The Huron-Ontario

A meeeing of directors of the Huron-Ontario electric Railway was held in Walkerton on Friday last, when considerable important business was transacted in the way of getting affairs into shape. Mr. May's option had expired, but in view of the favourable report his time was extended until next June. Ten thousand dollars has been subscribed—$5000 to make preliminary survey and $5000 to guarantee bonds for fifteen miles of the line, the construction of this link to be begun before next June, and to be between Flesherton and Walkerton or Flesherton and Meaford, at option of the contractor. The capitalists interested consist of seven Canadians and three New Yorkers, and these also represent English capital. There is already a strong demand for the bonds of this road, and a certain trust company has made an offer to guarantee the bonds. There is now a strong optimistic spirit among the provisional directors, and the general impression is that the road will be built in the very near future.

Peter Patterson, one of the pioneers in the implement business died recently at his summer home at Patterson, in Vaughan township. Years ago, Mr. Patterson was known all over the province as the manufacturer of Patterson ploughs. He is eighty years of age. His remains were taken to Westfield, N. Y. for interment.

One serious aspect of the school question in this province is the decline in the percentage of male teachers. In 1862 the teachers of the province were, males seventy-one per cent., females twenty-nine percent. In 1902, forty years later, there were males, twenty-six per cent., and it is a fact that to-day there are only thirteen male teachers in the Normal schools of the province qualifying themselves for higher certificates.

Last week while Mr. Louis Bartlett was breaking up some large lime stone blocks on his farm which is situated on the lake shore road he discovered the formation of a stone pitcher in the centre of one of them. The exposed portion of the pitcher is perfectly formed and looks as if it had been turned or carved with fine tools. Whether it belongs to a prehistoric race or is only a freak formation remains for geologists to discover. Local authorities are confident that the discovery is an important one. The stone is now on exhibition at G. McLean's jewellery store.—Collingwood Enterprise.

The excursionists from Harriston and intermediate points to Niagara Falls on Thursday last had an exciting experience. The train was about fifty minutes late in leaving Orangeville, and the engineer started off determined to make up time before reaching Toronto Making the sharp curves before reaching the horseshoe the train rocked violently throwing the passengers out of their seats, and splitting the floor of the second front car its full length. Many thought the last two cars would be twisted off the rails. The passengers were put in another car and given a safe but fast trip to Toronto. About fifty tickets were sold at Grand Valley.—Grand Valley Star.
