A SCOTTISH INVESTIGATION

For the past few years, the Board of Health of Scotland has been carryng on an investigation in regard to the nutriton of school children. In the school of seven centres selected for the study, the children were divided into groups. The objective was to ascertain whether or not the children who received a daily ration of milk would show an improvement in health greater than those who did not receive the milk, or those who received a biscuit only.

The result was that the children receiving milk were, after a time, found to be twenty per cent. heavier and taller than those not receiving milk. There was, in other words, a decided improvement in growth. The general health of many of the milk ration group was noticeably better. This improvement was not temporary, for they have contined to improve while the milk ration was maintained during a second period of investigation.

This is not the only investigation of the kind that has been made Other studies of a similiar nature, in many countries, have shown that, during the growing years milk as an article of diet is essential. The need and value of miln cannot be too strongly emphasized because we have no substitute for it.

The practical lesson for parents and those in charge of children is to see to it that their children are not being handicapped through the lack of milk in the diet. Milk is not a complete diet for school children, but no diet is complete without milk.

Milk may be used in many ways. It is not necessary that it be drunk. It may be taken on cereals and other foods; it may be used in cocoa, in milk pudings or in any other similiar manner. It need hardly be said that safe, pure milk only should be used, and that means milk from healthy cows, produced in a cleanly manner and then pasteurized.

Letter From Miss A. C.Macphail, M.P.

Jefferson City, Missouri,
July 16th, 1929.

Our routine a few days ago sent us through Springfield, Illinois. We stopped over to visit Lincoln's tomb. The taxi driver didn't know where it was; truly "a prophet hath honor save in his own country." With little difficulty we found the park in the centre of which is the tomb—on a round flat topped base sits the huge figure of the Great Lincoln—the base is really a building filled with books, magazines and pictures of Lincoln. At the back is the vault with the casket. A wreath had been recently placed by Herbert Hoover.

We saw a letter written in October 1860 by a little twelve year old girl; Grace Bedell, to Lincoln. Grace was an ardent Republican. A campaign was on. A picture of Lincoln enclosed by a split rail fence was sent around, one came to the Bedell home and Grace was upset by the teasing of her brothers and playmates over the homely features of her hero, so she wrote and suggested that he grow whiskers and promised if he would that she would do her best to get her two democratic brothers to vote for him. She added "I think the fence is really pretty." If he were too busy to write to her Grace asked that he get his little girl to do it for him.

Abe Lincoln was in the throes of a general election for the Presidency of the United States but he answered that letter by hand on October 19th, 1860, beginning, "Your very agreeable letter of the 15th received" that he had never worn whiskers and people might think it silly affectation if he did, but he thanked her for her interest in him Later he visited her town, askedher and kissed her with thousands of people looking on, to her very great confusion, but he did grow the whiskers and improve his looks thereby.

Lincoln has been one of my ideals so the Springfield visit meant much to me.

For a week now I have been in wheat and corn of Illinois and Missouri, speaking every day on "Uncle Sam and Jack Canuck." Many, perhaps most of the people in my audience, knew little of Canada before. Some have visited Canada but their general ideas about our country are pretty hazy. They give me a free hand to discuss trade, tariff, prohibition or anything I like. The farm audiences want to know more about the wheat pool, the farm organization, the national railway, etc. The people are so friendly, I like them, and they have a free and easy manner. In shops, trains, everywhere, men go in their shirt sleeves, it is so hot.

Corn is the principal crop, oats second. The corn that will ripen is now so tall that the horses backs just show above it but the silage corn is only a few inches high. The land around Princetown and Bloomington, Ill., sells from $200 to $300 per acre, the farmers are heavily in debt to the mortgage loan companies and the banks.

We had breakfast yesterday in the City of St. Louis. Big cities and this heat are a poor combination. To-day we are in Jefferson City the capitol city of Missouri, the home of Thomas Jefferson, third president of United States. My room faces the grounds of the Governor's Mansion This morning we visited the capitol, a beautiful white building fashioned after the Federal Capitol in Washington. It stands on the banks of the Missouri the grounds going to the water's edge. The House of Representatives or Lower House has one hundred and fifty members the Senate or Upper House has thirty-four. There is one woman in the Lower House.

Honey dew melons, blackberries and cream, hot corn bread, fried chicken and iced tea fortify me against the heat and constant travelling.

—A. C. Macphail.

THE MAN AND MOTOR

An old and periodically recurring question has cropped up again, "Should the motorist stop and give a lift to anyone who signals him?"

A correspondent who writes that in some ten years of motoring, he has never, under any reasonable circumstances, refused a lift when it has been asked for, complained that when, the other day, he tried to obtain a lift himself — to the nearest garage, his car having developed engine trouble.

As this trouble ocurred on the highway betwen Humber Bay and Mimico, there was plenty of cars passing, but after signalling to over seventy cars it was half an hour before a kindly truck driver came along and towed him to the nearest garage.

"Is the courtesy of ther oad dead? he asked me somewhat theatrically," and is the spirit of brotherhood which used to exist between motorists deceased? Or is there any reasonable explanation of why seventy presumably decent motorists should refuse to stop at the signal of a fellow motorist obviously in trouble?"

NOTICE—Will all those who have room reservation for Old Home Week please communicate with G. B. Welton. Even those with one room will be welcome.

IS IT WORTH WHILE?

Is is worth while for Canada to save $22,000,000 each year which sum is a moderate estimate of the money value of the infant lives lost each year in this country?

It is difficult to place money value upon human life, because, in the first place, it seems a cold and heartless thing to do. We rather resent the fact that anyone should think of our own children as having a dollar value. Then there are such human elements as mother-love expended upon a child which are beyond any measure of value.

If, however, we think of the question in an impersonal way, we do find certain interesting facts. It requires money to feed, house, clothe and educate a child. There is, as it were, an amount of money invested in every child. When a child grows to be an adult and begins to earn money he then becomes an asset, and to the extent that he earns more than is required for his bare living he is paying dividends upon the money invested in him.

An eminent American statistician, taking these points into consideration has found that the value of a child at birth is over $9,000. This sum invested would bring in the money required to rear the child and the net income of his earning years.

Upon this basis which we believe is sound and reasonable, we find that the twenty-two thousand babies who die each year in Canada have an economic value of over $22,000-000. This represents a drain upon our national resources to an extent which justifies national consideration.

Public Health work is not a matter of sentiment; it is esentially the expenditure of reasonable sums of money along certain established lines of proven value. Public Health work pays a dividend far beyond what it paid on any other investment. At least one-half of the $22,000,000 now lost each year can be saved through providing the necessary public health services. Is it worth while?
