Grey County Boys Win Judging Seeds

The team representing Grey County won 4th place in the Inter-County Seed Judging Competition held at Guelph Winter Fair. Twenty counties competed with sixty boys taking part. Victoria County won first place with a score of 1224. The Grey County boys scored 1190 out of 1500.

The members of the team were Douglas Hammond of Thornbury, who won 3rd place in aggregate score, and 2nd place in weeds and seed identification, with a score of 95 out of 100; Wm. Clugston of Heathcote, who won 2nd place in Oat Judging with a score of 98 out of 100; and Hunter Mackey of Thornbury.

The Grey County team have made a very creditable showing this year besides winning 4th place in the Inter County Seed Judging Contest against twenty teams at Guelph, they won 7th place in Livestock Judging against twenty-four teams and 13th place at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto against thirty-four teams.

The teams were chosen by the Department of Agriculture at Markdale from the winners at the Annual County Competition held at Markdale last July. They were coached by Frank Dench, Assistant Representative for Grey County.

It is of interest to note that two of the members of the team are boys who attended the short course held at Clarksburg last year. Courses are being held this winter at Owen Sound, January 6th to 30th, and Hanover, February 3rd to 28th. All boys in these districts are urged to take advantage of the training in Agriculture which will be given at these special courses.

Championship in Draught Horses Goes to Grey County Farmer.

Against keen competition at the Provincial Winter Fair at Guelph, Model Prince, a splendid animal, shown by Lawrence Legate of Meaford, won the championship for draught horses. Mr. Legate won 1st and 2nd in Mare or Gelding class over 1600 pounds, foaled previous to 1926 He also won 1st on team mares or geldings over 3200 pounds.

Information and News of The Busy Farmer

NEW USE FOR BARLEY

Until recently the use of barley on the farm was restricted to the feeding of live stock. In Germany, however, barley is used for a multitude of purposes. Millions of bushels yearly are used in the manufacture of malt coffee. Besides this an enormous quantity of the grain is used in the manufacture of bread, breakfast foods, biscuits infant and invalid preparations, tonics, condiments and food preserves. In view of this, it would seem that barley is destined to occupy a position of increasing importance in all farm rotations that may be devised with a view to obtaining some relief from the weed scourge.

CANADIAN HOGS IMPROVE

The gradual increase in the number of select bacon hogs indicates two things, namely: better breeding stock and more attention to rations. Competition conducted last summer show that there is a very good profit over the cost of feed if the pigs are bred right and have the necessary feeds in the right proportion. Although Danish bacon still brings a higher price than Canadian on the British market,the quality of our bacon is constantly improving and prospects are that with the improvements that have already been taking place, the time is not far distant when Canadian bacon will be on an equal with that of any country in the world.

COST OF YEARLING HEIFERS

Fifty dollars may be regarded as a high price to pay for a yearling heifer, but if she has been reared this far in a manner to give her proper development, this price is little enough. Indeed when the costs are all taken into consideration there is no profit in selling a 12 emonth old heifer at fifty dollars. This has been proved by an actual computation of the cost of feed consumed by heifers of Ayrshire, Holstein and Shorthorn breeding from birth to one year of age. It showed that the year's growth had been produced at a cost of $46.04 per head for feed, the calves weighing an average of 633 pounds at the end of that period.

POULTRY AND POTATOES

Small unmerchantable potatoes may very profitably be fed to poultry. An experiment to compare boiled potatoes with corn meal in the laying mash showed that the potato-fed hens did even better than when corn meal was used. Each group was fed a scratch mixture of two parts of cracked corn, two parts wheat, and one part oats. One group received a dry mash containing equal parts of wheat bran, corn meal, wheat middlings and crushed oats mixed with boiled potatoes. The proportions fed were two parts potatoes and one part mash. Each group received charcoal grit, milk, green feed and water. Both egg production and hatching results showed an advantage in the case of the potato fed poultry.

York County is reputed to have more great young Jersey bulls than any other county in America. One reason is that there are three Bagg herds in the county and for two decades only outstanding sires have been used in these herds. Production combined with show ring quality is considered essential, therefore sires are selected only from families known both in the show ring and at the pail.

MARTIN BIRDS WON

White Wyandottes owned by Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, scored several notable victories at the recent Chicago Poultry Show. In keen competition they captured the "best display" award in their class. The complete list of winnings by the Martie birds were as follows: 1st., 2nd and 4th cockerels; 1st, 3rd and 4th old hens; and 2nd and 3rd young pens. A total of 46 birds were entered by Hon. Mr. Martin, who had not shown at Chicago for three years.

BARN FIRED BY INCENDIARY

What appears to have been a dastardly attempt by someone unknownto burn the fine new steel barn of Mr. Milton M. Hogarth on the 7th concession of Arran Township,was made and frustrated on Sunday evening about 8 o'clock. The family with the exception of a son, Irwin, was attending church, and Mr. Stanley McMullen, in passing in his car noticed a flare through the window in the barn. Looking more intently he saw it was a fire, and lost no time in running to the house and giving the alarm. The fire was in the stable, and was creeping up the stairway to the floor above. With the aid of a fire extinguisher the blaze was put out. On later making investigations, a man's foot prints were found leading from the barn to the road, where a car had been parked, and the tracks of the car showed that it had gone east. McMullen claims to have passed a car a short distance from Hogarth's barn, which was travelling very fast. The affair is being investigated by the police.—Walkerton Herald-Times.

The wise shopper buys early, avoids the rush, has the greatest variety of goods to choose from.

"Hello! Hello! Is this you, Mac?"
"Aye."
"Is this Mac MacPherson I,m talking to?"
Aye; spe'kin."

"All right. I'll tell him as soon as he comes in."

Bought Fine Home

Recently Mr. V. A. Ellis was offered a fine position as head of the Vocational School of the Delta Collegiate Institute in Hamilton. After careful consideration he decided to remain with the Board of Education here, his position here having many advantages while his relations with the Board of Education are highly satisfactory. Having decided to remain in Collingwood he has since purchased the home in which he lives from Miss Leach, who recently went to Hamilton. This is a modern home, with all necessary appointments, conveniently situated, not only to the Collegiate but to the business section of the town. That he will remain in Collingwood is a matter of good news to his friends. While recognized as a teacher with a high standing he is also a valuable citizen, his work amongst the boys being especially commendable. —Collingwood Bulletin.

Edmund Wragge, chief construction engineer of the old narrow gauge, Credit Valley and Toronto-Owen Sound railway, died last week at his home in Toronto at the age of 92 years. His activities in connection with the early days of the present Owen Sound C. P. R. branch will be remembered by old residents of this district.
