Industrial Home News

The crops on this property are in excellent condition, with prospects of a bountiful yield. The hay crop was exceedingly good, but the housing has been unavoidably delayed in consequence of the barn not being ready for its storage; however, it will be under cover before these items appear, weather permitting.

We are glad to state that our worthy superintendent is progressing nicely. The splints have been removed from the limb, which is now encased in plaster of paris. He is able to leave his bed for a few hours daily and expects to be able to move about with the aid of crutches by the end of the present week.

On Thursday last the courteous matron and her amiable daughter were kept busy in showing the large number of visitors through the institution, several of whom were obliged to leave without the privilege, owing to their late arrival. Intending visitors are requested to bear in mind that 4 o'clock p.m. is the hour for closing the institution to the public. The duties of the matron and her assistant in another part of the institution renders this rule imperative. Visitors are cordially invited and courteously attended.

Among the visitors on Thursday last were, Mrs. P. Holman, Mrs. H. Flesher and Mrs. W. Clayton, Flesherton; Mr. Henry Holman, Portlaw; Mr. and Mrs. H. Stone, Stone's line; Mr. Edmund Williams, Holland Centre; Mr. Hemstock, Chatsworth; Miss Fletcher, new York state, and others. On Friday a large number of ladies and gentlemen of Owen Sound availed themselves of the excursion to Markdale and visited the home, among whom might be mentioned Mr. Wright, warder of Castle Miller, and 25 others. It is pleasing to note that the remarks in the visitors' book reflect great credit on the management.

Mr. Caswell of Jackson spent Friday and part of Saturday with the superintendent and his family.

There have been three male admissions since last writing, the total now being nine male and three, not four, females as previously stated.

In a former article I intimated that the inmates of this house were under no unreasonable restraint. The following is a condensed form of the rules to be observed, and I feel assured that everyone will voice my sentiments by admitting that any inmate who cannot or will not cheerfully comply with them is not worthy of so comfortable a home:

RULES—At the ringing of the morning bell the inmates (sick and those in confinement excepted) must rise, wash and be in readiness for work.—The bell will ring ten minutes before each meal, the inmates will leave work, be in readiness with clean hands and face for the ringing of the second bell, when they will take their places at the dining-room table where they will observe silence, decency and good order. At the ringing of the slow bell after meals, the inmates shall repair to work. No inmate shall be allowed to loiter about the kitchen, no food or provisions (regular meals excepted) shall be carried to any part of the house without the consent of the manager or matron, nor shall any cooking be done except in the kitchen. No inmate shall exchange or trade clothing, or beg of those who visit them. All inmates shall diligently perform such task as allotted them by the manager, unless otherwise excused. Any inmate guilty of drunkenness, immorality, disobedience, obscenity, disorderly conduct, profane or indecorous language, theft, waste, or who shall absent themselves from the premises without permission, or be guilty of injuring or defacing any part of the house or furniture, shall be punished as the case may seem to demand. In cases of solitary confinement, no person except the manager or other person employed to supply their wants, shall have access to or hold conversation with the prisoners. The food of such prisoners shall consist of bread and water, unless otherwise ordered by the manager or House physician. Any inmate having surreptitious communication with a prisoner subjects himself to a like imprisonment. No inmate shall go beyond the limits of the Industrial farm without permission from the manager. The Sabbath day shall be strictly observed, no irreligious diversion or unnecessary labor be indulged in. The inmates shall assemble for divine worship (except those excused) at the ringing of the bell, dressed in clean apparel, in the instruction room and shall behave themselves with decency and sobriety; no noise or disturbance during religious exercises will be tolerated in any part of the House. All persons wilfully or improperly absenting themselves from the place of meeting, or violating the Sabbath day, subject themselves to prompt and severe punishment. All persons aggrieved may prefer their complaints to "Standing Committee, House of Refuge," when they visit the House, or to a member of the County Council. In the case of an aged married couple who are admitted to the House, the manager, with the concurrence of the physician, may allot to them the same sleeping apartment. At 9 o'clock p.m. the retiring bell shall ring, when the inmates must secure the fires, put out the lights and retire to their beds in their respective apartments.

PENALTIES.—Any inmate who shall wilfully commit any breach or infringement of the rules of the House, or refuse to obey any legitimate order of the superintendent, matron, or physician, may be dealt with by any Justice of the Peace for the County of Grey on complaint of the manager or physician, and sentenced to a fine of not less than fifty cents, or exceeding five dollars with or without costs. In the event of non-payment and where no distress can be found out of which such fines can be levied, the J. P. may sentence the delinquent to imprisonment in the county gaol for a period not exceeding twenty days. All fines are to be paid to the county treasurer, credited to the maintenance account and form part of the said corporation of the County of Grey.

A copy of the rules and regulations are placed in each room for the guidance of the inmates.

Mr. Guy Pickell, editor of the Dundalk Herald, accompanied by Mr. Rutledge of the Standard, were among the visitors o last week.
