifestations against the sending the marines to Nicaragua. We well know the situation of the working classin your country, also victims of the appression of the exploiters, exploited by the same interests that are now fighting to enslave the ptople of Latin America.

"But it is our conviction that if all the citizens would make heard their voice of protest, the opinion of the majority would be carried out, the opinion against the criminal plans of the Washington Government.

"We want to transmit through your army of liberation of Nicaragua to the anti-imperialist fighters of the United States for the sending of medicines,asking them at the same time that they should make known our opinion of the systematic extermination of a defenceless people by a country that is not officially at war, in violation of the Constituion of he Unied States.

"With cordial greetings, I am yours for country and liberty.

"A. C. SANDINO.

(Seal) "Patria y Libertad."

Encouraged by the success of their first shipment, the All-America Anti-Imperialistic League announced that it is planning to send more medicinal supplies to General Sandino as soon as possible.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS THE HOME DOCTOR

Baby's Own Tablets meet all the need that exists in every home where there are young children. They are a laxative, but do not gripe. They are soothing, but do not contain one particle of opiate or other ingredient that can in any way do the slightest harm to the most delicate child.

Strong Man Ties Traffic

Lionel B. Morrett, of Sydney, Australia, who prefers to be known as "Little Samson," the world's strongest small man," weighs 107 pounds and stands four feet ten inches in his riding boots. At Forty-eventh Street and Broadway, in New York, at noon recently, he allowed two truck horses, attached to him by chafns, to pull East and West. For some seven minutes the horses, responding to the proddings of attendants, struggled vainly to gallop in opposite directions. Several thousand persons watched and traffic was suspended.

When the stunt was over and "Little Samson" had been duly photographed and congratulated, he made a short speech to the assembled Times Square habitues to the effect that he soon would be seen performing in vaudeville at the regular rates. "Little Samson" is 26 years old. He atatributes his strength to a balanced diet. "I eat when I'm hungry, but I eat the right things," he said mysteriously.

Education and the Bible

Martin Brack in the Leeds Yorkshire Post (Cons.): Much is written and spoken about education; hardly a newspaper is printed that does not contain some reference to the subject. Yet these thoughts of God and of man's life, with which the Bible is inspired throughout, are the very ones which are omitted from present-day education, or relegated to a minor position in it. As to adult education, its sources seem to be the daily Press, a few weekly and monthly magazines, and a multitude of novels. Some further fodder for the minds of both young and old is provided by the cinema. But what place does the Bible take?

Prince of Wales Now 34, Passes Birthday Quietly

London.—Britain, on June 23rd, wished the Prince of Wales many happy returns on the occasion of his thirty-fourth birthday, but, in accordance with custom, there was no public celebration. The Pince himself passed a quiet week end at Sunningdale, bettering his golf.

He closed his year with a short speech to students of the London School of Economics, gathered in a chilly wind on the new school building's roof, which later all were glad to leave for a dance inside. There he remarked to friends:

"I say, it was jolly cold up there." He danced with a number of the girl students, making his own choice of partners. Afterward the students gave him a carved oaken model of the school's crest. This was the only birthday present he would accept, having recently turned down a valuable gift with the words, "I'm too old for birthday presents."

As another year has ticked off without altering the celibate state of the Prince, the usual question, "Will he ever marry?" is being asked, but as usual he gives no sign which may be taken as an answer.

"Many a girl has discovered that she can't vote on her twenty-first birthday unless it happens to be election day."
