The fever patients mentioned last week are all convalescing nicely and no new cases have to be chronicled. There are rumors through the country that these were typhoid cases, but such is not the fact. It was a slow intermittent fever as we stated last week.

Master Arnold Thurston accidentally upset a pot of boiling water on his foot the other day. He is not attending school this week as a consequence—attending to plasters and poultices is a more urgent occupation just now.

Mr. A. R. Fawcett, of the Toronto Junction Leader and Recorder, whose going away was chronicled last week from the Toronto World, returned to the Junction on Tuesday, of last week, to face his difficulties. A meeting of his creditors had been called for that day, at which it was decided to continue the business under a board of management, one member of which is Mrs. Fawcett herself. Mr. Fawcett's many friends in Flesherton expressed deep regret at the circumstaces revealed and continue to hope that he may yet come out on top.

A meeting of ratepayers was called by the Flesherton school trustees on Wednesday evening of last week to discuss the putting in of a steam heating apparatus at the school. The turnout was small, probably showing that the electors have faith in the trustees doing what is right in the matter. Those present were agreeable to putting in the system and authorized the trustees by resolution to go ahead. Consequently the trustees have let a contract to F. G. Karstedt to put in a Gurney steam heating plant, which will be placed immediately in readiness for the winter.

Speaking of Mr. Ranton's lecture, "From bar-room to pulpit," which will be given in the Methodist church on Saturday evening, Hon. W. W. Wood of Camden, N. J., says; "The writer has heard noted temperance orators all over the country in the course of his travels, but never witnessed a more dramatic or thrilling incident than when Mr. Ranton, after demonstrating how a grist mill takes grain as its raw material and converts it into flour, thus increasing its value, then have a band of boys to arise and pointing to them said: 'There is the raw material of the gin mill.'"

The election trial held in Owen Sound last week was not completed owing to the fact that the judges had other election cases to hear this week. The North Grey matter was therefore adjourned and Mr. McKay still holds his seat. Some crooked work was brought to light but agency was not established. The Sault election, where there was a veritable carnival of crime, has been voided, Mr. Smith, the member, being compelled to pay all costs. Several individuals will lose their franchise and one was heavily fined. Mr. Ross's majority is now only one.

The special meetings being held by Evangelist Ranton continue to attract large crowds, the seating capacity of the churches being taxed to their fullest extent, and continually growing. The spiritual interest is also wonderfully increasing and large numbers are deciding for the higher life. Mr. Ranton will be here this and next week, when he goes to the Collier street Methodist church, at Barrie. On Saturday evening of this week he will deliver his lecture, "From barroom to pulpit," when admission will be by ticket with no admission fee—merely a collection. When a young man Mr. Ranton tended bar two years in Barrie and Owen Sound. He says the man behind the bar is just as good as the one who stands before the bar and drinks, and he intends to prove it. On account of sickness near the church the meetings for the past week have been held in the Presbyterian church, but for the balance of this week the Methodist edifice will seat the crowd.

A Boy's Costly Freak

A young boy living near Feversham had a costly experience the other day, which contained a large amount of the ludicrous, and cost him dear. The lad rode his bicycle to a back field in order to bring home a colt, but in order to make the trip home more pleasant and prevent the necessity of walking and leading both colt and bicycle he attached the halter to the wheel and mounted it, thinking the colt would lead all right. But it didn't. It objected to being led by anything on two wheels. It bolted and the boy hadn't time to untie or cut the halter. The colt swung that wheel helter skelter and the strap held. The colt ran faster and the bicycle flapped in the wind like a union jack in a cyclone. When the colt got got through waving that bicycle there was a sorry heap of useless scrap iron and a more sorry boy.
