James McComb, who was shot last week near Parry Sound, together with another man, in mistake for a deer it was said, was a brother of Mrs. Geo Fisher of this township. Another brother, younger than James, was also killed this fall in the Sault riots.

Mrs Wm. T. Pedlar of the gravel road east owns the most prolific turkey that has yet come under our notice. The bird has during the past summer laid 121 eggs and only ceased her exertions along that line about a week ago. That is a bird of a bird. She has established a record that will be difficult to beat.

The Advance was misinformed last week regarding the announced sale by Dr. Scott of his practice and property at Maxwell. We thought our information reliable but we have the genial doctor's word that he has not sold, and regret having given publication to what proved to be a false rumor. The Dr. says that should he sell he would think it his duty to notify the public through the press.

Our offer of three papers, two weeklies and a daily, for one dollar and eighty-five cents, is the greatest offer ever heard of in newspaperdom. Will our readers tell their friends about it and let them participate in the windfall now offered. Our own paper, the Montreal Herald and Toronto daily News, only $1.85! Shades of Caxton! How can it be done, you ask? We do it, that's all, and you reap the benefit.

Mr. Joseph Fields of this place has been a member of No. 6 Co., 31st Battalion, for twenty-four years. Last week he received a handsome silver medal, the inscriptions upon which read: "Victoria Regina et Imperatrix." "For long service in the colonial auxiliary forces." "Color Sergeant J. H. Field, 31st regiment." Twenty years service entitles to this medal. Joe has four years to the good.

A citizen desires us to draw the attention of the police trustees to the condition of the high sidewalk just east of the Presbyterian church, where the railing has decayed and fallen away. A lady fell over at this point one night last week and injured herself. A few cents spent now might prevent the necessity of spending a few hundred dollars in future law costs or damages.

The saying "In olden times the men went out with powder in their guns to hunt deer, but now the ('dear') deer comes out with powder on its face to hunt a man," was really practiced on Mr. George Lawler, of the 8th line, Artemesia, Saturday, when a deer came out of Pedlar's swamp and followed him for about 60 yards up the road and then took to the fields again. Mr. Lawler did not have a gun or he would have made the deer pay dear for its fun.

Two foreigners made an interesting hour among our merchants on Friday, on whom they tried to work a little flim-flam game. In all cases with one exception, their scheme was a failure. They succeeded in getting fifteen dollars from R. Trimble without giving an equivalent. Trimble succeeded in getting a citizen interested in his loss to an extent that he collared the Jew and made him give up the money. Later the pair were run out of town. Nearly every business man has a little experience to narrate of the peculiarities of the two gents.

Mr. Sydney Schofield, 226 Carlton st., Toronto, was recently united in marriage to Miss Stella Martin at 209 Parliament street. Rev. M. L. Pearson of Berkeley street Methodist church, performed the ceremony, the bridegroom being attended by Mr. A. D. Savage, of Guelph. Miss Jennie Martin, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. The bride's dress was of white silk with train and veil, that of the bridesmaid being of blue crepe de chine with applique trimmings. The happy couple were the recipients of many costly gifts, and after receiving congratulations took the train for Montreal, then to Flesherton, where they will spend their honeymoon, visiting the bride's aunt, Mrs. A. Wilson.

The directors of the public library are making a canvas of the town this week for members, with the object of placing this valuable institution on a solid basis once more. There are about thirteen hundred volumes in our library. It would be a lasting disgrace if allowed to go to the wall. We believe there are a few citizens who will refuse to put up the small membership fee of 50 cents. Of course there are always few in every community who never read anything or attempt to store their mind with knowledge, and who consequently cannot see any good in a library, but they form a very small percentage of the community. Even to this clase we would appeal on the score of benevolence and loyalty to the town institutions. There are at least a hundred members wanted if the library is to be continued.

A subscriber to a farmer's paper asked this question: "At what times and under what circumstances may a farmer shoot stray dogs on his premises?" The answer the paper gives to this question is as follows, and it would be well for owners of dogs to bear it in mind: "He may kill any that he finds astray between sunset and sunrise on his farm if sheep are kept thereon, unless such dog be securely muzzled or accompanied by or in reasonable call or control of the person having it in charge. Even in such case the dog may be killed if there is reasonable apprehension on the part of the farmer that such dog if not killed is likely to wound or worry sheep or lambs then on his farm. He may also kill any dog which he sees pursuing, worrying or without lawful permission to any enclosed field on his farm and found by him to be giving tongue and terrifying any sheep or lamb thereon
