Burying A Town

The Municipal World recently contained the following article, which one of our village fathers has handed us for publication.

A town that never has anything to do in a public way is on the way to the cemetery. Any citizen who will do nothing for his town is helping to dig the grave. A man that curses the town furnishes the coffin. The man who is too selfish to have no time from his business to give to civic affairs is making the shroud. The man who will not advertise is driving the hearse. The man who is always pulling back from any public enterprise throws bouquets in the grave. The man who is so stingy as to be howling at hard times, preaches the sermon, sings the doxology and thus the town lies buried from all sorrow and care.
