King George's Religion

Mr. P. W. Wilson, writing in the New York Herald, says:-

That King George was well brought up goes without saying. Archbishops baptised him, confirmed him, married him, anointed him. Of course he goes to church. Of course he risks his life by standing bareheaded before the cenotaph in Whitehall. As a mark of consideration for the many millions of his Roman Catholic subjects. He has been received in audience by the Pope. With Queen Mary he is not less attentive to the Salvation Army.

How can a King be sincere when his faith is imposed upon him? By his accession oath, King George has solemnly to swear that he is a "faithful Protestant," and until he swears, he does not receive the crown. Indeed the law does not end there. Separated by the river Tweed, England and Scotland have each an established Church. The law requires that north of the Tweed the King be officially a Presbyterian, while south of the Tweed he is officially an Episcopalian. His belief in bishops thus depends upon whether he happens to be residing at Windsor or Balmoral.

For some years this quiet monarch was overshadowed, first by his father and then by his son. In their resistance to jazz, to bobbed hair, and to absurdities of dress, and in their rigid boycott of divorce and scandal, the King and Queen were unpopular with the smart set and a subject of smiles among others. It was said that Queen Mary had no conversation and that King George was under her tutelage. The Court was humdrum. It was the Prince of Wales and later the Duchess of York in whom the world was interested.

But gradually a somewhat different estimate of the sovereigns began to pervade the nation and the world. The King was confronted by an extraordinary series of crises. Yet through all these difficulties and dangers, the King and Queen continued their throne, sympathetic, assiduous, tactful and imperturbable. They began to be trusted, and confidence developed into affection.

Of the millions of words published about King George, I can not pretend to have seen everything. Nor has anbody else. But I have fairly full record of his career, and I seem to find one positive hint alone, at any rate in print, of the clue to his immense personal influence. Some years ago he allowed it to be stated that, as a boy, he had promised his mother to read the Bible every day, and that he had kept his promise. That is the source of wisdom which has never failed him.

If King George V had been a Bourdon, living at Versailles, every courier would have witnessed these devotions. But in London there is a home within the palace which is private as any other Englishman's castle. It is in that home where the King and Queen breakfast alone that the Bible is read. It is He who sees in secret that rewards openly.

If King George V has retained his joy in service, his smile, his tenderness to children, and, in a word, his character, it is because day by day the world around him was excluded from a realm within him over which there has reigned Another than he.

It is not so much what a man stands for as what he falls for.

ROCK MILLS

We have had very cold weather the last week and heavy snow falls, which has made the roads very heavy for travelling.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Meldrum of Port Law were visitors last Friday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Pedlar.

Mr. D. Kinnee of Durham made a business trip here last week.

Mrs. Thos. Betts spent a few days the past week at the home of her son, Herb. Betts, 4th line.

Quite a number around here had the flue, but we are pleased to report the most of them are about over it now.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Geo. Hargrave is somewhat worse lately.

There has been no service in the Baptist church here the past two Sundays, owing to the illness of the pastor, Mr. Saunders.

The U.F.O andl U. F. W. O. Clubs held their January meeting on Wednesday last in the Orange Hall, Eugenia.

Mr. Wm. T. Pedlar regrets the fact that he was unable to get out to vote on Monday last, owing to the stormy weather. Mr. Pedlar informs us that he has voted for 49 years in succession at Eugenia. Had he been able to get to vote this year, he would have reached the half century mark. We wonder how many can point to such a record?

LADY BANK

(Last Week's Items)

The heavy rain which fell on Saturday night suddenly caught a cold. Sunday and Monday were the coldest and stormiest days of the season yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Sayers, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Poole, Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Sayers, all of Ravenna, spent New Years with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wilson here.

Master Willie and Fred Patton of Flesherton are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sewell.

Many from this neighborhood have been called to pay the last sad rites of their dearly loved ones the past two weeks. Mr. John Ottewell to the funeral of his eldest sister, Liza, Mrs. Bullock of Collingwood Twp., Mrs. Jno Ottewell to the funeral of her brother, Mr. Geo. Sayers of Rock Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holroyd to the last sad rites of the late Mrs. Geo. Myers of Flesherton, the latter's sister-in-law, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Sample to the bedside of the latter's cousin, Mr. Nathan Veitch of Nottawa village.

Mrs. Melville Douglass received the sad news of the death of her little neice, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tugger of Collingwood at the age of 20 months.

EIGHTH LINE.

We are glad to report the Halley family somewhat improved after their attack of the flu.

Mrs. Geo. Lawler visited with her daughter, Mrs. Neil Thompson, last week, who is ill. We hope to hear of her speedy recovery.

Miss Queenie Kaitting has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Burke.

We are pleased to see Mr. Fred Spofford able to be around again, and hope for his full recovery soon.

Mr. D. A. Winters visited his brother-in-law, Mr. Walter Lawler, who is ill, last week.

We are sorry to learn that Mrs. Moffat has the flu, also Mrs. Murphy and Mr. Burns. We hope to see them around again soon.

SOUTH LINE, ARTEMESIA.

Mrs. Stone has been visiting at Jas. Turner's.

Quite a number are on the sick list with flu.

Mr. and Mrs. James Oliver returned from Toronto after spending a few days there.

There has been no school held since Christmas owing to sickness.

Much sympathy is extended to the Ostrander family in the loss of their father.

Mr. O. Ostrander attended the funeral of his faather, also Mr. and Mrs. Scarlett and Mr. and Mrs. Eckhart.

Miiss Emma Oliver went back to her school on Monday, which had been closed since Christmas.

CARE OF LEATHER

To wet leather is likely to make it shrink, and when it dries it may become brittle and crack. If it has been wet, it should not be dried too quickly in a place which is too warm. It will keep its softness better if dried very slowly. Do not place your damp shoes before a fire. Leather is better preserved if it is rubbed with sweet oil occasionally. Do this for your leather covered chair seats and your leather coat. Your new shoes will not scuff as easily and will wear better if they are polished the first time you wear them and kept well polished as you wear them. If leather is permitted to dry too much, it cracks.

A HEALTH REVIEW

At the beginning of each year, it is customary, in many fields of human endeavour, to review the twelve months which have just passed, to take stock, as it were, and to consider whether or not the year has been a profitable one. It is upon the successes and failures of the past years we base our plans for the future.

It is, therefore, rather an appropriate time for us to review the health conditions of our families as they were during the past year. First of all, we should consider whether or not we have taken those steps which would protect us from certain diseases. Vaccination does prevent smallpox. Have you allowed yourself or your children to be exposed to this disease through failure to use vaccination as a means of protection? Diphtheria can be prevented by diphtheria immunization. Have you allowed this disease to continue as a menace to the very lives of your children by your failure to have them immunized?

Safe water and pure milk are fundamental needs. Contaminated water and dirty milk are still cause of much sickness and many deaths. Have you seen to it that the water, your family drink, and the milk that you use are pure, or do you live with the dangers of impure water and milk hanging over you?

Have you given attention to your home? Are your windows screened to keep out the flies? Do you windows open to allow the proper ventilation? Does the sunshine get into your rooms?

A much larger measure of health is within the grasp of most of us, but we must make the necessary effort to seize it. If you delayed last year, if you were careless in health matters, start off this year by doing the things you should do in order to avoid certain diseases and to lead healthier lives.
