THE OPEN BED-ROOM WINDOW

One of the really striking changes in personal habits which has occurred within recent years is the habit of opening the bed-room window at night.

It is not so many years ago since the windows were closed, with the coming of cold weather. Indeed, many persons stuffed a few cracks around the windows to make sure that no air came in from outside. That was the time when a sick person was protected from cool, fresh air, as if one mouthful of it would cause his death.

We may forget that tuberculosis was the first disease which was fought by education. Other diseases have been fought by police measures, by compulsion. People were forced to improve living and workplaces; they were obliged to install sanitary conveniences; if they suffered from a communicable disease, they weer isolated whether they wished to be or not.

The fight against tuberculosis has not been along this line. In place of force, persuasion, by means of education, was used. The educational work has not been limited to those suffering from tuberculosis, but has extended to all. From the start, the value of fresh air was stressed and we were advised to open our bedroom windows in order to benefit by and enjoy hours of sleep in the fresh air, thus lessening the chances of the occurrences of tuberculosis.

It is true that fresh air, day or night, is good. We know that the old idea of night air being bad is not true. At night, we miss the sunshine; that is the only difference. Those who sleep with bed-room windows open do so because they like it, because, when the windows are open, they sleep better, they feel better and they are better.

The window is, of course, opened with consideration for the temperature and the wind. If a fraction of an inch on a cold windy night allows a slight current of cool air to pass through the room, that is sufficient. Fresh air is one of the valuable things that may be had simply for the effort of taking it.

Keep the bedroom window open.

Frightened Turkey Caused $4,500 Fire

The large barn of Russell Porter at North Keppel with most of the contents were destroyed by fire about 6 o'clock this morning, February 15th. The blaze was plainly visible at Wiarton, a distance of ten miles. The fire was caused by a frightened turkey knocking a lighted lantern from a beam. Mr. Porter and a farmhand endeavoured to beat out the fire with their forks, but, finding this impossible, turned their attention to the stock. They were only able to secure the team of horses and six head of cattle, while some twenty-eight sheep, ten hogs, all his farm implements, and an automobile that was stored in a nearby shed were destroyed by the fire The loss is estimated at $4,500.

Thornbury 'Phone Record

A record for long distance telephone conversation was recorded last Thursday morning by a local branch of the Bell Telephone Company when night operator, Miss R. Keast, started to put through a "call" from one of the rural lines near Heathcote to another rural phone connecting with the telephone office at Regina, Sask. To show how science has quickened speed action, a lapse of only seven minutes occurred between the time Miss Keast put in her call to the next remitting station and the Regina telephone office was reached. The "call" was relayed through Collingwood, Toronto, Chicago, Winnipeg and Regina. At first conversation between the two interested parties at each end of the line was free from interference, but later suffered interruptions due to the breaking in, which frequently occurs on party lines. Calls to New York and Chicago have been more or less frequent, but Regina is the record distance so far for the transmission of the human voice at the local telephone office.—Thornbury Herald.

MISS MACPHAIL AT BUFFALO

Miss Agnes Campbell Macphail, the representative of South Grey in the Dominion parliament, told the Erie County League of Women Voters at Buffalo last Saturday that President Coolidge's armistic day speech urging increased armament is doing much to create hard feelings and mistrusts on the part of Great Britain.

Expressing fear of hostile relations between the United States and Great Britain, Miss Macphail also declared that a high protective tariff on imports in that country is likely to prevent international harmony.

She spoke highly of the Briand-Kellog treaty, but asserted that the president's utterances have done much to weaken its effect.

"As a Canadian," she said "I feel that the whole world owes a debt of gratitude to the country that produced a Woodrow Wilson. We never could understand why his own nation did not back him up in his great idealistic dream of world co-operation. Mr. Kellog is another like Wilson—a splendid man. But we cannot see how the same country that produced a Wilson and a Kellog could produce a Coolidge.

The managers of liquor stores are not allowed to publish the amount of their sales. It has been estimated by a prominent resident of the county town that the sales from the Walkerton store the first year amounted to, approximately, $100,000. The sales from the Wiarton store are fully as high. There's a movement on in certain W.C.T.U. Circles to bring on a vote in this county for the introduction of the Canada Temperance Act. The Provincial Govt. would look on such a movement as a slap at its liquor policy and would strenuously oppose the C. T. A. in Bruce. If the Act should carry could a Federal Govt. which hasn't been over-anxious about stopping rum-running to the United States be depended on to force the C.T.A. in this County?—Chesley Enterprise.

During the past few months there has been held over the province of Ontario several county and district debates on the proposed "Township School Board Bill." While the decision of the judges has been fairly well divided between the affirmative and the negative, The Bill, as yet has not become popular with the people, although it has had some ammendments made from its first debating.

We are inclined to think that it is the intention of the Minister ofEducation to have the Township Board Bill incorporated into our Public School Act of Ontario if the people have nothing better to offer.

While the Hon. Mr. Ferguson has been democratic to the extent that he, after drafting the Bill has withheld it waiting for the ratepayers of this Province to approve, amend, or are they going to, through their representative, at the Easter Convention of the Trustees and Ratepayers Association, show a disapproval, and thereby leave it for the Minister to decide.
