"Where Quality is Higher Than Price"

A Real Holiday

The season has come when many people are preparing for their summer holiday. There is no question but that a rest, a change of environment a period spent chiefly out of doors at play, and a release from the usual responsibilities and routine of work are all good for everybody. It is not intended to suggest a rountine of life for the holiday; in fact, the release from doing things by the clock is, in itself, a relaxation, and this appeals to many as the most desirable part of the holiday. However, it is foolish not to give some consideration to a few things, which if overlooked, may result in the holidays developing the aspects of a calamity.

Water in the country, water at summer resorts will, if contaminated, spread disease — particularly typhoid fever—just as readily as will water in a town or city. When selecting a summer resort, or when renting a cottage or site for a camp, find out whether or not the water is pure. You cannot judge to this from the appearance of the water. Water may be clear, cold and sparkling, and may still be impure and dangerous. The only way to be sure is to have the water examined. Your provincial health department will do this for you. Write and ask them how to take and send in a sample. Do this bfore you establish yourself at a summer resort.

Milk in the country, despite popular belief, is generally not safe. Do not use milk unless you know that it is safe. Visit the farm from which it comes, see for yourself if the cows are kept in a cleanly way, and how the milk is handled, and then decide for yourself if the conditions rae satisfactory. We would advise that, at least for children, all milk used be pasturized. There is no object in taking precautions all the year round, and then allowing children to be exposed during vacation. You cannot tell from his appearance if the farmer is a disease carrier. You cannot tell from appearance whether or not the farmer's well, the water which he uses, is safe. The most practical safeguard is to boil or pasteurize the milk.

Upon request, instructions as to pasteurization in the home will be supplied.

CAR DITCHED

A peculiar car accident was experienced by a Dundalk motorist on Sunday just outside the suburbs. The car was occupied by two young men and a young woman. For some reason, which can only be guessed at, the car shot off the road down a three-foot bank into a marshy spot. The front axle was bent, a spring broken, and other minor injuries sustained by the coupe, but the occupants got off with only injured feelings and disarranged nerves. The car was brought to Brack's Garage on it hind legs by a trouble truck.
