Mauled by a Bull

Mr. Wesley Buskin of the west back line had an extremely narrow escape from a horrible death by an enraged bull one day last week and an experience which will last him for a good long lifetime. He had taken the animal out for exercise, holding it with the usual ring and bull stick, when the brute suddenly showed signs of anger and tried to gore its owner. Mr. Buskin held it off for some time, but in the struggle the stick became detached and the enraged brute was upon him in an instant. He managed to grab the ring in the animal's nose and exerted his full strength to hold the beast at bay. The animal tossed him in the air several times and finally got him down and again attempted to gore him, one horn passing on each side of his breast. Again he managed to get to his feet, still holding the ring and all the time lustily calling for help. Gradually he was backed against the barn, where the furious beast once more got its horns planted, one on each side of his body, against the boards, and pushed as though it imagined it had found a vital spot. About this time Mr. R. Waller, who was passing, hearing the cries rushed to Mr. Buskin's assistance and the beast was secured and placed in its stall. Assistance arrived just in the nick of time as Mr. Buskin's strength was about exhausted. His clothing was considerably torn and body bruised and he spat blood for some little time after the ordeal, but is about fully recovered once more. Mr. Buskin says he is done with the animal for good and will dispose of it. It was a nightmare which he never wishes to have repeated, and his escape from an agonizing death was almost a miracle. The beast had not shown signs of viciousness before. It was of the Hereford variety

Quite a number from here attended the ten-day meeting near Heathcote on Sunday last.

Two hundred dollars was paid by Mr. Ewens to Mr. Charley Henry for a draught colt two years old. It was an exchange of good price for a good horse. The colt weighs 1560 lbs.—Banner.

H. L. Tar Bush of Angus has struck a flowing well on his property. Mr. Kitchen, who drilled the well mentioned next undertook to drill a well for Mrs Doherty of the same village, and at the depth of sixty feet drilled through a sound basswood log. The question now agitating the people of Angus, how the log got there.

Noble's store at Badjeros was entered by Burglars on Monday night of last week. The thieves only got $1.00 in the till and some stamps from the post office. They then went up stairs into Mr. Noble's room and took his pants, coat and vest. They dropped the pants on the stairs but took away the coat and vest. A gold watch was in the vest pocket and they took it with them—Free Press.

There is some misunderstanding regarding the value of entrance certificates. At present the entrance certificates granted by the board of examiners of any city or country, are accepted by any high school in the province as the examination papers are all the same. The certificates are also given as official recognition that although attendance at school under fourteen years is compulsory the possession of an entrance certificate by a child of earlier age absolves him from further compulsory attendance.

John Wanamaker says: If there is one enterprise on earth that a 'quitter' should leave severely alone, it is advertising. To make a success of advertising one must be prepared to stick to it like a barnacle on a boat's bottom. He should know before he begins it that he must spend money—lots of it. Somebody must tell him, also, that he cannot hope to reap results commensurate with his expenditure early in the game. Advertising doesn't jerk; it pulls. It begins very gently at first, but the pull is steady. It increases day by day, and year by year, until it exerts an irresistible power."—Judicious Advertising

On Thursday night a C. P. R. westbound freight, while running at a high speed, ran into a herd of cattle at a road crossing eight miles west of Harriston, killing and throwing them in all directions. The engine was turned over into the ditch. Driver MacInerry was badly cut about the head and otherwise injured, and Fireman Newman had his left leg broken at the ankle. The cars were piled upon the track, and the night express was laid up there until the anxiliary got the track cleared on Friddaymorning, the passengers being cared for at the hotels by the company.—Grand Valley Star.

Solicitor Dyre of Thornbury has notified County Clerk Rutherford that, acting for a Mr. and Miss Lougheed, he claimed damages for injuries received on the Heathcote bridge between Collingwood and Euphrasia townships, as a result of loose planks. Both parties received more or less serious injuries, while the horse and buggy also suffered in the runaway that resulted. The clerk has referred the matter to the warden, who in return has sent the letter to Mr. Neil McColman, in whose division the accident occurred.—O. S. Times.
